THEY BROKE JAIL.

Two Petty Thieves Saw Their Way to Liberty at Dow City.

On Tuesday forenoon two tramps were arrested at Dow City for stealing shoes from the store of Messrs. Heath and Slocumb. They were brought up for trial, but at their request it was continued and they were placed in the city lock-up. Two men were employed to watch them during the night, nevertheless the men sawed through the bars in the inner corridor, sprung the bars in the outer window and made their escape.

Before leaving the town they went to the depot and asked the night man where the marshall was. He said he did not know, and the escaping prisoners said that they had another engagement that could not wait, but they wished to leave a tender good-bye to the city peace officers. We understand that the men who were employed to do the watching felt like thirty cents the next morning. The major part of the stolen goods were recovered. The method, which these sneak thieves used was as follows: One of the tramps made a small purchase of groceries and while the merchant was getting the things ready the other man sneaked off with a number of pairs of shoes.

AN ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

News comes to Denison that early on Wednesday morning, Mr. Jochims, a man of eighty-four years of age, attempted to take his own life. He was found in his bed on Wednesday morning with a bad gash in his wrist and a deep cut on each side of his neck, he still grasped the knife in his hand and stated that he was tired of life and that he wished to end it. Physicians were immediately called, but his life is still in danger from loss of blood. Several months ago Mr. Jochims suffered from a bad fall and he has not been in good health since that time, and his mind seems to be affected. The sons of Mr. Jochims are well known farmers living near Schleswig. We sincerely hope Mr. Jochims will recover from the effects of his own rash act.

During the storm on Wednesday night the house of Henry Hass about a mile west of this city was struck by lightning. The roof was partially torn off admitting the torrents of rain.

Work is begun on the re-construction of the Review building on Main street. It is proposed to build a fine high basement under the entire building, in which will be located the entire Review printing plant. The express office and Review business room will be on the first floor and the corner will be arranged for a store room to suit the tenant. The old press, that printed so many thousands of copies of the Review, was shipped to Chicago this week to be turned in for new material for the Review office. We estimate that this press has printed not less than two million copies of the Review during the years it has been in the office. It is still a good press and will print a million copies of some other paper before it has passed its days of usefulness.

He was formerly a teacher in the Denison city schools, but desiring to further fit himself for his chosen profession he has attended the Cedar Falls Normal the past three years. WEDDING BELLS.

Married at the home of the bride's mother in Brighton, August 8, Mr. Harry Hardy Savage and Miss Linnie Alida Downs; and Mr. Leonard Daniel Salisbury and Miss Grace Olive Downs.

On Wednesday evening, August 8th, the elegant home of Mrs. Dora Downs was the scene of one of the most beautiful weddings Brighton has ever known. Promptly at half past eight o'clock, with about eighty guests assembled, Miss Fraude Swisher presiding at the piano, sounded forth the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, and with measured stately steps, the wedding party descended the stairway passing just in front of the bay window beneath green arches, beautifully festooned with white carnations. In the background were potted plants artistically arranged. Just above each bridal pair was suspended a true lovers knot, emblematic of the true lovers knots so gracefully and impressively tied by the officiating ministers, Rev. John Ferguson, of Newton, Iowa, and Rev. Hardy A. Ingham of Brighton. Miss Linnie was attended by Miss Minta Townsend, of Monroe, Iowa, a college friend, Mr. Savage by Mr. Frank G. Miller of Ames College. Miss Grace was attended by Miss Lucy Horton, of St. Louis, Mo., and Mr. Salisbury by his brother, Mr. Fred Salisbury, of Griswold, Iowa. During the entire ceremony, soft, sweet strains of music were heard. An elegant and dainty repast was served, and never, we believe, did a more mirthful wedding party surround the festal board.

The brides were robed alike in elegant cream satin gowns with mousseline-trimmings and carried brides roses. The brides maids were charming in the dainty gowns of pink. The gentlemen were stately in the conventional blacks. Never has it been our privilege to witness the marriage of those whose lives give greater promise. Linnie and Grace are known not alone in Brighton but wherever they have lived, to be girls possessed not only of rare beauty of face and figure, but of those womanly grace and accomplishments which are of priceless value. Mr. Savage and Mr. Salisbury are young men of great promise, and are said to be by those who know them well, the true embodiment of genuine manhood. A large number of beautiful and costly gifts were received by each pair. After September 12 Mr. and Mrs. Savage will be at home in Denison, Iowa, where Mr. Savage has been chosen the superintendent of the city schools. Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury after the same date will be at home in Randolph, Iowa, where Mr. Salisbury has also been chosen principal of the city schools. The best wishes of a multitude of friends follow these excellent young people.--Brighton Enterprise.

The REVIEW has it from several sources, which it believes reliable, that the democratic candidate for supervisor from the west end will be Mr. Fienhold of Paradise township. Mr. Fienhold is a good farmer and an honest man, but until 1896 he had been a life long and ardent republican. In common with some others he left the republican party on account of the silver issue, and has since that time been active in democratic ranks.

While we shall not support Mr. Fienhold for election as we cannot uphold his principles, we are, never-the-less, glad to note that the democratic party contemplates the nomination of a man of the Fienhold stamp. The republicans will nominate a man equally as honest and as brave, and thus the choice will be, as it should be, between two good men.

The fight in Union township has, in the opinion of many of the leading democrats, made it impracticable to nominate any man from that township. Mr. Langley has served but one term, and were his township united in his support, he would undoubtedly receive the nomination. As for ourselves, we must say that Mr. Langley has made a fair and honest member of the board. The Review has accepted the fact that the board was partisan, and has expected that any favors it had to bestow would be given to democratic henchmen.

Aside however, from partisan questions, we have but little fault to find with the present board of supervisors. The republicans of the county feel that they should have some representation on the board; they feel that the heaven of opposition is always a good and wholesome influence upon any legislative body, and that the board would be more satisfactory to the people, more conservative in its actions, if it were not unanimously in favor of any one party. For these reasons the republicans will place good men in nomination and will ask their democratic friends, who are not too partisan, to vote for them in the interest of fair play.
