The family reunion held at the A. M. Talcott home near here on Tuesday last was one of the most elaborate and enjoyable gatherings of the kind held in this vicinity for many years. Aside from the Hoffmans, Talcotts, and Butlers from Dow City and Arion, the company included Dr. and Mrs. J. M. The beautiful rain yesterday morning greatly interfered with the plans of the Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors of this camp. Great preparations had been made and in spite of the inclemency of the weather loads of picnickers began to reach town before train time. All started, but at the depot a telegram was received stating that the picnic was postponed. A disappointed crowd returned, but by noon the clouds had cleared and another telegram came stating that a number were already there and that they would carry out plans. A rush was made to gather up the fragments of the morning party. A large number went, the Royal Neighbors in costume. They all report a fine time. It was a pity to spoil so much anticipated pleasure but think of the good rain and the disappointment will be of short duration.

James H. Lewis has secured a position in the round house at Council Bluffs and will move his family to that place in the near future. Mr. Lewis and his family have lived here for so many years that it seems difficult to realize that they are going to leave us but we have at least one consolation and that is the fact that their moving is the result of necessity and not of their own choosing, the change in the freight division being the cause. Mrs. Lewis will be greatly missed in church work and all of the devotion work where she was always at her post. The kindest wishes of the entire community will follow them to their new home.

The sad, although not unexpected news, was received here Thursday that J. R. Fulton had died in the early morning at his home in Boone. The M. W. A. picnic Wednesday was a success despite the rain in the morning and the crowd was much larger than expected. The program was carried out very much as advertised commencing at 1:30 instead of in the morning. The speaking by Hon. C. G. Saunders of Council Bluffs was quite an attraction at the opera house and many eager listeners were present to hear his address. The sports were all palled off and some were hotly contested, the principle feature probably was the ball game between Vail and Odebolt the score standing 6 to 7, a victory for Vail, the principle feature being the battery work of the Vail team. The days program ended with a grand ball at the opera house in the evening with the Egermeyer orchestra furnishing the music. It was a success in every way and many will remember the 5th anniversary of the Vail M. W. A.
