HONORED THEIR FRIEND.

A Pleasant Birthday Surprise Given to Marshal Henry Seemann.

Last evening a very pleasant birthday surprise was given in honor of Mr. Henry Seemann's thirty-fourth birthday. His residence was filled with jolly guests and when Henry arrived, all unsuspecting, he was greeted with the rousing chorus:

"For he is a jolly good fellow
And so say all of us".

The singing gave him time to catch his breath and get over the astonishment and surprise of it all. The evening was spent with an impromptu whist-tourney, Dr. J. I. Gibson and Col. McHenry being the leaders. Col. McHenry showed his military training to good effect and brought his troops through to victory. Mrs. Seemann assisted by Mrs. Max Sime, Mrs. T. J. Kelly and Mrs. J. N. Bradley served a bounteous luncheon, consisting of most delicious coffee, sandwiches and olives, as a first course and strawberries, ice cream and cake as an able second. After the luncheon had been disposed of in a most satisfactory way, Mr. C. Depew Bullock presented Mr. Seemann with a handsome rocker. Those of us who have known Henry from boyhood and how honorable and true he has been through all vicissitudes of life will agree most heartily with the eloquent words of Mr. Bullock's presentation speech, which was as follows:

My friends we have met here this evening to join in celebrating an occasion of moment and interest in the life of every man and woman for it tends to impress on us the fact, which we are all liable to overlook that we are growing old. Having resided in your midst for many years my mind carries me back when I knew some of those who are now our substantial business men, as barefooted boys trudging along our streets and mingling their happy boyhood shouts together.

We are here to-night to do honor to one of those boys; one who has grown up in our midst; one who has established an honored name as a business man, a citizen and a neighbor. One who when our city calls on him to lay aside his business to act as conservator of the peace is ready in the interest of good order to obey the call of his fellow citizens and fill the position with credit to himself and with entire satisfaction to the public and I dare say that when some of the weary sojourners looking for the land of rest, peer up in his smiling face they cannot but conclude that it is a smile from on high and we who know him would conclude they are right as he stands 64, and even his appearance is a terror to evil doers.

So Henry your friends who have gathered here to-night to assist you and your worthy wife in celebrating your passing the 34th milestone of life have brought with us a token which in their behalf I am authorized to present to you and wish you God's speed in your future life's journey and in accepting it we hope you will receive it in the same spirit in which it is tendered by your friends, not by intrinsic worth it may have but for the friendship and sentiment it represents.

We hope you will keep it, cherish it, and use it, and when in after years the footprints of time have made impressions on you, may you sit down in this easy chair to rest, may your mind carry you back to your friends who are here to-night and I assure you it will be a happy and comforting thought to know you were loved, honored and respected by the people among whom you were reared.

I now have the pleasure to present you with this chair and woe be to the mischievous boy who places an inverted pin thereon.

GOMEZ'S MANIFESTO.

Cuban General Issues an Appeal to His People.

BROOKE DISOBEYS PRESIDENT.

Varies From the Instructions That Cuban Soldiers Must Surrender Arms to the United States Officers—May Delay Distribution of the $3,000,000 to the Cuban Army.

HAVANA, May 19.—The expected manifesto of General Maximo Gomez was issued last evening. It reviews his part in the negotiations with Governor General Brooke and speaks of his love for Cuba and his sufferings on her behalf in the past.

General Gomez says: "The hour has now arrived for me to raise my voice in justification of my position and to describe the arduous work I have done since my first visit to General Brooke. I protested to him against the sum offered by the United States as insufficient to accomplish the good intended. While waiting an answer to my protest, I sought a solution of the question. General Brooke, representing the chief magistrate of the United States, announced his inability to add to the sum already settled upon. Speculators then attempted to intervene, offering suggestions, which were refused by me. They presented a proposition to the military assembly, but the scheme was frustrated by President McKinley's refusal to recognize that body. I deemed the formation of a militia a practical solution, and General Brooke, who approved the idea, asked me for a summary of my views on the subject. To this, I replied that 10,000 men were all it would be possible to get from the former Cuban army without distinction as to race. My answer was sent to President McKinley, together with a personal letter, giving explicit reasons why such a course was necessary.

"I had many conferences with General Brooke in my endeavors to discover such a plan of payment as would exclude the men who had never carried arms. General Brooke insisted upon the surrender of arms before the receipt of money. The Cuban commissioners, however, refused to agree with General Brooke and declined to fix dates and places where the Cuban soldiery could deliver up arms and receive payment from the American paymasters after identification by their respective chiefs."

After further praise of "General Brooke's consideration" and a declaration of his own desire to correct an error existing in Cuba with respect to the United States, he goes on to say: "My advice to you now is to return to your homes with the amounts offered by the intervening government and to practice patience. Let no pretext interfere with the attainment of the independent government for which three generations of Cubans have struggled with all sacrifice and which is now promised by a noble nation pledged to obtain for us our rights."

"Meanwhile I shall remain where I am generously invited, among the Cubans. I shall work without cessation for our aspirations and in a narrow sphere assigned to me if necessary. And if it happens that all logical and just methods shall be exhausted without the desired result, I will go to Washington and there tell of Cuba and her sacred ideals of an independent republic, and will arbitrate the destiny of our country, baptized with blood and sanctified with our love of independence and liberty, which we will never cease demanding in tones of subtle diplomacy, for the sake of the nation that is to be in the near future, always asking that independence and liberty which we covet in the name of right, civilization, justice and democracy."

We note from the press dispatches that the U. S. S. Wilmington has sailed a distance of 2,000 miles up the Amazon river having reached a point in Peru, only 400 miles distant from the Pacific ocean. This is one thousand miles farther up the Amazon than any other big boat has ever reached, and the exploration is likely to prove a great benefit to the commerce of the world. Allan Rae of Dow City is the electrician on the Wilmington and our readers will remember his letter from Brazil published last week.

Aguinaldo seeks peace. Our volunteers will soon be on the way home, and the work of civilization will begin in the Philippines. What will the "aunties" find to croak about then? America will welcome peace, peace with honor, peace bringing an enlargement of our interests, and an increased importance among the nations of the world. Future generations will wonder how anyone could have opposed the onward march of American civilization.

On Thursday Mrs. Eva McHenry was the complimented guest of a delightfully informal afternoon given by her sister, Mrs. A. D. Wilson. Mrs. McHenry's friends were pleased to meet her again and the time passed pleasantly with chatting and visiting. Before her guests took their departure Mrs. Wilson served them with a delicious lunch.

SAMPLE IS MODERATOR

Presbyterian Assembly Elects New York Pastor.

MESSAGE TO PEACE CONFERENCE.

New Moderator Urges Necessity of Carrying the Gospel Into New Possessions. Believed the Assembly Will Have No Heresy Trial of McGiffert—Conductor Bishop Elected at Omaha.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 19.—Rev. Dr. R. F. Sample of Westminster church, New York, was elected moderator of the 111th annual assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States, which convened in Westminster church yesterday. Immediately after roll call in the afternoon the election of a moderator was taken up. Dr. Sample was elected on the first ballot, receiving 338 votes, 300 being necessary for a choice, to 127 for the Rev. Matthias Haines of the First church, Indianapolis, and 133 for Rev. Dr. R. F. Coyle of Oakland. Dr. Sample's election is regarded as a triumph for the conservative element. The new moderator on assuming the chair spoke of the problems that confront the church and of the urgent necessity of carrying the gospel into the new lands opened by the Spanish-American war. Rev. Pleasant Hunter welcomed the assembly to Minneapolis and presented Dr. Sample with a gavel of Cuban, Porto Rican and Philippine woods. A resolution was adopted directing the moderator to send to M. De Stael, president of the international peace conference, a message "invoking the blessing of Almighty God on your deliberations."

The morning session was devoted to religious services, which were attended by about 600 communicants and so many spectators that the 1,800 seats of the church were not sufficient to accommodate them.

John Balcomb Shaw, a director of Union Theological seminary, in which Dr. Arthur C. McGiffert is a professor, confirms the statement that Dr. McGiffert has sent a letter anent the so-called heresy case. It is believed that this letter contains a satisfactory explanation of Dr. McGiffert's statements about the Lord's supper in his book, "The Christian Church in the Apostolic Age," and that therefore no heresy proceedings will be taken against him.

A LESSON IN MANNERS.

Denison set itself to the task of giving its theological neighbor to the north a lesson in good manners this year. Our people have neither forgotten nor entirely forgiven the shabby treatment accorded the Denison delegation at Sac City two years ago.

In Denison yesterday, in the place of the insults and hisses of two year ago the Sac City people were greeted with music and cheers, carriages were at the train to bring the ladies up town although many preferred to walk. Entertainment was provided for all. The opera house and city hall were thrown open for the visitors. The best seats in the opera house were reserved for the guests and not a seat was sold to a resident of Denison until they were provided for. Supper was served free of charge to those from abroad, and while Denison exulted, and cheered itself, and painted the town as red as possible everything was done to make the visitors feel at home, and had the weather not interfered with the plans we believe they would have enjoyed one of the holidays of a lifetime. Denison's hospitality needed no urging, these guests received the same treatment accorded everyone by our generous people on like occasions. It was a pleasure to entertain the guests, Denison does not wish to carry on a feud but if Sac City will only take a hint and do better next time Denison is ready to bury the hatchet and let bygones be what they should be—bygones.

A MATTER OF GRAVITY.

Last Sunday evening our reporter in walking home from church behind a dear young lady and "steady" overheard the damsel asked "him" how much she would weigh. The young man pondered over the matter a moment and then replied that he could not tell very well without "hefting" her. Smiting the action to the word he gently placed his best arm round her waist and raised her from the ground, and said he should guess she weighed 125 pounds. The young lady shook her head and softly said, "That isn't right; you'd better guess again." Judging from the last glimpse of the pair our friend thinks the young man had rather a "hefty" job—although not unpleasant one—in hefting the young lady's weight.—West Side Journal.
