Happenings At Vail.

The M. W. A. Picnic.

Quite a crowd of people attended the 8th annual Woodman picnic at Vail last Thursday despite the threatening weather. The parade and speaking at the opera house was the principal attraction in the morning.

The parade was headed by the Carrol band, and was followed by Woodmen, Royal Neighbors and floats gotten up by the principal business houses.

At the hall, Prof. Van Ness, of Denison, was the principal speaker, and the Male Quartette from Denison sang several selections.

Messrs L. W. Jinyon and Joe Duffy gave a comic dialogue that brought down the house. Several minor sports were run off after dinner. After the small sports, the crowd was attracted to the ball park south of the depot to witness the game between Denison and Vail. The county seat boys were rather swelled up after defeating the crack Dunlap team and some of their backers actually thought they could do the same thing to Vail. They ran in the first score in the second and held our boys down until the sixth inning when our boys tightened up their belts and Pomeroy's curves were landed out in the tall grass. Riley did excellent work for Vail, striking out seventeen men. The Vail team did good work and upheld their reputation as the best amateur team in this part of the state.

After supper, the crowd thinned out considerably; many going home on the evening trains.

The ball at the opera house was well attended, 73 numbers being sold. The music was furnished by the Egermeyer Orchestra of Carroll.

To The Farmers.

The following letter gives the methods used by some of the canvassers who have called on you this season and by their mis-representations have probably obtained your order. The Walter A. Wood Machines are equal if not superior to any machine sold and their prices are fully ten percent less—as they are not in any combine and do not have to pay an army of canvassers to go about the country the expense of the same being taxed to the price of the machine. A sample machine can be seen on my floor. Every machine warranted equal to any made.

E. T. COCHRAN.
Hoodok Falls, N. Y., Jun. 15, 1903.
E. T. Cochran, Agent.
Denison, Iowa.

Dear Sir:
We have received advices from our western general agents to the effect that our competitors in the harvesting machine business are conveying the idea through their travelers to prospective purchasers of harvesting machinery that it will be a difficult matter for purchasers of our machines to procure repairs for same.

It is needless to say that these statements are entirely untrue, and made solely with a view to promoting their interests, and are to be considered as nothing more than a malicious attempt to injure our standing in your community. It is our desire to obtain the name of the manufacturers or agents who are circulating these unscrupulous statements. If we knew positively the name of any manufacturer or traveler using this means to detect from the possible sale of our machines, we should punish them to the full extent of the law. We will thank you for any information you can procure for us.

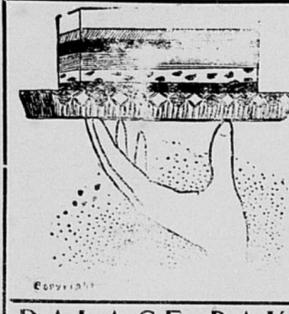

The facts of the case are that we are carrying a large stock of machines and an adequate stock of duplicate parts at St. Louis, Kansas City, Des Moines, Minneapolis, Omaha, Wichita, Madison (Wis.) and Dallas, (Texas), and at all prominent distributing centers throughout the United States. Furthermore there has never been a time when this Company was not able and anxious to furnish any required extra parts for any of its machines in use, whether of current or out-of-date models.

Yours respectfully,
WALTER A. WOOD M. & R. M. Co.,
By Given Moore, Sales Manager.
