THE DENISON REVIEW (ESTABLISHED 1866.) MEYERS & TUCKER, Publishers.

EDITORIAL COLUMN.

To-day we were looking at a map of the United States showing the different acquisition of territory. It is a surprise to find that all of the present territory of the United States was gained and controlled without the consent of the government. No consent was asked of the aborigines when the first settlers came to our coast and the thirteen colonies were carved wholly out of such conquered territory. Florida was purchased from Spain and the authority of the United States made supreme without the consent of the government. The Louisiana purchase, what is now Iowa, was further made without the consent of the government. The consent of the government was not asked when the Gasden purchase was made. A large amount of territory seized from Mexico was received by the government and controlled without the consent of the government. This was mainly a war of conquest led by a democratic administration for the purpose, not of humanity and civilization, but of spreading the slave power throughout the south and west. The annexation of Texas was made with the consent of but a small portion of the government. The purchase of Alaska was made without asking the consent of the government. It is indeed queer that our democratic friends should have just awakened to the huge immorality of the past history of the United States. They have themselves maintained a government of the most imperial style without obtaining consent from the government. They have led hostile armies to peaceful territories. They have themselves violated everyone of the principles about which they are now so anxious. History has proven that every onward step of the republic has been attended by suffering and bloodshed on the part of the natives. There is no evidence to prove that the present administration desires to maintain permanent possession of the Philippine Islands. There is no proof but that had the insurgents remained quiet there would have been no move made there other than has been made in Cuba looking toward the final restoration of liberty to the people. The democratic party is simply looking for a new issue with which to fool and befuddle the people. They have found that free trade did not draw enough support. They have found that free silver has failed to do this. They have now added to their repertoire opposition to the carrying on of the present war. We do not wish to call traitors all those who think that the Philippine natives should be left to themselves, but we ask our republican friends to remember that the democratic party is still the party of free trade, is still the party of free silver, is still the party of discontent. The phrase of expansion is simply another catch squad to draw republican votes from the support of just and honest principles. No, we do not question the right of any man to his own ideas, but we do say that any republican who is fooled by this new cry of "wolf! wolf!" which democracy is setting up, is not wise. And that he will regret it very seriously should his vote replace democracy, free trade, free silver and let them have charge of the affairs of our government.

The Cerro Gordo County Republican opposes biennial elections on the ground that annual campaigns are needed to educate the people. We do not believe that this is true. We believe that the large sums of money necessarily and unnecessarily expended by annual elections could be saved with profit to the people. We believe that annual elections tend to foster the professional schemer who makes his living out of campaigns and party politics. We believe that the business interests of the country demand as little disturbance as is compatible with good government. Everyone knows that for six weeks prior to an election, business is comparatively at a standstill. Traveling men will tell you so. Retail merchants will proclaim the same fact. We do not believe there is any danger to the people from one year of rest from politics. We do not believe they will think any the less nor that they will lose their interest in good government. We sincerely hope that Senator Titus' amendment to the constitution will ultimately become a part of our organic law and that Iowa will cease to come to a business standstill six weeks out of every year to decide the momentous as to who shall hold a few of our state and county offices. The democrats of Carroll county seem to have repudiated brother Coleo and all of his work. At the convention held a week ago Saturday, Mr. Coleo was defeated for the treasurership, and the Sentinel was given a roast in the platform of the most severe kind. We do not believe that this course has helped the democracy of Carroll county as the support of democratic principles. It is possible undoubtedly that they have objected to certain candidates from personal reasons. But we do not believe that Carroll county democracy will gain anything by repudiating its only strong party paper.

The Democrats of Crawford county will soon have their ticket to decide upon. It is without question that Mr. Blume will be renominated for representative, unless Romans should feel that he had not had sufficient honors and should choose to run for that office himself. For the treasurership there are several candidates mentioned. We have heard that Mr. Lorenzen will be a candidate to succeed himself, and have also heard the names of Mayor Charles Kemming and Mr. J. P. Jones. The machine has spoken against Mr. Jones' candidacy, and it is not probable that he will be nominated. Geo. Myers will succeed himself for the nomination of superintendent, as will Mr. Jensen for the board of supervisors; the other member has not been decided upon by the Denison gang. For sheriff Mr. Bell will be nominated in spite of the gang, who dislike him strongly on account of his friendship to Shaw Van. The Vail Observer states that Mr. O'Hare is not a candidate for county attorney at present. "At present" is suggestive of what may come to pass. The avowed are R. Shaw Van, who wishes to complete the term for which he was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the non-qualification of Col. Wright, and Mr. Goldschmidt, who relies upon his nationality and upon his observance to Romans to pull the coveted plum. The gang's organ here in Denison has intimated that the REVIEW is friendly to Mr. Shaw Van, and is following his interests. The truth is that the REVIEW does not care a copper whether Shaw Van is nominated or not, and would certainly oppose his reelection, if he were nominated. The insinuation was made solely to prejudice democrats against him, and is made on account of the fact that Romans has, for some reasons best known to himself, received a violent hatred for Shaw Van. Mr. Shaw Van helped Romans during his congressional race and fought Shaw under Romans' direction as diligently as any democrat in this county. So that his record on these two great principles of Crawford county democracy is clear. We all know that Mr. Caswell is in such position that he is obliged to spit whenever Romans takes the chew, and this accounts for his opposition to a man appointed by the board of supervisors, all of whom are democrats. The REVIEW is not taking up the fight for Shaw Van. He has been identified with a gang too long for us to have any affection for him, but we shall watch the fight with interest. Mr. Shaw Van has absolutely no chance for winning. Romans is as supreme and autocratic in the Democratic party in this county as the czar is throughout the Russias. How long this power of wealth without brains shall dominate is unknown to us, but we trust the time will come when the democrats of this county will cease to be subservient tools to one man's desire for personal vengeance. As for Caswell, we feel sorry for him. A newspaper man should be independent in his actions so far as possible. When the editor becomes a mere hireling, a mouth piece, a spitter of some other man's tobacco juice, he so lowers him self and his paper as to lose the respect even of his partisans.

The Manila Register enters a complaint against the establishment of a third paper in that town. For a town the size of Manila one good paper is sufficient. It would lessen the cost to the advertiser and be just as effective in reaching the people. It would be able to give better news service. For while three papers may manage to gather a trifling news, still, at least seventy-five per cent of other matter is necessarily the same. Just as is the case in Denison where the Bulletin and Journal are made up of three-fourths of news which has always been published in the REVIEW. The Manila Register is, to a certain extent, however, responsible for the present complicated newspaper situation in that town. There is no necessity for a local paper published in a small community, taking sides and trying to create strife among its own people as the Manila papers have done. It is true that county seat papers must be more or less of a political nature. The two great parties demand that each shall have some organ through which they can express themselves and through which their principles and their candidates may be supported. This leads to strife between papers in the same way as street corner political arguments often lead to even pay the calling mud mud, when necessary. The strength of its attacks upon some features of democratic rule in this county have been greater because the REVIEW has invariably kept within the limit of the truth. And so long as we state nothing but the truth we fear no contradiction and no amount of personal abuse or threats of personal violence can move us from what we consider the right course. The following is the Manila Register's plaintiff wall against three papers in their town: The third paper has been launched upon the long suffering Manila people. Its publisher confesses that he realizes that he has a fight before him. He is quite right. Our experience in the newspaper field during the past three years has revealed to us the fact that there is not business enough in this line in Manila to even pay the running expenses of three newspapers. Yes, there will be a fight; a fight for business, a fight for bread and butter, a fight for life, and a fight in which one, two or maybe all three of the papers will go into bankruptcy. Divide up your patronage and let the good work go on.

FURY OF PARIS MOBS.

Sunday Riots, Recalling Some Aspects of Commune.

WILD HORDE PILLAGES A CHURCH.

Altars and Statues Smashed and Crucifix Thrown Into the Fire—Excitable French Capital Torn by Anarchists. Hundreds Injured. PARIS, Aug. 21.—Paris was yesterday the scene of most serious disturbances, recalling some aspects of the commune. In response to an appeal of the journals Le Peuple and La Petite Republique, groups of anarchists and socialists gathered about 3 o'clock in the afternoon in the Place de la Republique. The police had taken precautions and there seemed no danger of disorders. Sebastian Faure and Faberot, well known revolutionary anarchists, were the ringleaders. Faure, standing on the pedestal of the statue which rises in the center of the Place de la Republique, addressed the crowd. Among other things he said that the anarchists should be masters of the streets. The police then interfered and dislodged Faure and Faberot, making three arrests. The crowd at this point dispersed, but a column of demonstrators headed by Faure and Henri d'Horr made for the Place de la Nation. Fierce Fighting Occurs. The police broke through the column and a struggle for the mastery followed. Shots were fired and M. Goullier, commissary of police, was twice stabbed with a knife. This threw the police into momentary confusion. The mob reassembled and ran toward the Place de la Nation. The police, reinforced by a squad that had been held in reserve, made another attempt to stem the current and fresh, fierce fighting occurred, three constables being wounded. Faure and d'Horr jumped into a passing street car that was going to the Place de la Republique and the car driver on arriving there gave a signal to the police, who immediately arrested them both, together with two other anarchists, Joseph Ferrier and Jean Perrin. All were conveyed to the Chateau d'Eau barracks. Only d'Horr was found in possession of firearms. In the meantime the anarchist mob retraced its course to the Place de la Republique, smashing the windows of religious edifices on the way. Suddenly, either at the word of command or in obedience to impulse, the column made a loop and curved toward the church of St. Ambrose, where the rioters smashed the windows. Sacrilegious Work of the Mob. Proceeding thence toward the Faubourg du Temple, they formed up into a compact body. Hatchets were suddenly produced with long knives stolen from the counters of shops, and a concerted rush was made upon the church of St. Joseph. The aged sacristan, seeing the mob, hastily closed the outer gates, but these were soon forced with hatchets and bars of iron. The massive oak doors were then attacked. According to the first account, the wild horde burst into the church, which instantly became a scene of pillage and sacrilege. Altars and statues were hurled to the floor and smashed; pictures were rent, candlesticks, ornaments and hosts from high altars were thrown down and trampled under foot. The crucifix above was made the target for missiles and the figure of the Savior was fractured in several places. "Then, while rancorous voices sing the 'Carmagnole,' the chairs were carried outside, piled up and set on fire in the center of the square fronting the church. When this stage was reached the crucifix was pulled down and thrown into the flames. Suddenly the cry was raised that the statue of the Virgin had been forgotten and the crowd returned and tore this down also. Police Dislodge Anarchists. Meanwhile the sacristan, who had been captured by the anarchists, escaped and called the police and Republican Guards, who promptly arrived with their constables. They were compelled to fall back in order to form up into line of defense, as the anarchists attacked them fearfully with knives. At length the officers began to attain the mastery. A score of anarchists took refuge in an adjacent house. Others entrenched themselves in the belfry and fiercely defended themselves by showering missiles on the Republican Guards, but finally these were dislodged. Twenty anarchists were arrested, taken to the police station, searched and found to be carrying revolvers, loaded sticks and knives. When the police entered the church the anarchists had just set fire to the pulpit. The interior of the edifice was a complete wreck. Several valuable, old pictures that can never be replaced were ruined. Fifty-six persons injured. Fifty-six persons have been reported injured, including several policemen. Nearly all were hurt by being crushed or trodden under foot. A body of rioters who had taken refuge in the courtyard of the Gare de l'Est was expelled by the police, who made 25 arrests. Quiet has now been restored. The prefecture of police gives the following statistics of yesterday's riots: Three hundred and eighty persons were injured, 360 were taken to the hospitals, 69 police agents were wounded, besides Commissaries Goutier and Dolmine. One hundred and fifty persons were arrested, of whom 80 are detained in custody. A lamentable feature of the affair is that it will be regarded as a pro-Dreyfus demonstration and react greatly to the detriment of the chances of acquittal. It is much to be feared that yesterday's scenes were due to the weakness of the government as displayed over the

HE WAS A MASON. Yet the Unfeeling Inner Guard Gave Him the Grand Laugh. A well known Chicago publisher, speaking of scenes and incidents in that city in the trying days after the big fire, said: "The great fire was a thing of the recent past and the down town portion of the city a scene of the greatest confusion. About 9 o'clock in the evening, while on my way to my home in the west division, I was accosted by a man of respectable appearance, who asked me to give him the price of a lodging. "I'm not a beggar," said he, "but I'm in hard luck. A man told me that some Masons were in session over this way. If I could find them, I'd be all right. "I happen to know a lodgeroom on Canal street, where there is a meeting tonight," said I. "Come along, I'll take you there." "The place reached, I conducted him up a long flight of stairs and knocked at a door. "I'm not a Mason," said I to a man who seemed to be acting in the capacity of a guard, "but I've run across one of your fraternity who seems to be in hard luck. I take it you'll be glad to do something for him." "Congratulating myself on having done a good act, I pushed my chance acquaintance forward and retreated toward the stairway. A whispered conversation ensued, when the guard exclaimed: "You're not a Freemason?" "No," replied my late charge, "but I'm a stone mason out of a job." "The roar of laughter that issued from the half open door made me wish myself a Mason. As it was, I hurriedly quitted the place."—Chicago Chronicle.

He Saw Her Home. On a rainy afternoon not long ago one of the pretty young matrons of Connecticut avenue left the car from which she had ridden up town and darted through the drizzle toward her home, a few doors from the corner. She had no umbrella. A Willie of the characteristic type, who was riding in the same car, noticed that she had no umbrella. He was right after her with his own umbrella up and extended. "May I see you home, miss?" he inquired languishingly, stepping up alongside of her. She turned to him with a dazzling smile. "Certainly," she replied. "Watch me." And she ran up the steps of her home and entered the vestibule door without looking back. "The rude thing!" muttered the Willie, blushing to the roots of its way hair, as Laura Jean would say, and then it took the next car.—Washington Post.
