

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 1.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET. FOR PRESIDENT, WILLIAM JENKINS BRYAN, Of Nebraska. FOR VICE PRESIDENT, ADLAI E. STEVENSON, Of Illinois. FOR GOVERNOR, J. C. W. BECKHAM, Of Nelson County. FOR CONGRESS, HON. D. H. SMITH, Of LaRue County.

WHAT the organs of assassination are doing for Yontsey, Taylor, Finley and Powers' "cat's paw," is a plenty.

CANT "Gov." Taylor be coaxed across the river to testify against Yontsey and help his dearest friends and co-conspirators out.

THE Republican speculators are worse in the eyes of the Porto Ricans than the Spanish friars. There was a squint at legality in the former extortion, but what of the latter?

A CALL for an extra session of the General Assembly of Kentucky to consider a modification of the present election law, will, it is said, be made by Gov. Beckham within a few days. The extra session will likely meet about the first of September.

HON. CHARLES K. WHEELER, representative in Congress from the First district, will address the voters of Ohio county at the courthouse on Monday, August 6th. Mr. Wheeler is one of the youngest and strongest men in Congress and a public speaker of rare ability. We hope the citizens of Ohio county of all parties will give him a hearing commensurate with the charming speech he is sure to make.

If there ever was a time that all Democrats should put their shoulders to the wheel and work for the success of their ticket, it is now. They are not only confronted here at home by the rule or ruin policy of the Republican party, but are confronted in National Politics by the imperial policy of the leaders of this party, which can but result in dire disaster to our Republican form of Government if allowed to run its course.

GEORGE F. WEAVER, of Denver, Colo., testified at Georgetown last Friday that he saw the gun barrel protruding from the Secretary of State's office window at the time Senator Goebel was shot and saw it drawn from the window. This together with the Western Union boy's statement is certainly conclusive evidence that the shot was fired from the office window of the Secretary of State, Caleb Powers, this together with the evidence of Culton, Golden and Noaks, all of whom are Republicans, certainly makes out a very damaging case against Powers.

The citizens of Centertown will organize a Liberty Club the first Saturday night in August. This is indeed the proper move for all liberty loving citizens to take, and Centertown is a good place for this work to begin. It is to be hoped that this "Liberty Club," in organizing, will state in their by-laws or resolutions, whether they are for "Government" by assassination, or by "the courts of our land." If these people are really for "Civil Liberty" we would like to see the resolutions they would adopt endorsing President McKinley for his action in directing "Uncle Sam" to pay the salaries now being paid to foreign slaveholders thus endorsing slavery.

THE CASE MADE OUT. In another column we publish today some of the horrible details of the plot which culminated in the murder from ambush of Gov. Wm. Goebel January 30th last. If human testimony can be relied upon, it has been made certain by the evidence adduced in the trial of Caleb Powers at Georgetown that the murder of this man was the consummation of a plot to assassinate him, which was formed and carried to its successful issue by W. S. Taylor, Caleb Powers, Yontsey, Golden, and the other conspirators who have been named by the witnesses.

It has been told by these men, several of whom were themselves parties to the plot, how the conspirators carefully and accurately planned every detail of the horrible affair, the leaders declaring that Goebel must be killed to save the Republican party in this State.

For hours before the shot was fired the man, Taylor, then acting Governor, had the State militia under arms at the State Arsenal two squares away, awaiting his orders to surround the Executive building and protect from arrest by the civil officers the perpetrators of this brutal crime. In two minutes after the fatal shot was fired telegrams were upon the wires at Frankfort sent out by Taylor's henchmen calling all the State militia to Frankfort to aid in the escape of the murderers.

No stronger case was ever made out in Kentucky against any slayer of his fellow man than has been made against Powers and his associates. It cannot be said by Republicans, some of whom make the fatal mistake of trying to shield these murderers, that the testimony was obtained by any means save by the coercive processes of the law or was colored against the defendant by political bias. Of the sixty-seven witnesses heard for the prosecution sixty-five of them were white and two colored; sixty-two were men and five women; and if politics should be said to have anything to do with the conduct of a witness sworn to tell the truth, then it should be noted, that of the accusers of Caleb Powers and his fellow conspirators fifty-one were Republicans and only fourteen were Democrats and eighteen of these who testified were employees of Mr. Taylor's government at the time of the murder and it is true that the strongest testimony is from among this eighteen.

It is to the lasting credit of many Republican people in this State that in their hearts they utterly abhor the leaders of the party who planned and carried out this foul assassination. They do not endorse it and they cannot be made to do so by resolution or otherwise. They will not vote to approve this method of settling political differences or civil law suits.

LOUISVILLE AND THE K. P. A. The thirty-first annual meeting of the Kentucky Press Association in Louisville last week was a complete and happy success. Nearly every newspaper in the State was represented in the gathering, which was a large one. From the time the body was called to order by Vice President R. W. Brown (in the absence of President J. H. Westover) in the Board of Trade building, until the final trolley ride to Senning's Park and other places, the meeting was one round of pleasure and good cheer. The welcome address of Mayor Weaver was a warm and happy one. He said he had given orders to those interested with guarding the peace and liberties of the city that get everything they wanted, and certainly this admonition was carried out to an overflowing measure. The people of Louisville certainly did themselves proud upon this occasion, for the newspaper men and ladies never met with more hearty courtesies or considerate entertainment. Everything was provided with a consideration and evident anticipation that the welfare of the visitors.

The banquet at Fountain Ferry Park was an ideal entertainment of its kind. The seven-course dinner with accompanying refreshments was the occasion of much good cheer. The immense silver loving-cup, as it was passed from guest to guest by one of the Centertown staff, Mr. Thos. G. Watkins, was the occasion of much merriment and clever epitaphs. The souvenirs of the occasion were furnished by one of the South's biggest hardware firms, the W. B. Belknap Co., of Louisville. To each lady was given a beautiful pair of high grade scissors, and to each gentleman a handsome pocket knife. Both articles are valuable accessories of a printing office and were highly appreciated. With the coffee came the oratory and happy speeches were made by citizens and members of the Association. Mr. R. W. Brown, of the Louisville Times, acted the part of toast-master in a most captivating manner. The Association is indebted to Messrs. Landwehr and Hobbs for music and other courtesies.

Next morning at the Board of Trade building, the literary part of the meeting was taken up, and papers were read by Messrs. G. E. Johnson, of the Centertown, Harry Gammall, of the Danville Advertiser, and Heber Matthews, of the Hartford Herald. The election of officers was the next thing on the programme, and resulted as follows: President, R. W. Brown, managing editor Louisville Times; Vice President, Harry McGarty, Jessamine Journal; Nicholasville: Secretary and Treasurer, R. E. Morningstar, Bowling Green Courier. All the elections were by acclamation. President Brown succeeds Mr. John H. Westover, and Mr. McGarty succeeds Mr. Brown. Mr. Morningstar was re-elected. Mr. Brown made a speech of acceptance.

At the afternoon session the Louisville Paper Co. served punch and cigars to the newspaper folks, which were highly enjoyed. At four o'clock the party stepped down from the Board of Trade building to Main street, where the City Railway Company had trolley cars in waiting and the visitors were whirled about the city to the parks and other places of interest. The trolley ride was succeeded by supper, after which about half of the newspaper folks embarked on their trip through the great Northwest, which was made over the Monon, the Chicago & Northwestern and the Great Northern western railroads and was taken through the kindness of officials, who are how or were Kentuckians.

Nothing was needed or lacking to make this meeting perhaps the most enjoyable in the history of the Association, and as such it will be remembered by every member present.

Neuralgia Banished. There is no more severe or stubborn pain than neuralgia. A remedy that will cure it is a pain. Dr. G. S. Steves, dentist, Louisville, Ky., says: "My wife suffered from neuralgia from very severe neuralgia, which several physicians failed to cure. I then got Morley's Wonderful Eight, which relieved her in a few minutes and soon effected a permanent cure. Sold by agent in every town." Cure.

SELECT, KY. [Special to THE HERALD.] July 30, 1900. We have had a good rain in this section of the county and crops are looking fine. Dr. R. I. Langford who has been very ill for some time, is not much improved. The public school at this place will begin next Monday with Prof. W. A. Miller as teacher. Mrs. Leva Cox was on the sick list last week, but is some better now. The little child of Alford Baize in some way got a grain of coffee in its throat one day last week and the little fellow has suffered greatly ever since. Messrs. J. W. Cox and J. W. Duvall went to Hartford Monday on business. Here to Win. J. Bryan and Adlai D. Stevenson the next President and Vice President respectively of the United States, and Gov. J. C. W. Beckham, the next Governor of Kentucky. We think they are the candidates of the great common people and will be elected by an immense majority next November.

MURDER PLOTTED. Taylor Said Some Body's Life Had to be Sacrificed.

A VERY STRONG CASE MADE OUT.

When the court convened in the afternoon a star witness was put on the stand. He was Hon. Lewis Hampton, of Knox county, a Republican representative from the Sixth-ninth district, elected in November. He was rather past middle age.

He said he knew Caleb Powers and W. S. Taylor. He said he had two or three conversations with Taylor in January.

"During the first conversation," said Hampton, "in speaking of the contest Taylor said, 'I have as good a right to rise up and demand our rights. We ought to rise up and demand our rights.'"

Later witness had a conversation with Taylor in the room between the secretary of State's office and Taylor's office.

"TAYLOR SAID THAT SOME BODY'S LIFE HAD TO BE SACRIFICED, and also said that he could not go over there, that his life was in danger. I said, 'Well, if the Governor says so—' and he interrupted me, saying, 'Well, don't say that.'"

"I asked Gov. Taylor why he didn't call out the militia. He said, 'SOME THING WILL HAVE TO BE DONE BEFORE I CAN CALL OUT THE MILITIA.'"

"On the day after the contest it had been rumored that Taylor had been cursing the representatives. Representative Hays and myself went to see him about it. He said, 'My God, you fellows have set over there and let them roar.'"

Witness told of a conversation with Caleb Powers. "Powers said that in case Taylor lost his office and Goebel got in, he would have him assassinated."

"At another time Powers said, he did not intend to do anything more until some line of action was given. He said Taylor wanted him to violate the law, but he wasn't going to do it."

"Was anything said by Powers about, 'I will fight till I die?' asked Col. Campbell.

The defense objected, but was overruled.

"Powers said he would fight until he died before he would give up. He said he had decided that way once before in a race for county school superintendent."

Witness was not cross-examined.

WHARTON GOLDEN AT LAST. "Call Wharton Golden," said Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin at 1:25 o'clock Friday.

The defense asked him the usual questions as to whether he was under indictment, etc., and upon being answered in the affirmative, objection, as in the cases of Culton and Noaks. They also asked if he knew he was not compelled to testify. He said he did. Then the examination began. Col. Campbell conducting it.

Golden said he knew Taylor, Powers and the others. He said that he and Caleb and John Powers and W. S. Taylor had always been good friends. He said he went to Frankfort as an applicant for an official position. He said that during January he and Powers were together almost every day.

"THAT 'CIVIL LIBERTY' ARMY. "Powers asked me to do Harlan and Bell counties for him," said Golden. "He asked me to go there and get witnesses for him. He said he wanted regular mountain feudists."

"What are regular mountain feudists?" asked Campbell. The defense objected, but was overruled.

"Men that will stand up and fight," answered Golden.

"Where did he send you?" "To Dr. Bingham, of Pineville. He told me to tell Bingham he wanted men that would fight. Dr. Bingham said he would have men that would fill the bill."

Witness said he gave Dr. Bingham $50 for Powers, and he produced the receipt. It read: "Received of F. W. Golden $50.00, pay for ten tickets from Pineville to Frankfort, this 13th day of January."

"J. S. BINGHAM." Witness then went to Harlan court house to see Haup Howard. Powers had given him a message for Howard. He said he told Howard for Powers that he wanted ten men to go to Frankfort that would stand up and fight in the legislature. Witness also had a receipt from Howard similar to the one from Dr. Bingham. It was for $75.00. Witness said Powers gave him the money.

Witness said that on January 29 he saw Caleb Powers on the train.

"He said he was going to get a regular army of mountain men and said he wanted me to go to Harlanville to help him. I went on with him. Powers said he wanted armed men and to take any kind of weapons with them."

PINLEY AN COMMISSARY. Later, on January 22 or 23, witness had a conference with Powers and Finley, and it was decided that Finley should go to Louisville and arrange for the provisions. About the same time witness was with John L. Powers and had a conversation with John A. Black. He and Powers wanted to borrow a horse to go to Gray's Station to get some men, but Black would not let them have it for that purpose. Black said that for the mountain men to go to Frankfort on a mission like that would ruin eastern Kentucky, and he opposed it.

"Did you tell Caleb Powers what Black said to you?" The defense objected and was sustained.

to get up a lot of men and meet us at Gray's. Green said: 'If I go I'll kill Goebel and get through with this business, and if I can't go I'll send men that will kill him.' "Did he go?" "No, he did not."

Witness said that Reeder and Finley and himself were talking at the depot. Reeder asked how long before that contest would be settled. Finley said: "As soon as we get there."

"WILL GOEBEL BE KILLED?" asked Reeder, and FINLEY SAID, "YES, HE WILL."

Witness said that going down on the train on January 24, Powers said: "By God, we've got those Democrats this time."

Witness replied that he thought they had Frankfort.

Noaks was coming out of Powers' office. He said he was going to take his men home. Witness asked why. Noaks replied that he didn't have the kinds of men that Taylor and Powers and Culton wanted.

"I told him he was a damned fool," said Golden.

Witness said that fifteen or twenty men were selected from each company to stay in Frankfort. Finley gave the orders in order that they would not have so many men in Frankfort.

Witness said that on January 27 he had a conference on the train from Frankfort to Lexington with Gen. Collier, W. J. Davidson and J. B. Matthews.

The defense objected to the conversation being detailed.

NEGRO ASSASSINUS ENGAGED. Afterward Powers told witness to go to Barboursville with him. Witness went to tell Collier.

"I told John Powers. As we were walking we met a man, whom I have found since was Yontsey. He said something to Powers about a key. Powers handed him a key. On Monday morning Yontsey came to the hotel where I was with John Powers and told him he had given him the wrong key. Then Powers gave him another key."

THEN POWERS TOLD ME HE HAD TWO NEGROES TO KILL GOEBEL. — HICKERSMITH AND TALLOW DICK COMBS. "I told him I must not be done, and we had some talk about it. Then Powers told me not to get excited; that he had given Yontsey the wrong key. Afterward we were in the assistant adjutant general's office. Hickersmith and Combs were in there. Combs said, 'G-d-d-n him. I can kill him as far as I can see him. I watch every move he makes.' Somebody asked Combs who he was, and Combs said, 'Why, Goebel, G-d-d-n him. You know what we came up here for.'"

According to Golden, on the morning of the shooting, at 9:30 o'clock, the two Powers, Day and witness went to Louisville. Just before they went to Louisville they were in Taylor's office. E. J. Howard said something about calling out the militia.

Taylor said: "My God, you fellows must act first."

On the way to Louisville they heard Goebel was shot. When they got to Louisville Powers said:

"John and I will walk down on one side of the streets and you walk on the other. It might excite suspicion if we all walk together."

"When he heard Goebel was shot Caleb Powers said in a very sarcastic way, 'That's a damned outrage.' John Powers laughed. Day kept on reading and never looked up."

"While we were at the Willard hotel Powers said, 'I made a mistake in leaving Frankfort.' We ought to have stayed there. It looks suspicious for us to be here now."

"On the way back from Louisville to Frankfort early that afternoon Powers said, 'I made a mistake in leaving my grip; that he might be arrested when he got back, and they might have some trouble. I did as Powers suggested.'"

MURDER PLOTTED IN CEMETERY. Witness said that he and Powers frequently took long walks. "One Sunday we were in the cemetery. Powers said his idea was to have two hundred or three hundred men to come to Frankfort to say, 'Five or six of them would stay at the Capitol hotel and start a political quarrel. Then when Goebel got into it they would kill him.'"

Witness told him he objected to that. "I told him Eli Farmer had said he would like to kill Goebel, and we had better bring him down there and let him lie in wait and kill Goebel."

"On the same day Powers told me that when Goebel was dead the bottom would drop out of the Democrats and they couldn't do anything more."

One day Tom Cromwell sent for Golden to come to the Capital hotel. He went. Cromwell asked him something about the conspiracy.

"I went to Powers and told him that I was going to be arrested, and that I thought we would all be arrested. Powers said: 'They've got nothing against you boys.'"

On one occasion Powers said in regard to Sweeney: "He won't stand for anything and won't do anything."

TAYLOR WANTED A ROUGH HOUSE. "During a conversation with Taylor, he asked if there was anybody in the legislature that would start a fight. I told him that old man Hall, of Louisville, would, I thought. He asked if we would back him up, and I told him we would. Taylor said, 'It's horrible to kill men, but it looks like Goebel and some of his crowd will have to be killed or we will lose out altogether.'"

"What was the object of Mr. Powers in bringing these men to Frankfort?" asked Campbell.

The defense objected and was sustained. "Then state what Powers said on that subject."

"He said he wanted an army of mountain men who would kill Goebel Democrats in the Legislature and the whole gang."

ters from Gov. Taylor and handed them to Col. Campbell. TURNED OVER TO DEFENSE. At 3:30 o'clock the commonwealth turned over the witness to the defense for cross-examination.

But the attorneys for the defendant failed to shake the evidence given on direct examination.

Caleb Powers took the stand in his own behalf in the trial at Georgetown Monday, after a motion to dismiss on peremptory instructions had been overruled and after the opening statement for the defense had been made by Judge E. T. Faulkner. Powers was on the stand the remainder of the day, and his direct evidence is not yet finished. He admitted taking the lion's share in the bringing of the armed men to Frankfort, but murder, he said, was not their object. The only plan discussed, aside from petitioning the Legislature, was to protect his office from forcible seizure by the Democrats. He denied each and every one of the damaging statements made by Culton, Golden and Noaks and also denied having given to Yontsey the key to his office.

For Whooping Cough. "Both of my children were taken with whooping cough," writes Mrs. O. E. Dutton, of Danville, Ill. "A small bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar gave such relief that I used a 50-cent bottle, which saved me a doctor's bill." Nothing else so good. J. H. Williams, Hartford; S. L. Mitchell & Bro., Beaver Dam; M. S. Ragland, Rosine; R. K. Bean, Sulphur Springs.

The nomination of Governor Beckham at Lexington, was a foregone conclusion and is entirely satisfactory to Democrats of all shades of opinion. That he was the overwhelming choice of the party was clearly demonstrated in the precinct conventions. His nomination carried with it no taint of fraud or unethical methods, consequently no man who claims to be a Democrat, has a shadow of an excuse for refusing to support the ticket.—(Grayson Gazette.)

William H. Wagner, who was with the army of mountaineers at Frankfort last January, testified at Georgetown Thursday that on January 27 Caleb Powers, while discussing the situation at Frankfort, said in his presence: "I believe I can do something if I can get the head of the ticket to act. If he don't, I'll go to the newspapers and expose the whole plot."
