Judge Conner's return to Washington leaves a big gap in the community. We wish that Congress would hurry up and adjourn so that he might be at home once more.

Charter Oak is joying a splendid season of business and looks prosperous and healthy. Not much like the cornfields the editor remembers there the day the first lots were sold.

On last Friday evening the junior class of the high school gave a reception in honor of the graduating (senior) class at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ph. A. Schlumberger. During the first part of the evening interesting games were enjoyed, and later a delicious two course luncheon was served. From reports all enjoyed themselves hugely.

Harry Wagoner, living in East Denison, has been very sick the past week being confined to his home with erysipelas. For a time he was considered very dangerously ill, but the physician in attendance pronounces that he is on the road to recovery. He is a member of the Modern Woodmen of America and the society has been looking after his wants. We trust he may soon recover.

The Holiness Band commences its annual meeting at the city park today. One would be deaf and blind did he not gather something of the glee with which this event is hailed by the thoughtless of the town. To them it means a continuous vaudeville, all the more pleasant because its enjoyment as vaudeville is under the ban. To the followers of the Holiness faith it means a season of prayer, of earnest exhortation and of rejoicing over the possession of God's love. One who does not believe with them has the right to pity, to admire or to be amused as he sees fit, but he also has the distinct right to keep his amusement or his pity or whatever his emotion, strictly to himself, at least while attending the meetings. If both the visitors and the members of the Holiness band will keep in mind that charity is a virtue, there will be no such scenes as have marred the former camp meetings.
