

STATE BANK ORGANIZED

ARION COMES TO THE FRONT.
OFFICERS ARE ELECTED.

Desired Amount Subscribed and More in Sight. Will Commence Business on September First.

The new State Bank, of which we have recently made mention in these columns, was duly organized today. The officers so far elected, are: President, J. L. Maurer; Vice President, George V. Jordan; Directors, Hon. Thos. Rae, George Rae, Dan'l Hemphill, George V. Jordan, Thomas Hederman, Samuel Fox, William Eggers, A. A. Conrad and J. L. Maurer. In the matter of cash, but little effort was necessary to raise the desired amount, and as the time drew near for organizing the corporation much more than the $25,000 had been pledged for the enterprise. The best men in the community are behind it, which insures success.—Arion Anchor.

Mrs. Ed Sierer has returned from an eight weeks visit with relatives at Atlantic.

Hon. J. P. Coaker spent today and yesterday in Nebraska, going on a business mission.

Rev. George E. Morphy will preach at the Baptist church, Sunday morning, Aug. 10, 1902.

Mr. L. V. Tabor a capitalist of Independence Ia. is in Denison this week visiting at the home of Mr. Charles Tabor.

There will be a meeting of all the street fair committees at city hall next Tuesday night. Every member is requested to be present.

Mr. Frank Pfarr is expected home from Tipton next Wednesday.

A new cement walk is being put in in front of the brick building next to the Hub.

Miss Jennie C. Benson of Keokuk, Iowa, is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. R. M. Johnson. She has also visited relatives and friends the past week.

We are glad to note that by its silence the Bulletin gives its assent to the REVIEW's talk about the fourth term proposition. Criswell may be alright but the fourth term business is all wrong.

Some of our people fail to realize that the street fair is but a few weeks distant and that there is very much to be done. Some of the committees have done excellent work and the attractions already secured guarantee one of the best fairs ever held in the state. It is time now that the premium list should be issued so that farmers and house-wives may commence planning on what they will bring to the fair.

While at Lake Chelan, Mr. George Naeve informs us that he met a Mr. Chase, a lawyer of Seattle who practiced in Michigan in the early days and who had as one of his pupils Mr. Charles Tabor now of Denison. He was much interested to learn of the success of his former student. Mr. Naeve also met Miss Nellie Morrill formerly of Denison. She is prospering finely in her new home and appears in best of health and spirits. Mr. Naeve visited the Holden mine twice during his stay at Lake Chelan and says it is one of the richest bodies of ore in the world being fully equal to the Clark and Daly mines in Montana. If this is the case we may hear of a Senator Holden some of these days.

The following democratic candidates have donated their little "dover" a piece to the Bulletin holdup man. Jar. McKim, A. A. Fishel, John Cook, C. M. Du an, W. H. Scaggs, Frank Paul and M. J. Collins.

Mr. Albert Bagge and family drove overland from Quimby Iowa yesterday for a visit with Denison relatives. Albert is now engaged in the hardware implement and harness business and is prospering finely.

The schoolma'ams are coming next week and Supt. Von Coelin has prepared for them the best program of any Normal held here in years. Supt. Von Coelin has also fulfilled every expectation of his friends and has won for himself the regard and esteem of teachers and patrons throughout the country.

A merry party consisting of the Misses Francisco and Crandall and Dr. R. H. Hecht, B. M. Covault, C. E. Lyman, J. R. Berkson and P. J. Klinker went to Wall Lake last evening. They were met at that place by Frank Young with a hack and driven to the lake, where they enjoyed a splendid dance and outing with the many Denison people already there.

As a result of an advertisement placed in the want columns of the REVIEW last Tuesday we have received three letters in response up until Thursday. The advertisement was a house for sale ad. This only goes to show that these little ads are read, and the column is watched particularly by those who are wanting positions, or have anything to sell.

There is promise of a lively scrap in Denison over the supervisor nomination. Immediately after John Cook announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination, Mr. Harry Scaggs was induced to allow his name to be used. Pressure was then brought to bear on Cook to get him to withdraw. Mr. Cook did not see it that way and there is promise of a fight to a finish between the two Denison men. Both are well known and have many friends but it is our guess that Mr. Cook will win.

A very heavy yield of oats is reported as having grown within our city limits. An enterprising citizen secured through an agent twenty adjoining lots in the college addition and after following the instructions of the president of Ames college of thorough and consistent tillage has secured a crop that has become the pride of many of our citizens. A conservative estimate places the entire crop at 85 to 90 bushels to the acre. Amos Rouze has not usually been considered a farmer but he certainly has a crop that speaks for itself.

A crowded house is more than likely to witness the new comedy success, "A Hoosier Daisy" at the Opera House, Denison Iowa, Aug. 18. The play is out of the beaten path and tells the story of an awkward, gawdy, half grown girl in a little Indiana town, who has been taken from the poor house by a prominent lady church member so the child might get a proper "home-training." We see this hoosier Daisy in all phases of her life, the little country wif with the poor house slang her first inspiration of love at sight of the young minister, her goodness of heart in saving the tramp from arrest. See and hear her quaint songs and dances, her awakening to the homely spectacle she presents, her demand for long dresses, and her final return from boarding school, the exquisitely gowned young lady who puts her enemies to confusion. It is a character entirely new, distinctly unique and original to the stage. Around this character the author has woven a play that abounds in hearts interest as well as comedy, introducing such types of character as one finds in little Indiana towns making a good, pure comedy that will live forever. Seats on sale.

LIBRARY SITE IS DONATED.

Mr. Miller Completes His Generous Offer.

Mr. J. P. Miller, as usual as good as his word, has transferred his lot to the library commission and the deed will soon be here ready to turn over to the committee. The work of removal of the old buildings will commence September first and the committee is already figuring on the plans for the ten thousand dollar building which is soon to be completed. All the conditions of the Carnegie donation have been fulfilled and there is no danger but that the money will be forthcoming and that by another year Denison will be enjoying the best library facilities of any town of its size in the state. The residence now occupied by Mr. Grummons has been purchased by Mr. George Richardson and will be moved to a new location. Mr. Grummons has purchased the handsome Wiblehouser property in North Denison and will make it his home. The Miller firm will remove its warehouse to another location whenever the committee desires the lot vacated. The progress of the library enterprise will be noted of great satisfaction by all our people.

HAS RETURNED FROM HARVARD

PROF. SAVAGE RETURNS FROM WORK AT GREAT UNIVERSITY

Tells the Review Man Some of His Impressions of the University and the East.

Prof. H. E. Savage returned this week from a several weeks course at Harvard University being just in time to prepare for his work in the Normal. Mrs. Savage is still visiting in eastern Iowa and will not return for about two weeks. Mr. Savage enjoyed his eastern trip greatly. In conversation with the Review editor he said something as follows.

Harvard University the oldest, largest and most famous university in America affords a most pleasant opportunity for summer study, situated as it is near the sea in quaint old Cambridge now a suburb of Boston. The University like every thing else in the east is conservative in all respects. Compared with any of the great western universities like Chicago or Iowa it may be said to be "slow" for it lacks the haste and zeal that are found in all western institutions. But it has that prestige that age with generations of famous and influential alumni can only give. More of America's statesmen and great men, among whom is President Roosevelt, have gone forth from this institution than from any other in the U. S. The buildings are now scattered all about the city, the original quadrangle being far too small to accommodate all of the five thousand students in their various courses.

On all sides are renowned historical spots. Within short walks are to be seen the old Washington elm, screened to protect its bark from aggressive souvenir seekers, where "The Father of his Country" took command of his first American army, the homes of Longfellow, Lowell and Mr. Auburn cemetery, the West Minister Abbey of American. By street car one can visit the site of the Battle of Lexington and classic old Concord where wrought and taught such literary lights as Emerson, Hawthorne, Thoreau, Margaret Fuller, and Louisa M. Alcott, all of whose homes are standing. The very beauty and restfulness of the place has made it a center for literary characters.

By another route one may reach Salem and see a typical old colonial town, filled with old gambrel roofed houses, unpainted and propped up to make them tenable, scenes of wither and folly and many other historic events. Here stands the first church of the colony erected in 1628. It consists of one small room 16 by 18 feet with a gallery about one third as large, reached by a ladder. This little church tells well the simple beginnings of the present great church system of America.

Plymouth, where the colonists first landed on the shores of a new continent, may be reached in three hours by steamer. There may be seen the historic Plymouth Rock and many relics belonging to the first settlers.

Boston proper, as a city, is as odd as it is famous. Its narrow winding "cow-path streets" with colonial buildings and "burying grounds" scattered all about gives a strange appearance to an eye accustomed only to regularly laid out western cities. Among the places which its citizens almost worship are Faneuil Hall, "the Cradle of American Liberty," the Old South Church, the Old North Church, the Old State House, the Commons and the site of the Boston Massacre. Just across the river in Charleston is the site of the Battle of Bunker Hill marked by a towering monument, erected in honor of colonial bravery. As typical of New England, Boston and vicinity is of great interest to any American citizen. It is true it worships its past, hugging to its breast everything old and historic to the extent of being unprogressive in some respects; is egotistical about its present greatness and over- sanguine of its future superiority; studies England and Europe more than its own country and knows little and apparently cares little about the great west. It cannot conceal its surprise that out of a western state can come such great men as Shaw, Wilson, Allison, Denoyer and Henderson and our great galaxy of congressmen, but phenomenal as it is to them they do not withhold due credit for such greatness.

The East having had more time for its development presents in all its features a degree of perfection and completeness unknown to the West, but is less active in its progression and must waken up if it would long retain ever this element of superiority.

We are informed that Mr. Patrick Flahive living near Kenwood, is dangerously ill and that there are grave fears as to his recovery.

Crawford County State Bank

DENISON, IOWA.

The Best Security for Depositors. Farm Loans at Five Per Cent Interest.

This Bank is incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa. This gives the best security to all depositors, not only to the amount of stock, but the personal property of each share holder is held to the amount of his share for any loss to the bank. Incorporated banks are under the control of the State Auditor, who can at any time examine the business, and according to his investigation the published statements are made. Depositors in an incorporated bank have more security than the confidence imposed in the offices. They have the best security, because the capital stock can not be used at pleasure for outside speculation and investment. The Crawford County State Bank is the best incorporated banking institution in the County. A general banking business done.
