In Cattle Raising—Wooden Silo Appears To Be Most Available.

A GREAT THING FOR FARMERS

On August 2d Farm Demonstrator W. W. Browder and some farmers, all of whom are contemplating the building of silos and also interested in the growing of alfalfa and other modern farming, left Hartford at 9 o'clock in automobiles for Bowling Green and other adjacent territories. We stopped at Beaver Dam and gathered up others, making a crowd of 36. We left Beaver Dam at 9:30 and arrived at Morgantown at 11:30, where we got our dinner and immediately proceeded to Bowling Green.

When about one and a-half miles from Bowling Green one car broke down and had to wait for another car to pull us in, so we reached Bowling Green at 3:15 and sent the broken car to the shop. We doubled up in others and proceeded to the farm of M. O. Hughes, our district farm agent, who took great pleasure in showing us his magnificent farm. First we saw his 10 acres of fine alfalfa which had already made him two tons of fine hay and was ready to cut again. This field will be cut twice more this season. He then took us to his large cattle barn where he feeds 300 head of cattle per year. It was here that we found the open shed for cattle feeding of which we have read so much, and find it very convenient. We also saw there the wood stove silo in its true sense. Seeing its weak points, we soon decided that we should not build this kind. We then went to his clover field where we saw a plain demonstration of what lime will do for soil—decidedly in favor of the lime.

Mr. Hughes then took those whose car had broken down in his car and we went to the State Normal farm, also managed by Mr. Hughes. There we found another large field of red clover and alfalfa mixed, and some of the finest hay we ever saw. Mr. Hughes told us that this field had already made four tons of hay to the acre and would be cut again, and there was also a nice field of sweet clover there. We then returned to the Mansard Hotel for the night.

The next morning we started out about 8:30 and went about 10 miles on the Louisville and Nashville pike to Will Closs' farm. There we found three large concrete silos, beyond a doubt the best to build, but a little expensive. Mr. Closs also feeds about 400 head of cattle. We enjoyed looking at his fine barns. He has things arranged very conveniently.

We then went to the place of Mr. J. R. Chaney & Sons, who have the largest cattle barns in Kentucky. They have twelve hundred acres of land and feed six or seven hundred cattle per year. Here we found 100 head of baby heaves almost ready for market. These cattle would weigh about 800 pounds each and were about one year old. Mr. Chaney purchased these cattle in Panhandle, Texas, last November and they have been in his feed barns since.

It was on this farm that we first found the home-made silo—simply built out of rough green lumber. He has three of these which hold 300 tons of silage each. After viewing his nice cattle and inspecting his barns and alfalfa fields, we went to Mr. C. A. Smith's place. After inspecting his barns and home-made silos, which we found to be of the first-class, built of rough green lumber, we became thoroughly convinced that this is the silo for us to build for the present, being assured that it can be built for $100 or less and that the silage keeps perfectly. We don't see any reason why we farmers in Ohio county should be without silos, as they will pay a large per cent. on the investment.

We found that these feeders, realizing the value of manure, keep their cattle in their barns during the entire feeding season, making hundreds of loads of manure, which is hauled and spread on the fields, making the ground rich.

From Mr. Smith's we returned to Bowling Green for dinner and started for home at 1:30, reaching Hartford at 6 p. m., all feeling that we had been amply repaid for our time and money.

We see no reason why the farmers of Ohio county should be without cattle on our lands, with the silo and clover fields to furnish such cheap, rich feed, when we can have this for such a little outlay of money. We know it will be bound to pay a large per-cent. on the investment, so let us get busy and keep pace with our sister counties.

We feel that we owe much of these things we are learning to our never-tiring farm agent, W. W. Browder, who has spent his life farming and has made a success of farming and studying farm problems.

PEACE PROPHETS NAME OCTOBER 1

As Date When European War Will End.

TWO SAMPLES OF EXPRESSION

From Reliable Sources On the Matter—Their Reasons Are Opposite.

BOTH AGREE AS TO THE TIME

"When do you think the war will be over?" That is the first question put to a man just from Europe. The answers are as varying as the question is unvarying. Two men with unusual facilities for knowing what is going on have fixed the date as October 1, 1915. But their reasons are as opposite as day and night. The first to express himself is the correspondent of an American newspaper who returned to this country after many months in Berlin. He has thoroughly imbibed the German view. He said:

"The war should end about October 1 next. Germany has Russia paralyzed now. A few more blows and she will be incapable of making trouble for months to come. She may make an armistice, but even if she does not she can be held back by a comparatively small force. That will release Von Hindenburg and 2,000,000 veteran soldiers for a blow at the French. Certainly the Germans will go through the allies' lines and gain the French channel ports. That will cut France and Great Britain apart. France may be willing to make a separate peace, but whether she does or not Great Britain will be so severely menaced that she will be ready to quit. Then you will see Great Britain and Germany dictating terms of peace to the rest of the allies."

The other man is also an American, who has been in Italy, France, Germany, Austria and Great Britain since the beginning of the war. He said:

"Fighting will end about the beginning of October. Austria is on the verge of collapse. An appeal has been made to the Pope to intervene in her behalf. The Italian Government has been approached and the Vatican has sent representations to President Wilson, asking his assistance in bringing about a truce. The plan is this: In a few weeks Italy will have conquered all the Austrian territory she demanded. The allies will have taken Constantinople. Treaties providing for the entrance of Greece, Bulgaria and Rumania into the war on the side of the allies are already signed. Every effort is being made to bring Holland into the arrangement. The allies hope that increasing friction between the United States and Germany will make us, morally at least, an ally of the Entente Powers. When the proper time has arrived the Balkans will declare war and Germany will ask for a truce. The allies will secretly ask that the Hohenzollerns abdicate and Emperor William will offer himself as a sacrifice on the altar of peace. His dynasty will be followed by a German republic which will include the Germanic part of Austria. The rest of that empire will be distributed as nearly as possible along radical lines.

"Germany already realizes that she cannot win. She knows that in a contest of endurance the allies have the odds all in their favor. To go on with the war would gain her nothing and she cannot afford to pursue an empty victory, even if it could be won. When approached through neutral channels she will be ready enough to listen to any reasonable terms, especially when several of the new neutral nations are arrayed against her."

These guesses are as good as anybody else's. They are offered for what they are worth. Coming, as they do, from two wholly dissimilar sources, it is curious to note that both propose to make the weak pay the bill for the stronger. In the former Belgium, France and Russia, and Serbia must bear the burden of the peace settlement. In the latter Austria and Turkey are chosen for the role.—[Leslie's Weekly.

Suffragists Address Teachers.

Some time since the president of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association responded to an invitation to address the State Educational Association of West Virginia on suffrage at the meeting in Charleston. After the address the association adopted strong resolutions urging their men teachers and superintendents to vote for the ratification of the woman suffrage amendment now before the people of West Virginia. The Department of Labor also determined to send the assistant instructor, Miss McChesney, to as many of the county teachers' institutes as she could reach to talk up child labor and the new weights and measures bill and woman suffrage. The department will defray all traveling expenses.

The Kentucky Educational Association, though it has been urged to do so by prominent suffragists who have also done conspicuous service in Kentucky educational work, has never found space on its program even for an address on woman suffrage.

MRS. BRECKINRIDGE TO TOUR SUFFRAGE STATES

The Kentucky Equal Rights Association has voted to send its president, Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, on a three weeks' tour this fall into the campaign States which this fall will vote on the admission of women to equal suffrage privileges with men.

Mrs. Breckinridge will speak in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and perhaps in Massachusetts, the four "campaign States" in which the question will be put to a vote of the people. She will leave about September 15.

The Clerk Guaranteed It.

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks 'have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and said to him, 'if this does not cure you, I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said he was cured." writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere. m (Advertisement)

Didn't Pain Bobby.

"Bobby," said the woman in the tramway, severely, "why don't you get up and give your seat to father. Doesn't it pain you to see him reaching for the strap?"

"Not in a car," said Bobby. "Only at home."

Sometimes there isn't a whole lot of difference between a good fellow and a bad husband.

HAS EARLINGTON FOUND THE SAME?

The Answer Is Found in the Straightforward Statement of An Earlington Resident.

We have been reading week after week in the local press of Hartford citizens who have been rid of distressing kidney and bladder troubles by Doan's Kidney Pills, and we have often wondered whether the same high opinion of this medicine is to be found in our neighboring town. This frank and earnest statement by a well known and respected resident of Earlington will set this doubt at rest.

Mrs. Pearl Walton, Earlington, Ky., says: "I suffered from weak kidneys. I did not pay much attention to the trouble at first, but when I found that I had little control over the kidney secretions, I knew that something must be done. My rest was broken at night and in the morning I was tired and worn out. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and my kidneys have been in good condition since."

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him.
