ELKS IN SESSION AT SALT LAKE.

Grand Lodge Convenes With Attendance of Twelve Thousand.

Salt Lake, Aug. 12.—The first meeting of the annual session of the grand lodge of Elks opened in the Tabernacle this morning, with 12,000 members of the fraternity on hand.

A drizzling rain, something almost unprecedented in Salt Lake at this time of year, fell occasionally yesterday, but not with sufficient volume to injure the decorations or interfere with the sightseeing. The business district is one mass of flags and bunting, the national colors and the royal purple of the Elks being intertwined on nearly every business block in town, while hundreds of residences are also draped. The electric effects on Main and other business streets are beautiful in the extreme. The business district last night was ablaze with thousands of incandescent lights in white and purple, draped across and along the sides of the streets and hanging in festoons and gathered in immense set pieces at various corners.

Special trains by the dozens jammed with Elks from every section of the country arrived yesterday. The time was taken up by the visiting Elks with trips to Saltair and other resorts. Among the arrivals were special trains from Omaha, Sioux Falls, Kansas City, Baltimore and other eastern points.

No News of Boyaca.

Colon, Colombia, Aug. 12.—Nothing has been heard of the government gunboat Boyaca, which has been missing since July 29, when she left Panama with 300 men on board to reinforce General Bertel at Agua Dulce.

CROP BULLETIN.

For week ending Aug. 11, 1902, Des Moines, Iowa:

The daily average temperature of the past week was two to three degrees below normal. The amount of sunshine was about normal and the rainfall was light, except heavy local showers in the southern and eastern districts. In the larger part of the state conditions have been favorable for stacking and threshing, and for the advancement of growing crops. Variable reports as to yield of wheat and barley are received, the larger number being fairly satisfactory. Winter wheat is generally much above the average. Spring wheat is showing best yield in north-western counties. Many returns of exceptionally large yields of oats are offset by reports of shortage in amount and poor quality in sections where damage by floods was greatest.

The corn crop is doing well, and in about three fourths of the area planted the field will be unusually heavy if normal weather prevails during the balance of the season.

Potatoes and the minor crops are promising a large output.
