District Court Work For Three Days.

A Number of Cases Disposed of. Myers Receives Five-Year Sentence.

In the district court the cases set for trial have been disposed of rapidly or by a settlement. On Friday the case of Henry Koenekamp vs Fred Rodenalt was taken up and tried. This was an action by Koenekamp against Rodenalt for $1000 damages for a personal injury inflicted on him by Rodenalt who hit him in the head with a jug. The jury brought in a verdict for him in the sum of $48.

Saturday morning was taken up with arguments on motions and demurrers.

The first case on the call for Monday was the case of Theo. Munster vs John Meir. This was an action for damages on account of slanderous words spoken of Munster by Meir. This case was settled and dismissed on Saturday.

The next one on the assignment was Beck vs McAlpin which was also settled and dismissed on Monday.

The case of Eckert vs Heinrichsen, is an action by Caroline Eckert against Haas Heinrichsen a saloon keeper at Charter Oak for damages caused by Heinrichsen's selling liquor to her husband who is a Keely cure graduate. The case will probably occupy all of Tuesday.

On Friday evening last Chas. Myers accused of attempting to break and enter the residence of C. L. Voss pleaded guilty and received the extreme sentence of five years. Judge Elwood will

Mr. Wm. Von Dohlen was very pleasantly surprised at his home last Tuesday by a company of friends. The occasion being his forty-first birthday.

A. F. Kadoch, of Charter Oak, spent the past week here. Mr. Kadoch as city clerk is interested in the Charter Oak lawsuit and had to be on hand to show the records.

Mrs. Jacob Simms and little son, were the guests of Mrs. C. F. Kuehne the latter part of the week, and returned to Council Bluffs with Mr. Simms on Saturday.

LESSONS OF THE TRAGEDY.

One of Crawford county's most sensational tragedies took place on Friday when Henry Warn fired all his possessions and then allowed himself to be burned to death in the fire which he had lighted. In spite of the horror of the crime of suicide, people recognize that every man has a sort of proprietary interest in his own life. Thus had Henry Warn committed suicide only it would have created no great sensation. It was the wanton destruction of harmless and innocent beings which formed the most sensational feature of the tragedy and this brings us to the thought that we are often more merciful to the beasts of the field than we are to human beings. It appears from what we can learn that several years ago Warn was unmercifully beaten by his supposed friends and since that time he has not been in a fit mental condition to be allowed at large without some controlling and restraining influence. If this is true the men who so far forgot themselves as to fall upon and beat their friend are the real authors of Friday's tragedy, and the officers are participants' criminals in not seeing that he was properly cared for and restrained.

Another thing which is difficult to understand, is the apparent indifference of some people to the misfortunes of others. It appears that many people saw the smoke from the burning buildings, that some even saw Warn as he started the fire, but not one of these who first saw the flames made any determined effort either to save Warn's life or the destruction of the property. One man did start toward the place but thought better of it and turned away. This reminds us of one or two other instances of similar conduct. An old man fell by the roadside one cold night, people passed him and instead of assisting him, drove to town and notified the sheriff. When help reached the old man, it was only by the hardest kind of work that he was restored to life. Yet another case was that of the man who was crippled for life by freezing on the road between Deloit and Kiron. A passer-by heard his shouts for help and deliberately drove around through the fields in order to avoid him. This is carrying the theory, that one is not his brother's keeper to an extremity, that to say the least does not speak well for the sympathy of those guilty of such negligence. The man who cares not for his neighbor does not deserve success in life.

WAS PAT CROWE IN DENISON?

Bon Ton Proprietors Claim He Lunched There Sunday Night.

The proprietors of the Bon Ton lunch room claim that a man who answers the description of Pat Crowe took lunch at their restaurant on Sunday evening. They assert that the man answered the description perfectly and that he showed a large flash roll when paying his bill. He had little to say beyond giving his order and seemed anxious to escape notice. There have been a number of evidences that Crowe has been in this county. The Omaha World-Herald publishes a letter from Crowe post-marked Denison March 2d, in which he states that he is innocent and that he will give himself up if assured of a fair hearing. Mr. Crowe has a number of friends and relatives in this county who are among our good and reputable citizens, and we do not believe they would harbor him unless thoroughly convinced of his innocence and that he would not be accorded fair treatment if taken to Omaha.

Gospel Temperance Lecturer.

Beginning March 10, Mrs. Owen Hitchcock, of Chicago, will conduct a series of gospel temperance lectures at the Baptist church. Mrs. Wilson has attained a great popularity during the past ten years. As a speaker she is sympathetic and eloquent, her arguments are clear, keen and to the point. All should hear her.

The Bulletin states that a number of papers published the sensational story about Gov. Shaw and McGregor last week. The Bulletin editor fails to state who the correspondent was who sent out the sensational dispatches. We will wager that it was the editor of the Bulletin himself. He knows that in Denison the story would not injure Gov. Shaw in the least, but that outside it might be taken for something of a serious nature. The Review is glad to say that it does not publish sensational takes to the injury of any Denison man.

The final closing out auction of the Levitt stock begins Saturday. Mr. Levitt is going out of the dry goods business and his store will close next month. Mr. Levitt will take a vacation from business cares for several months and then the chances are that he will return to Denison, build a fine block on his recently purchased corner on Main street and open business in a different line. Both Mr. and Mrs. Levitt are delighted with Denison and say that they hope to make this place their permanent home. The auction sale will doubtless afford many bargain opportunities.
