AT HONOLULU U. S. A.

An Interesting Letter by A. D. James to His Mother.

IS WELL AND HAPPY.

In His Trip to Honolulu He did not Encounter Seasickness—Four Weeks Yet Before Reaching Manila.

ON BOARD PENNSYLVANIA, FIVE DAYS FROM SAN FRANCISCO, November 8, 1898.

MY DEAR MOTHER:—I am going to start you a letter today to send from Honolulu. First, I am well and happy and have enjoyed the trip very much so far. I was not sea sick but nearly all the boys were. We have not seen a thing but water for five days so there is not much to write about.

Our band plays twice every day, an hour in the morning and an hour in the afternoon, and the weather is very fine and warm. Today all the boys took a shower bath which was fine, it being the first. They feed us pretty well considering the room the cooks have to work in.

I seems queer to go so long and not know a thing about the world and indeed we are literally off the earth. Well I will stop now and finish this when I get there. Good bye,

DEE.

EIGHT DAYS FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

Well, we will see land this evening and tomorrow morning reach Honolulu and all will be glad, for being so long cut off from all news of the world gets very tiresome. We have had a delightful trip so far, however, for the weather has been splendid and I have been entirely well all the time and have enjoyed everything.

We will have nearly a week's stop at Honolulu so that will give us a chance to see mostly everything there is to see and will give me a chance to call on the people I met in San Francisco.

Our ship has been leaking for three or four days but as the pumps are working no one seems the least bit concerned and they will put the ship in dry-dock at Honolulu and fix it up. After we leave there we will be three weeks or more on the water without a sight of land—just think of it a whole month off the earth. It is very hard to pass the time on board for a person has nothing to do. We have plenty of books but some how it is hard to get interested, but I suppose we will get over that in time.

There were thousands of people at San Francisco to see us and my friends gave me a big basket of good things to eat and they are going to list till we get past Honolulu.

EVENING OF NOV. 11, 1898.

About noon today we saw the first land since leaving San Francisco and this evening about eight o'clock we came in sight of the lights of Honolulu and headed in for the bay and the first thing we knew the ship had run aground, and it took nearly half an hour to get her off. I suppose we will land sometime in the morning, then I will mail this to you.

I will write you again from Hongkong on the way to Manila. Good-bye with love to all.

Your affectionate son,
DEE.

The Only Way to Get Married.

There is a virtue in the ipissima verba prescribed for ceremonials which some people can never be got to understand, and at Peterborough this denseness led to the postponement of a wedding. In the church were duly assembled the guests, the officiating clergyman and the bride and bridegroom. The service commenced, and all went smoothly till the priest asked the question, "Wilt thou have this woman to be thy wedded wife?"

"Yes," said the prospective husband, who evidently did not go in for archaisms.

It was explained to him that "I will" was the regulation reply. Whereupon the bridegroom began to argue about it, insisting that "Yes" was quite sufficient for the purpose, and that as he meant to do his duty by the girl the exact form of assent could not matter.

At last his attitude became so aggressively positive that the parson shut his book and refused to continue the service, and the couple had to leave the church unwed.—London News.

Blushing.

In a learned work on criminology it is stated that out of 98 young men criminals 44 did not blush when examined. Of 123 women criminals 81 per cent did not blush. From this it seems that writers of fiction are all in the wrong, and that, instead of making their heroines betray their emotions by blushing, they should leave that part of the regulation programme to their admirers of the other sex.

It is also noted by the author that women blush about the ears rather than on the cheek. Perhaps some time soon scientists will be able to tell us why, without apparent reason, one or other of our ears suddenly blushes and burns, and if, as the old wives tell us, it is a sign that some one is speaking of us how we can tell who it may be. We all know that it is "right for spite and left for love," but the knowledge is not very useful to us, and nowadays we like to know the why and the wherefore of everything.

Mrs. Gladstone as a Listener.

"Mrs. Gladstone cultivated the art of listening to her husband to a perfection that I never saw equaled," says an English writer. "When he spoke, her absolute attention was always at his command—in fact, I do not believe anybody ever was so absorbed as Mrs. Gladstone looked. I suspect that she had learned how to wear that absolutely listening air while her mind followed its own track. But it was a decided help to him, for it secured at table and elsewhere a general silence when he wished to deliver his opinions without any appearance that he personally was demanding it. Mrs. Gladstone's own little speeches to the women Liberals, too, were always on one topic, what her husband thought or how he was feeling. In short, for the old ideal of wifehood, Mrs. Gladstone was a perfect model."

He Saved His Bacon.

"And now"—
Out of the corner of his eye the cannibal king assured himself that the pot was bubbling merrily.
"We will take dinner with you. Prepare to die."
The shipwrecked sailor scowled.
"Say," he said, "what t'alls do matter wit' youse guys?"
The savages exchanged glances of dismay.
"He certainly is tough," they said. And with saddened mien the king ordered an everyday dinner of boiled vegetables.
But they made the sailor eat at the second table.—Vim.

Combined War Operations.

I have for a long time held that the course of the Franco-German war might have been wholly different had France understood and been prepared for the combined operations on a great scale. France, however, had a traditional misunderstanding of the conditions to contend against, and it stood in the way in the day of her visitation. It was, you may remember, intended to make a diversion on the Baltic shores of Germany by means of the fleet and 20,000 troops, and Bonet-Willamez sailed from Cherbourg with a portion of the fleet in full belief that the troops would follow. They never did so, and the French admiral suffered obloquy for not doing what it was impossible he could do in the absence of land forces.

France was sure that the way to Berlin was across the Rhine. In her then position it seems to me that it might have been by Kiel. If she could have held a passively defensive line along her land frontier, she had ample means of capturing the port of Kiel and landing there a great army. It is at least conceivable that the main theater of the war might thus have been on German and not on French soil.—Admiral Colomb in Aldershot Military Society.

Why Chinese Noses Are Flat.

Among the many millions of China there is a practice which seems to have a curious result. The mother carries her infant in a kind of bag or pannier on her back, and not—as in other countries where the dorsal carriage is affected—with the face turned outward, but, as probably we ought to expect in China, where everything seems to go and come by the rule of contraries, with the face turned inward.

The result of that is that the baby's nose is of necessity pressed against its mother's back, whence no doubt has been evolved in the course of ages the peculiarly flattened or blunted nose characteristic of the Chinaman.

The retort courteous sometimes consists in not saying a word.—Chicago News

Distance of Stars.

From measurements of the mean parallaxes of the stars Beta, Gamma, Epsilon and Zeta, in the Great Bear—five of the seven stars which form the Great Dipper—astronomers now obtain values so small as to indicate that the system formed by these stars is separated from the earth by such a distance that it is no random assertion to say that 200 years must be required for the light to reach us.

The distance of Beta and Zeta is found to be at least 4,000,000 times greater than that which separates the earth from the sun, and from calculations made by M. Hoffer the star Epsilon of this group is calculated to be 40 times brighter than Sirius.

A few years ago Professor Pickering of the Harvard college observatory deduced from spectroscopic observations of the star Eta Ursae Majoris—Mizar, the middle star in the handle of the dipper—that its distance is about 150 light years, an estimate with which these later determinations of the distances of the other dipper stars accord fairly well.

When They May Be Made Useful.

"Always do right, and your friends will stand by you."
"Yes, but the time a man needs friends to stand by him is when he does wrong."—Chicago Record.
