Albert Birkhoefer has purchased the saloon business from Pat Hedderman. He will live on his farm west of town where he is now building a substantial house and barn. A gentleman from Omaha will run the saloon for Mr. Birkhoefer.

Our farmers are in a building mood this fall, John Sievers is building a large barn on his farm east of town, Martin Conroy is also building a large barn on the home place and many others are in line with new houses and barns. Let the good work go on.

Our bank has put in a cabinet containing 100 private drawers for their customers use. Each drawer has a separate key, no key will unlock two boxes, so each customer has a private box in the vault where he can go at any time and deposit his papers and valuables where they are safe from fire and loss. The drawers are being taken rapidly as they are furnished without cost and each customer is allowed to enter the vault at pleasure and he thus feels that he need not trouble the cashier to wait upon him.

MARRIED.

Miss Therese Akeblene of Hanover and Mr. Daniel Namitz of Soldier were married at high noon at the German Lutheran church by Rev. Runge. The wedding march was played by Prof. Gusemann and the bridal party marched in. The bridesmaids were Miss Louise Namitz and Miss Lentz. The groomsmen were Mr. Schultz and Mr. Lentz. The bride was very tastefully attired in a black satin trimmed with white silk applique and her head was beautifully adorned with a bridal wreath and veil. After the ceremony the immediate relatives partook of a bountiful repast at the bride's mother's. The bride's cake was in pyramid form, its crest adorned with flowers and the circumference of the cake was elegantly lighted with burning colored candles. We extend congratulations to Mr. Namitz on securing so beautiful and worthy a bride and we hope they will live happily together to a ripe old age.

BIT OF FRENCH HISTORY.

An Empire Lost For Want of the Right Sort of Riding Habit.

An old legend which makes no pretense to truth tells how a kingdom was lost for want of a horseshoe nail. But a volume of sober historical and biographical purpose, written by Count d'Herrison, makes it appear that the Empress Eugenie, after the battle of Sedan, lost the chance to preserve the empire of her husband by not possessing exactly the right sort of riding habit. It was the evening of Sept. 3, 1870.

The news of the surrender of the French army and of the Emperor Napoleon at Sedan had spread about Paris. The city was excited, and there was talk of a revolution and the banishment of the imperial family. At this juncture Emile de Girardin, a man who was trusted by the empress and who had had no little experience during the previous changes of government, arrived at the palace of the Tuilleries. "If your majesty were to appear on horseback in the midst of the people," Girardin said, "and announce the abdication of the emperor in favor of the prince imperial, your own assumption of the title of empress regent and the appointment of Thiers as prime minister, the empire might be saved. Something must be done to turn the tide."

The empress accepted the advice. But when this leader of the world's fashion sought for a proper costume for her performance it could not be found. The only riding habit in the Tuilleries was a fantastic one of green, embroidered with gold and silver, made for a festive hunting occasion, and the hat was a not less fantastic three cornered affair of the epoch of Louis Quinze. The empress felt that it would not do to appear in this garb on such an occasion. Her appearance in it might have the opposite effect upon the people from that which she intended. The plan had to be given up, the empress and the prince imperial were banished and the Napoleonic empire was at an end.

Curiosity Conquered.

"I thought Jane had such a dreadfully stiff neck."

"She has."

"Nonsense. There was a man painting the steeple of the brick church and she watched him for half an hour."

The Painters' Magazine says: "There is no substitute for pure linseed oil. YOU CAN'T MAKE DURABLE PAINT WITHOUT IT. Paint makers are greatly tempted to increase profits by DOPING linseed oil with petroleum, rosin, fish or cotton oil. SUCH PAINT WON'T LAST."

You KNOW you get pure oil when you use Kinloch Paint, because you buy the oil separately of any reputable local dealer.

"Kinloch" is a gallon for a gallon with "Kinloch" — no more, no less and nothing else — and you have an absolutely pure Linseed Oil Paint, at an average price for both Oil and Paint, or at LEAST 25 PER CENT. LESS than any other high grade paint.

"Kinloch" is not a patent paint — it's just the good old time tried paint materials, in all standard colors, ground together READY FOR YOU TO THIN DOWN with the pure raw oil.

If your dealer hasn't "KINLOCH" HE WILL GET IT FOR YOU IF SHOWN THIS AD.

Crawford County State Bank, DENISON, IOWA.

The Best Security for Depositors. Farm Loans at Five Per Cent. Interest.

This Bank is incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa. This gives the best security to all depositors, not only to the amount of stock, but the personal property of each share holder is held to the amount of his share for any loss to the bank. Incorporated Banks are under the control of the State Auditor, who can at any time examine the business, and according to his investigation the published statements are made. Depositors in an incorporated bank have more security than the confidence imposed in the offices. They have the best security, because the capital stock can not be used at pleasure for outside speculation and investment. The Crawford County State Bank is the best incorporated banking institution in the county. A general banking business done.
