REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

Resolutions Adopted by the State Convention at Dubuque.

"The republicans of Iowa, in state convention assembled, declare:

"That we congratulate the country upon the wise and patriotic administration of President McKinley, and we regard the measures and policies thereof as the concrete expression of republican statesmanship; and especially do we commend his course during the present war with Spain, his wisdom and forbearance in seeking a peaceful solution of the Cuban question before resorting to arms, while at the same time prudently preparing for war, and when circumstances finally made armed intervention necessary, his vigor and energy in the prosecution of the war.

"That the experience of the past two years has fully approved the gold standard policy of the republican party as declared by the national convention of 1896. We recognize the necessity of comprehensive and enlightened monetary legislation. The monetary standard of this country and the commercial world is gold. The permanence of this standard must be assured by congressional legislation, giving to it the validity and vitality of public law. All of the money must be kept at a parity with gold. Our money, like our institutions, should be maintained equal to the best in the world. On this plank we invite the support of all voters who desire honesty and stability in business affairs and an immediate and permanent settlement of the question of the standard of value.

"That we reaffirm our belief in the republican doctrines of reciprocity and protection. We congratulate the people on the fact that a republican congress has enacted a protective tariff which has brought prosperity to our country, and we pledge ourselves to favor such changes in the present republican revenue law as experience may from time to time dictate or change if conditions demand.

"That we favor the upbuilding of the American merchant marine, the speedy construction of the Nicaraguan canal, the securing of naval and coaling stations and the protection of American rights in every quarter of the world with an adequate navy.

"That the republican party, under whose policies and administration prosperity has been restored and a foreign war successfully conducted, has earned the right to be further entrusted with the task of solving the territorial, colonial and commercial problems that have resulted from the war.

"That it is due to the cause of humanity and civilization for which the war with Spain was fought, that no people who have in consequence thereof been freed from oppression shall, with the consent or through the indifference of the United States, be returned to such oppression or permitted to lapse into barbarism.

"That the soldiers, sailors and marines, both regular and volunteer, of the army and navy, have in the war with Spain exemplified brave self-sacrifice, and that unto that displayed by previous defenders of the republic. Not only have they earned the most profound gratitude of the nation, but they have given the United States a new dignity and rank among the greatest and most powerful nations of the earth.

"That the Iowa volunteers, who this year so promptly responded to the president's call for enlistments, have won the proud appreciation of the state. Though they did not reach the front of battle, they have paid an heroic price in hardships, self-sacrifices, sickness, and even death, the price of soldierly duty. Their needs should have the promptest consideration and attention which the state or nation can give.

"We heartily endorse the able and businesslike administration of Governor Shaw as displayed by his prudent and conscientious discharge of public duties, and especially do we commend him for his constant and untiring efforts made on behalf of the Iowa soldiers, whether in camp or sick in the hospitals.

"That we tender grateful acknowledgment to all who have helped the party to the opportunity to do the great good it has done, and especially do we appreciate the services of independent voters of 1896 and 1897, who placed the honor of the country above party. We invite, for the party's present financial and other policies, the cooperation and support of all.

The republican state convention passed the following supplemental resolutions:

"Resolved, That the state central committee be instructed to call the next state convention in Des Moines, provided that Des Moines furnish a suitable building for the gathering and appropriate entertainment."

TO OUR NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

The REVIEW makes its appearance in many new homes this week. We know that many have subscribed very largely on account of their interest in the contests which have just taken place, but it is our hope now to interest them in the REVIEW itself and to give such an altogether good and newsy paper that they will feel that they wish to make it a regular member of the family circle. All we ask of these new subscribers is that they give the REVIEW a fair trial on its own merits and we have faith enough in its excellence to believe that they will like it. If after the first of January you do not wish the paper continued please notify us at that time and it will be stopped at once. Give it a good fair trial and then make up your mind whether you can afford to do without it.

THE FREE FAIR.

The free fair was a successful but costly experiment for Denison. The attractions were first class and the races among the best ever held here. The crowds were large and the farmers almost unanimously expressed their appreciation of Denison's liberality. If the fair has succeeded in dispelling to a greater or less extent between the people of the country and those of the town, the people of Denison will be well repaid. The truth is that city and country are mutually dependent upon each other, and it is decidedly for the best interests of both that they learn to understand each other better and to know that only through friendship and consideration can either be prosperous. If the free fair has helped in this direction the people of Denison have been reimbursed. Financially the fair has been a large drain upon Denison. By cutting off the gate receipts it became necessary for the merchants and business men to pay nearly six hundred dollars out of their own pockets. Few of the business men were directly benefited to the amount of their subscriptions, but it has helped the town as a whole, it has added to our fame at home and abroad and its results will be felt for many months to come. There were some few who should have given who did not do so and this fact added to the burdens of those who were willing to do their share. Let it be said however that those who did not give were in a decided minority and that nearly all gave fully as much as could have been expected of them. Had the time for advertising the free admission been longer and had not Iowa Day at the exposition drawn many people the crowd would have been very much larger, but as it was 5,000 people is a pretty large crowd for an ordinary county fair.

A MASTERLY ADDRESS

Text of Gov. L. N. Shaw's Address on Iowa Day.

BEST PRODUCTS ARE MEN

A Plain Talk Full of Hopefulness and Words of Encouragement to the Youth of Iowa.

Ladies and Gentlemen, Citizens and Friends of Iowa: "Not many generations ago, in the place where you now sit, encircled by all that exalts and embellishes civilized life, the rank thistle nodded in the breeze, and the wild fox dugged his hole unscared." So said Charles Sprague, three quarters of a century ago and the utterance is as true when applied to the land of the Omaha's as to the land of the Wampagoa's.

We meet this day as citizens of Iowa, on the soil of a sister state, for no idle purpose. The people of Iowa are not idlers, but the day will have been lost to us and to our children unless what is here said, and done and witnessed, and enjoyed shall bring greater thoughtfulness and increased earnestness. The half century and two years since the admission of Iowa added the twentieth star to the flag which has now become the protector of the world, have wrought great changes. Most of the improvements of the earth, most of the progress in the arts and sciences, most of the advance in civilization, have been wrought within the period of our state history. Time would not permit, if the inclination were present, to recount the achievements in the political, industrial, financial, agricultural, mechanical, scientific, educational, religious, or moral world. Suffice it to say that in all of these Iowa has rendered her full share of service, and has reaped her full measure of blessing. We can well afford to leave to others the study of the past. Let it be ours manfully to face the future, now more than ever big with possibilities, and with careful glance ahead improve the present.

In all the grand exhibit of this remarkable exposition there is not found that for which our state has greatest reason to rejoice. The product of the farm, of the orchard, of the garden, of the herd, of the dairy, of the factory, of the mine are here in great quantity and of superb quality. Truly Iowa is great in territory, great in resources, great in product, but she is greatest of all in her children. There is presented to my eye from this platform that which is infinitely more valuable than all herds and all harvests. I see scattered through this audience many of the youth of Iowa. They are from the city, from the town, from the hamlet, and from the Iowa farm. They are representatives of an aggregate of seven hundred thousand of school age, and of an equal number who have just passed from educational tuition, to face the activities, the anxieties, and the achievements of manhood and womanhood. These all belong to a generation which will surely be heard from. Their fathers and mothers have been industrious, have been ambitious, have been hopeful, and have been successful. A generation thus circumstanced is always potential. Dr. Strong tells of a township in the western reserve which was settled with an energetic, liberty-loving, God-fearing, educationally inclined people, and which in a limited period, furnished many members of the state legislature and the state senate. From that community of only a few hundred inhabitants men went forth to college professorships east and west, to the supreme bench of the state, and to the United States congress. The same author says "Northampton, Massachusetts, has among its native and resident population, over four hundred graduates from colleges and other educational institutions; it has furnished the world with one hundred and four-

WAS JUSTIFIABLE.

Evidence Shows That Firing Upon Spaniards on the Harvard Could Not Have Been Avoided.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Lieut. Col. Dudley, of the judge advocate general's department, has returned to Washington and is now engaged in the preparation of his report upon the conditions under which the Spanish prisoners on the Harvard were killed. It is believed that Col. Dudley has already collected sufficient testimony to make clear the fact that the firing upon the Spaniards was a necessary and justifiable action.

Colored People Celebrate.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22.—The colored people of central Illinois held a grand Emancipation day celebration in this city. There was a large procession, followed by exercises, Bishop B. W. Arnett, of the African Methodist Episcopal church, Wilberforce, O., being the orator of the day. Gov. Tanner and others also spoke.

His Body Recovered.

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 22.—The body of Henry Davis, of Pittsburgh, one of the victims of the Ottawa and New York bridge disaster, was recovered here.

wives, ten missionaries, twenty-five judges, one hundred and two lawyers, ninety-five physicians, seven college presidents, thirty professors, sixty-four other educators, twenty-four editors, six historians, twenty-four authors, two governors and thirty other state officers, twenty-five members of the state general assembly, two generals, six colonels, thirteen other army officers, thirty-eight officers of the United States, among them a secretary of the navy, two foreign ministers, a treasurer of the United States, five senators of the United States, eight members of congress and one president." If a territory six miles square, under favorable conditions, can make such a record, what may we not hopefully expect from a territory containing fifty-five thousand square miles, all of it simply peopled, and with conditions more favorable than Massachusetts ever enjoyed or Ohio ever possessed.

"Know thyself," said the Greek Philosopher. "Know thine opportunity" has become a companion and equally important maxim.

When you shall go home tonight, tell the children that the world is big and constantly expanding; that this day's experience has broadened your vision; that life has become more real and hope more ardent; and that both you and the world and especially the state, expect something of them. Wake the boy in the night, break in upon his dreams with stories of hopeful possibilities; watch the fire kindle in his eye; then let him dream again of greater things, of broader expanses, of higher altitudes, of nobler achievements. Neglect neither seed-time nor harvest; watch the growing and maturing crops; succor and protect both flocks and herds; zealously guard the interests of the shop and the store and the office; but above all, look well to the youth of Iowa, and to all things that shall conserve the generation whose footsteps crowd the threshold of the world's activities.

Our Answer to Spain's Note.

Madrid, Sept. 12.—The French ambassador at Washington, M. Cambon, who has been acting for Spain in the peace negotiations, has cabled to the government here the American reply to the Spanish note protesting against hostilities upon the part of the insurgents in the Philippine islands, in spite of the peace protocol. The United States promises to send envoys to induce the Trogalos to respect the suspension of hostilities, and to prevent vessels leaving Manila with insurgents having the intention of propagating the insurrection in other islands.

Ex-Minister Angell Says Only Naval Display Will Compel Turkey to Pay Claims.

THE SULTAN FEARS AMERICAN SHIPS.

Difference Between Our Claims and Those of the European Powers Pointed Out—Sultan Disclaims Any Responsibility for the Killing of Missionaries in Turkey.

New York, Sept. 22.—Col. John Hay, former ambassador to Great Britain, and President J. B. Angell, of the University of Michigan, who for more than a year has been the United States minister to Turkey, were among the passengers on the Teutonic.

Prof. Angell was unsuccessful in securing the payment of the American claims upon the Turkish government, but on the journey across the Atlantic he was frequently in conference with Col. Hay, and undoubtedly took advantage of the opportunity to inform the new secretary of state of the situation in Turkey. It is the desire of the president that the claims against the port shall be settled as promptly as possible, and the information which Mr. Angell will be able to impart to the government will be extremely valuable in the effort to compel the sultan to make good the damages inflicted upon Americans living in Turkey.

Sultan Disclaims Responsibility.

In the course of a conversation with a reporter Mr. Angell said: "There is little new that I can say regarding the situation in Turkey. Perfect tranquility prevailed while I was there and no massacres occurred in Armenia or the Balkans."

"Is it true that the United States intends to enforce the payment of its claims by a demonstration of force?" he was asked.

"I have not heard of it," he replied. "We made these claims, as did the other powers, for damages inflicted by the Turks upon our missionaries. The sultan, however, refuses to recognize them and denies his responsibility. Whether an attempt will be made to collect these claims by force of arms or a demonstration is a matter for the government alone to decide. When moral pressure is brought to bear upon him the sultan declares that the damages were the result of mob riots and that, therefore, he is not responsible. Indeed, he has actually told the European powers that he is entitled to indemnities from them because Europeans shot at and killed Turkish soldiers from their houses."

Armed Demonstration Is Necessary.

"One thing I would like to lay stress on and that is that our claims are different from the European demands. The Europeans suffered their damages in general mob riots, but our claims rest upon a much stronger basis. The property of the Americans was destroyed not in a general riot, but by soldiers who were put to guard the property and who were consequently the agents of the government. I placed that view before the sultan strongly, but the answer he gave me was the same as before. It seems to me that an armed demonstration is the only means whereby the Turkish government can be made to make the restitution asked for."

"The Turkish warships can best be described as tubs. The sultan watched the war between Spain and the United States very closely and the impression made by our navy won his respect and admiration. He often spoke to me about our cannon and ships and he may in the near future order some ships built here. I told him that the cannon and ships were all right, but he would have to look to the men behind the guns. I said this because I know the Turkish army, although thoroughly drilled, has but little firing practice because no money is devoted to that purpose."

"Supposing the claims against Turkey should be pressed, would its treasury be able to meet them?"

"Well, you see, a bankrupt has an advantage. He can pay nothing and owe the rest," was Mr. Angell's epigrammatic answer.
