Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26.—Joseph K. Clark, brother of United States Senator W. A. Clark, died yesterday at the home of his sister, Mr. G. F. Miller, in this city, aged sixty years. Mr. Clark, accompanied by his wife, came to Los Angeles last Thursday to attend a family reunion in honor of the eighty-ninth anniversary of his mother, Mrs. Mary Clark. Friday afternoon Mr. Clark was stricken with a brain affection and sank into unconsciousness, from which he never rallied.

STREET CRIES IN CAIRO.

Sounds and Voices That Travelers Hear in the Egyptian City.

Take a chair outside a busy cafe near the market place and tram center and watch street life. There are no hungry men, no starving, pinched child faces, no finger worn mothers, for this is a land of plenty, and the people's wants are few and simple. Thus sunshine and laughter spray a welcome fragrance over the novelty and romance of the gay city's streets. Here is a street melodist twanging a monster one stringed "something" and accompanied by a nose ringed girl who taps deftly on a species of tambourine, while bystanders ejaculate "Allah, Allah!"—the Arabic word for applause. If not quite in accord with your prejudices concerning music, well, maalaish (never mind), it is not nearly so distracting as a street corner at home, and they will go away if you tell them to. The haboon, the donkey and boy are in evidence, with a score of performing tricks that are very original and certainly funny, and you console yourself with the hope of a minimum of cruelty in the training.

A fruit seller, basket on head, with luscious grapes and figs, saunters by, singing in a quaint minor: "O grapes, O sweet grapes, that are larger than doves' eggs and sweeter than new cream! O angels' food, delicious figs, bursting with honey, restorers of health!" There is a drink seller, bent under the weight of the odd shaped jar slung over his shoulder, a lump of ice projecting from its mouth, conjuring custom in a similar strain as he struts up and down, making the air resound with the rhythmic clap clap of two brazen saucers: "O refreshment of the weary! O quencher of parched lips! O blessing of heaven!"

Another street cry which may be heard in the main street of Abbassieh, a suburb, contains the following enticing announcement: "Tomorrow, O people, I am going to kill a camel! The doctor says, it is young and healthy. Oh, its flesh will be tender as the quail and juicy as lamb. Its price is but 1 1/2 plasters (7 cents) a pound. Do you love the sweet flesh of the camel? Then come early and be satisfied." Not the least picturesque figures in the streets are the city police, in their neat white drill and red turbans in summer and blue serge in winter.

Indiana Railway Tied Up.

Goshen, Ind., Jan. 26.—One hundred employes on the Indiana railway struck yesterday. Service on the Goshen-South Bend interurban is abandoned and the city lines in Goshen, Elkhart and South Bend are tied up. Only mail cars are in motion. The company refused to recognize the new union formed and discharged several employes for joining it.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES.

A man of the name of Shafer shot and killed Richard Smith at Vehay, Ind., Saturday night and when lodged in jail cut his clothing into strings and hanged himself.

A Story Worth Reading

To be in love with a beautiful woman—to have an unscrupulous rival—to live in the shadow of an awful disease which if developed would make marriage impossible—to lead a Jekyll and Hyde life, impelled to the bad by some mysterious, irresistible force—to go through all this and win in the end makes it worth while to have lived. This is the story unraveled in "Professional Brethren," which will begin in our columns in a few days. It is hardly necessary to say that it is a story worth reading.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

From a twenty-year-old mulberry tree 218 pounds of leaves have been picked in a year.

String beans may be obtained during the entire summer by planting once a month for successive supplies.

Some trees are much more unfavorable to the growth of plants beneath them than are others. The worst are the yew and the ash.

Whenever water is given to pot plants enough should be used thoroughly to wet the soil around the roots. Mere sprinkling of the surface does little good.

The next time you have a bouquet of flowers to keep add a very little camphor to the water in the vase and see how much longer its freshness will be retained.

One of the most satisfactory plants for house culture is the yellow oxalis. It will blossom freely if given sun and water, and its bronze brown foliage sets off its pretty yellow bloom rarely.

She Had a Winning Way.

Nodd—Come around to my house to-night and play poker.
Todd—Who is going to be there?
"Just my wife."
"I'm afraid I can't afford it, old man."

The Columbine.

There are some good reasons adduced by those who favor the claims of the columbine as a national flower. The colors of the wild varieties are red, white and blue. The flower is purely American, quite widespread, hardy, graceful, beautiful. The petals are perfect "liberty caps," reversed they are "horns of plenty." Columbine comes from the Latin columba, a dove; the peaceful derivation of the word accords well with our national policy; the name also recalls Columbus, the great navigator and discoverer. The flower also lends itself well to a conventional architectural decoration.

Seismic Shocks in Mexico.

Mexico City, Jan. 26.—News has been received here by the minister of the interior of earthquake and volcanic disturbances near Urique in the state of Chihuahua. Nantana mountain has been riven in twain and the atmosphere is filled with fine volcanic dust.

Count Castellane Elected.

Paris, Jan. 26.—Count Boni de Castellane has been elected a deputy. Returns from six polling stations are still outstanding, but they cannot affect the result.
