The little child was exceptionally bright and always seemed healthy until very recently and her death is a sad blow to her parents.

As might have been expected the Bulletin, jealous of the REVIEW and its "Every Other Daily," goes out of its way to pronounce the tri-weekly a failure in advance, and then to state that if it is a success the Bulletin will start a daily. The Bulletin said the semi-weekly was a failure until the REVIEW proved otherwise. The Bulletin proposed that both papers should run as semi-weeklies during the subscription season and then return permanently to a once-a-week issue. The REVIEW refused to be a party to any such bunco game and entered the field with its "Every Other Daily." It may not be a success but we shall try hard to make it one. At any rate we are not asking the Bulletin to break the ground for

BOARD CONSIDERS BRIDGE CONTRACT

Four Contractors Enter Bids For Four Year's Work.

E. M. Parker and Canton Bridge Company Almost a Tie as Low Bidders.

On Tuesday noon the board opened the bids for county bridge work. Herman Gerill and John Ward of Audubon were high bidders. The Canton Bridge Co. was the lowest bidder with E. M. Parker, the present contractor, as a very close second. Figured on the basis of last year's work there would be a difference of only $227.00 between the two low men. On account of the general satisfaction given by Mr. Parker during the past year and the promptness with which the work has been done, there is an inclination on the part of some of the members of the board to give him the contract. The REVIEW, while maintaining its position of a year ago that the contract should be given to the lowest responsible bidder, is yet willing to admit that there is much force in the argument that Mr. Parker has done good and efficient work. As there is but a small difference in the bids the board could not be criticised if they took this view of the case. The matter will be decided to day.

Play In Hard Luck.
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Seymour, and Miss Edith Luney arrived home last Saturday from Creston Iowa. The Carter-Reynolds Co. disbanded at Creston, on account of disagreements among the leaders of the troupe. We understand that Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds were generally disliked by the troupe and were constantly quarreling.
Mr. and Mrs. Seymour went to Chicago to see what prospects there are for profitably putting in the rest of the season. Miss Luney will remain in the city for the present.

Refractive Power of the Ruby.
The primitive form of the spinel ruby is like that of the diamond, eight sided, which distinguishes it at once from the oriental stone. The color of the genuine ruby is that of the arterial blood, or pigeon's blood, as it is called. It is extremely hard and after the sapphire is the hardest of the corundums, which renders it difficult to understand why the earth so rarely gives it up. Its tint is as beautiful by artificial light as by day, and its powers of reflection are so great that ancient belief credited it with power of emitting light. The ancients even supposed that it would shine through clothing with undiminished power.

The German Wife's Vacation.
It is a common practice in Berlin for the wife to stay at home when the husband and family go to the seaside. In this way the wife enjoys her own holiday, for there is no housekeeping to be done. She forgoes with friends—"grass widows," like herself—and they take their meals at restaurants, spend their afternoons and evenings at popular places of entertainment and thoroughly enjoy themselves.—London Express.

Yes, Indeed!
When a man gets tired out and ill, he goes fishing, returning shortly with three wall eyed pike, restored health and a blister on his nose. When a woman feels that way, she hangs around the house and cries if anybody looks at her. It must be lovely to be a man.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Wonderful.
He—She holds her age well, doesn't she?
She—Yes. She doesn't look a day older than she says she is.—Philadelphia Record.

SECRETARY SHAW BADLY SCARED

Zealous Watchman With Two Pistols the Cause.

The Secretary Pushed the Wrong Button But Will Not do it The Second Time.

The following is from a recent Washington special:
Secretary Shaw went over to the Treasury Department this morning to read some of his letters. He took a friend from Iowa with him.

The Secretary found one long letter that interested him. He leaned back in his chair to read it. As he leaned back he threw one foot on the corner of the desk. The friend from Iowa, sat looking out of the window. Half a minute after the Secretary put his foot on the desk an excited man, with a big pistol in each hand, burst into the room.

He looked around and pointed both pistols at the friend from Iowa.
"Don't shoot!" yelled the Iowa man as he put both hands high in the air.

Mr. Shaw kicked his chair over and made a wild leap for the other side of the room.
"What's the matter?" inquired the man with the pistols. "Is this man trying to rob you?" and he motioned suggestively with one of his pistols.

"No! No!" shouted Mr. Shaw, from his vantage point on the other side of the room. "That's no robber. That's my friend. There's some mistake."
The Secretary was right. There was a mistake. When he put his foot on the desk he pressed the button that calls a watchman to his office in a hurry, and the watchman came in a hurry just as he was expected to.

Tuesday night the conductor on No. 5 said that it was almost impossible their train to climb the hill at Arcadia, as the hard wind of straight against them was terrific
