INSTITUTE LECTURE COURSE.

The first of the course of lectures which are to be given during the institute was given by Professor Von Coelln on Wednesday evening. Supt. Myers has arranged for several lectures which will be the best that can be procured. Wednesday evening's lecture was held in the Presbyterian church, the subject being "Practical Life and Schools." Mr. Von Coelln having made teaching his life work, and having filled a number of places of high rank in his profession, holding the office of state superintendent for some time, is well competent to advise and instruct on this important subject.

He spoke of the one great mistake commonly made as to the object of attending school, recommending to them the motto: "Non Scholae sed Vitae Discamus," which translated reads: "Not for school but for life we learn." He made a strong plea for the kindergarten work, asserting that the common age for starting children to school was too young, and that such a custom is a hindrance throughout the school period. He discussed several lines of school work, introducing a number of illustrations, which could not be helpful to the inexperienced teacher. He also presented some strong arguments for the teaching of Latin in our public schools.

The Odebolt Chronicle comes to us this week as a five column quarto, which is a decided improvement over the old form, Lou Starkey who will be remembered here, is making a good paper of the Chronicle; it is well filled with local matter and well patronized by the business men of Odebolt. The Pharmaceutical Association of Iowa met at Clear Lake the latter part of last month. The convention adopted resolutions to the effect that they did not recommend any medicine or drug manufactured by a company which refused to affix the revenue stamp, as the association deemed it unpatric and un-American for a company to refuse, thereby escaping their portion of the war tax.

Messrs. Chas. Kemming and T. J. Kelly attended the ball game at Carroll Thursday. Three games have been played at that place between Glidden and Carroll, the latter defeating the former two games out of the three. Yesterday the game resulted in a score of 26 to 2 in favor of Carroll. It could hardly be considered a victory as we understand eight members of the Carroll team were imported. Howard Wilson played third base for Glidden, doing good work, but Carroll's imported men outranked Glidden's outsiders, some of them being from the southern and western leagues.

CLIMATE AND CROP BULLETIN.

Of the Weather Bureau For the Week Ending Monday, August 1, 1898.
Des Moines, Iowa, August 2, 1898.
During the past week substantial relief has been afforded to the crops that were beginning to suffer from the effects of extreme heat and drought. Fairly well distributed showers and cooler weather, with copious dews, have been very beneficial to corn, potatoes, grass and vegetables. The damage caused by high winds in various localities has been immeasurably overbalanced by the good effects of the refreshing showers and cooler temperature.

The corn crop has received the largest share of benefit, and making due allowance for all injury by hot winds and severe squalls, the present general condition of the crop gives promise of a full normal yield, if seasonable weather prevails in the balance of the season.

The potato crop has been materially shortened, and needs more rain in the near future to prevent further damage. In the grain fields stacking and threshing are in progress. Reports of yield give promise of more than an average output of wheat, rye and barley, and the oats crop is better than early reports indicated.

The crop of apples and plums will be very light. Grapes, watermelons and tomatoes promise an abundant yield.
