

On the Bias.

That's the secret of the 5/A Bias Girth Horse Blankets. The girths are on the bias—that means they are crossed. They work automatically. The blanket can't slip. If you pull one side the other side keeps the blanket from sliding, and yet it doesn't bind the horse. He can't rub it loose. He couldn't displace it if he rolled in it.

5/A BIAS GIRTH

Horse Blankets are made in all styles—to fit any horse—to suit any purse. Ask your dealer for 5/A Bias Girth Blankets and look for the trade-mark. A book on the subject sent free.

THE FALL CAMPAIGN.

The days are fast approaching when the tired farmer has more leisure, when the arduous duties of summer are well nigh ended and the long evenings bring time for rest and enjoyment. It is at such times that the newspaper is most appreciated and the REVIEW has prepared itself to be a healthy, wholesome fireside companion for the whole family this winter. The REVIEW is what is called a home print paper. That its forms are made up and printed in this office.

We abandoned the old time "ready print" style because it affords the editor no opportunity of selection, because being printed in another place the news is necessarily old and stale, and because it contains a grade of advertising which the REVIEW does not care to present to its readers.

We now use what is called "plate" or type which is stereotyped and made ready for use by companies engaged exclusively in that business. While this matter is not set in Denison, the proofs of a large amount of matter are sent us and we select that which we think will best suit the readers of the REVIEW. During the next two months the REVIEW will present to its

Resolutions Adopted by the State Convention at Dubuque.

"The republicans of Iowa, in state convention assembled, declare:

"That we congratulate the country upon the wise and patriotic administration of President McKinley, and we regard the measures and policies thereof as the concrete expression of republican statesmanship; and especially do we commend his course during the present war with Spain, his wisdom and forbearance in seeking a peaceful solution of the Cuban question before resorting to arms, while at the same time prudently preparing for war, and when circumstances finally made armed intervention necessary, his vigor and energy in the prosecution of the war.

"That the experience of the past two years has fully approved the gold standard policy of the republican party as declared by the national convention of 1896. We recognize the necessity of comprehensive and enlightened monetary legislation, and an immediate and permanent settlement of the question of the standard of value.

"That we reaffirm our belief in the republican doctrine of reciprocity and protection. We congratulate the people on the fact that a republican congress has enacted a protective tariff which has brought prosperity to our country, and we pledge ourselves to favor such changes in the present republican revenue law as experience may from time to time dictate or change in conditions demand.

"That we favor the upbuilding of the American merchant marine, the speedy construction of the Nicaragua canal, the securing of naval and coaling stations, and the protection of American shipping in every quarter of the world with an adequate navy.

"That the republican party, under whose policies and administration prosperity has been restored and a foreign war successfully conducted, has earned the right to be further entrusted with the task of solving the territorial, colonial and commercial problems that have resulted from the war.

"That it is due to the cause of humanity and civilization for which we fought with Spain was fought, that no people who have in consequence thereof been freed from oppression shall, with the consent or through the indifference of the United States, be returned to such oppression or permitted to lapse into barbarism.

"That the soldiers, sailors and marines, both regular and volunteer, of the army and navy, have in the war with Spain exemplified bravery and self-sacrifice, like that displayed by previous defenders of the republic. Not only have they earned the most profound gratitude of the nation, but they have given the United States a new dignity and rank among the greatest nations of the world.

"That the Iowa volunteers, who this year so promptly responded to the president's call for enlistments, have won the proud appreciation of the state. Though they did not reach the front of battle, they are yet paying in their blood, ships, self-sacrifices, sickness, and even death, the price of soldierly duty. Their needs should have the promptest consideration and attention which the state or nation can give.

"We heartily endorse the able and businesslike administration of Governor Shaw as displayed by his prudent and conscientious discharge of public duties, and especially do we commend him for his constant and untiring efforts made on behalf of the Iowa soldiers, whether in camp or sick in the hospitals.

"That we tender grateful acknowledgment to all who have helped the party to the opportunity to do the great good it has done, and especially do we appreciate the services of independent voters of 1896 and 1897, who placed the honor of the country above party. We invite, for the party's present financial and other policies, the cooperation and support of all."

The republican state convention passed the following supplemental resolution:

"Resolved, That the state central committee be instructed to call the next state convention in Des Moines, provided that Des Moines furnish a suitable building for the gathering and appropriate entertainment."

Resolutions Adopted by the State Convention at Dubuque.

"The republicans of Iowa, in state convention assembled, declare:

"That we congratulate the country upon the wise and patriotic administration of President McKinley, and we regard the measures and policies thereof as the concrete expression of republican statesmanship; and especially do we commend his course during the present war with Spain, his wisdom and forbearance in seeking a peaceful solution of the Cuban question before resorting to arms, while at the same time prudently preparing for war, and when circumstances finally made armed intervention necessary, his vigor and energy in the prosecution of the war.

"That the experience of the past two years has fully approved the gold standard policy of the republican party as declared by the national convention of 1896. We recognize the necessity of comprehensive and enlightened monetary legislation, and an immediate and permanent settlement of the question of the standard of value.

"That we reaffirm our belief in the republican doctrine of reciprocity and protection. We congratulate the people on the fact that a republican congress has enacted a protective tariff which has brought prosperity to our country, and we pledge ourselves to favor such changes in the present republican revenue law as experience may from time to time dictate or change in conditions demand.

"That we favor the upbuilding of the American merchant marine, the speedy construction of the Nicaragua canal, the securing of naval and coaling stations, and the protection of American shipping in every quarter of the world with an adequate navy.

"That the republican party, under whose policies and administration prosperity has been restored and a foreign war successfully conducted, has earned the right to be further entrusted with the task of solving the territorial, colonial and commercial problems that have resulted from the war.

"That it is due to the cause of humanity and civilization for which we fought with Spain was fought, that no people who have in consequence thereof been freed from oppression shall, with the consent or through the indifference of the United States, be returned to such oppression or permitted to lapse into barbarism.

"That the soldiers, sailors and marines, both regular and volunteer, of the army and navy, have in the war with Spain exemplified bravery and self-sacrifice, like that displayed by previous defenders of the republic. Not only have they earned the most profound gratitude of the nation, but they have given the United States a new dignity and rank among the greatest nations of the world.

"That the Iowa volunteers, who this year so promptly responded to the president's call for enlistments, have won the proud appreciation of the state. Though they did not reach the front of battle, they are yet paying in their blood, ships, self-sacrifices, sickness, and even death, the price of soldierly duty. Their needs should have the promptest consideration and attention which the state or nation can give.

"We heartily endorse the able and businesslike administration of Governor Shaw as displayed by his prudent and conscientious discharge of public duties, and especially do we commend him for his constant and untiring efforts made on behalf of the Iowa soldiers, whether in camp or sick in the hospitals.

"That we tender grateful acknowledgment to all who have helped the party to the opportunity to do the great good it has done, and especially do we appreciate the services of independent voters of 1896 and 1897, who placed the honor of the country above party. We invite, for the party's present financial and other policies, the cooperation and support of all."

The republican state convention passed the following supplemental resolution:

"Resolved, That the state central committee be instructed to call the next state convention in Des Moines, provided that Des Moines furnish a suitable building for the gathering and appropriate entertainment."

readers the following works of fiction by writers of fame the world over:

"A Trooper Galahad," a serial story by the famous army author, Capt. Chas. King. Many of our readers are already acquainted with his thrilling stories of army life and soldier loves. He is our foremost writer in depicting the scenes of frontier life and the hardships of the trail and the fight as endured by the boys in blue. Just now when every loyal heart is filled with patriotic devotion to the defenders of the flag, this story will be of special interest to all.

"Uncle John and the Rubies" is the title of a short story by England's brilliant novelist, Anthony Hope. This writer has made himself famous throughout the English speaking world by his marvelous tales of adventure, and it is with pleasure that we present to the readers of the REVIEW the same high grade of literature that is given to the people by the high-priced magazines.

Other stories by authors only a trifle less known are:

"The Pilgrim Ship," by Cutcliffe Hyne.

"The Eye of a God," by W. A. Fraser.

"Five Hundred Carats," by George Griffith.

"Vendetta Marina," by Clark Russell.

"Maria Perrone," by S. R. Crockett.

"The Missing Prince," by Maj. Arthur Griffiths.

"The Four Presidents," by W. L. Alden.

These are to be the literary features of our fall campaign, these stories, if purchased in book form would cost each subscriber about three times as much as he pays for the REVIEW during the time they will be printed.

Besides the literary features of the Great and Only, the paper will contain all the news of the day, just as fresh and newsworthy and reliable as can be found in the daily papers.

As usual the field of Denison and County seat news will be thoroughly covered. Special attention will be paid to the social life of the city. The Church column will continue to keep the various congregations informed as to the Christian life of Denison. The Sunday School column will be a new feature. The lesson will be reviewed by an eminent authority and all will have opportunity of keeping up their bible study whether they are able to attend the Sabbath School or not.

During the winter season we will make our county correspondence more of a feature than ever before. This service is now by far the best in the county and during the next two months it will be materially increased.

Editorially the REVIEW will be, as it always has been, Republican. It will not however be unfair in its utterances, will be tolerant of the opinions of others and will indulge in no attacks upon good men simply because they happen to be on the democratic or any other ticket.

It is for these reasons that the REVIEW enters upon its fall campaign for new subscribers and to please the old, with so much of confidence. We believe our subscribers are satisfied that the REVIEW is making every possible effort to furnish the best local and family paper that can be printed. We ask the co-operation of our readers. We ask them to keep us in mind when pay-day comes round, we ask them to say a good word to their neighbors about the paper, and we ask them to send us any news item which may be of interest to them or their friends. Our intentions toward our readers are the best in the world, we would not intentionally do one of them an injustice and we ask them to be free to use the columns of the paper in any legitimate way. The REVIEW hopes to present a great treat to its readers in the near future and to show them that their interests are its own.

Talking about dodging, what is the cause of the dense silence on the part of the democratic organ in regard to its county platform. This a discussion
