The Fonda Times takes the ground that two terms are enough for any man in congress. If this policy was carried out throughout the country very few congressmen would have developed into prominence or have become of very material strength to the party or the country at large. We do not call to mind any man who ever made very much of a record in congress in two terms, unless he had an unusual reputation as a statesman before he became a member, while the country is full of men who have acquired fame, but their time has never been limited to any number of terms. States that have made a practice of keeping good men in congress have always been able to create an influence and promote legislation that weaker states have never been able to accomplish. Iowa for years kept her best men in congress as long as possible and the Iowa delegation soon become known as one of the strongest in the union. Dooliver, Henderson, Lacey, Hull, Hepburn, Cousins have become household names throughout the whole country. If these men had been turned down at the end of two terms in office would Iowa have been able to create the standing and reputation she has?

The same is true of all the states who have treated deserving sons in this manner. The names of the men who have shaped the legislation of the country and the party for the past twenty years have none of them been two termers. No, not one. Congress is not a county office nor a state office for that matter. It requires more time and experience to be of value to your district or your state. It is not always the man who is able to make a great speech who is of the most value to his constituents. One of the most brilliant orators in the Iowa delegation is no doubt one of the laziest men in congress and of very little use to anyone except himself. A hard-working, conscientious man like Judge Conner is often of more good to his district than one of the most brilliant men.
None of the men who have been spoken of as wishing to succeed him are his superior in any manner and we doubt very much if they are anywhere near his equal. When you bring forth a better man in every respect than he is then it is time to talk about his successor.—Manson Journal.

GREETING TO IOWA.

Secretary Shaw Toasts Iowa's Past and Present Prosperity.
Secretary Shaw never forgets to toast Iowa on every occasion. Notwithstanding his time is always occupied, he finds just a little time to remember his home state. On New Year's morning he sent the following greeting to the people of Iowa, and the same was published in the Register and Leader: Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—To the Register and Leader: The year just ended, like all the years of the past, has brought much of good to the world, and of that good the people of Iowa have received their full share. It was a prosperous year and in that prosperity the people of Iowa participated to a greater extent than any other similar aggregation of two and one-half millions. If the proverb in the old German reading books, "It is a happy bird that builds its nest in the middle of the tree," has any significance, and it has much, then the people of Iowa, spared from both poverty and riches, are indeed favored. I congratulate them on the record of their past and in the promise of their future. Sincerely, LESLIE M. SHAW,
Secretary of the Treasury.

HUNGERFORDS IN THE FIRE.

EVERS IS INSANE.

Insane Commission Reaches Decision on Saturday Last.

GAVE HIS CHILD CARBOLIC ACID.

Took Some Himself, Then Tries to Get Wife to Take Remainder. Child Dead.
Wife Burned.

Detlef Evers, the man who gave his child carbolic acid last Tuesday, was brought to Denison Tuesday evening, and owing to his condition, was taken to the Neilson Hotel. On Wednesday, he was given a hearing, and after considerable testimony was given, the hearing was postponed until Thursday afternoon. At this time Evers was taken before the insane commission and was adjudged insane after a score or more of witnesses including his wife, were examined.
As stated in our last issue there was trouble out at the Evers home in Goodrich township, and word was brought to town that he had given his child carbolic acid, and had attempted his own life, and that of his wife.
A physician had been called, who at once notified the sheriff and coroner that their services were needed, and Coroner Evans started at once. When he arrived a jury was empanelled, composed of Messrs. Will Huffman, W. B.
Smith and Herman Popkin. After obtaining all the evidence possible, a verdict was rendered which stated that the child came to its death by the administering of carbolic acid by the father, but that said acid was not administered with felonious intent.
Story of the Crime.
For a number of years Evers and his wife had frequent family quarrels, and had, on several occasions, come to blows. About two years ago, Evers says he was laid up for five weeks, because of a severe wound in his arm, inflicted by Mrs. Evers with a large butcher knife. On last Sunday, a quarrel had started, and was continued over Monday, and this is said to have caused the man to become desperate, and finally both man and wife agreed to end their troubles, and die together, after killing their little boy.
After this agreement had been reached, the little boy had been given the acid with instructions to drink it, which he did. The father then drank some, and turned to the mother to see that she carried out her intent. She however failed to take only a drop or so, but in a struggle her face was considerably burned by the acid being spilled. At this period it seemed to have dawned upon the father that he had committed a terrible deed, and seeing a carriage being driven by the place, he rushed out, and called to the driver to stop and come in, that their child was dying. The people in the carriage happened to be Mr. and Mrs.
W. Hoffman. Mr. Hoffman went to the house and found the mother holding the child upon her lap, and the father began trying to bring it out of its trouble by giving it milk. In about ten minutes after the arrival of Mr. Hoffman the little child was dead. All this time Evers himself was suffering agony from the acid he had taken.
Mr. Hoffman returned home and phoned into town for a physician, who, after his arrival at the Evers home notified the sheriff to come out and bring the coroner. After the coroner arrived, an inquest was held as stated above.
That evening, Evers was brought to town and taken to the hotel. During the night he showed signs of insanity, and several times tried to beat his brains out against the walls of his room, and tried to jump from the window of the hotel, seemingly mentally unbalanced. His brothers, F. W. and John were notified, and they immediately came to town to assist in caring for him.
Thursday morning was the time set for the final hearing, but in order to give the mother an opportunity to attend the funeral of the child, the proceedings were held until Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the hearing took place behind closed doors. The prisoner was unable to walk to the city hall, and had to be taken in a carriage.
At the hearing he gave no sign of interest whatever in the proceedings, and could not be induced to say anything in his own behalf. A number of witnesses were examined, and it seemed to be the universal opinion that Evers was all right until the occurrence of the tragedy, although one or two of the witnesses said he had been acting strangely for a year. The commission finally rendered a decision of insanity.
On Tuesday at the home Evers had talked freely with the physician, telling of the family troubles, existing for years. He said that he had often proposed separation, but his wife would never agree to it. After the babe was born it was thought the family would get along better; the little child was

Walter George's English Light Opera Singers gave one of the finest concerts on Wednesday night that has been listened to in Germania hall for some time. There were seven members in the company, and each proved to be an artist. Mr. Walter George is certainly an artist in his line, and the many en-cores he received were, without doubt, deserving. Mr. Arthur Court, as tenor, will rank with the upper class in his profession, he having a well cultivated voice. Mr. Frank Swinford, as bass, showed good range and splendid voice culture, while the ladies, Misses Margaret Long, Ethel Wilford and Georgia Martin were fine. Miss Long, soprano, sang a number of difficult numbers to the delight of all, while Miss Martin kept the house in laughter whenever she appeared. Mr. Claude Russell, as pianist, shows by his work that he was a musician of ability, and thorough culture. The chorus work was fine, the voices harmonizing perfectly. Perhaps the best piece on the program from a comical standpoint, was the doll song, in which Miss Martin and Mr. George took part. They were greeted with prolonged applause as was also Messrs. Court and George, in "The Rivals." The company as a whole gave a most satisfactory and should they ever make a return date, will undoubtedly be greeted by a much larger house than on Wednesday night

I. C. PASSENGER ROBBED.

Colored Porter and Newsboy Accused of Robbing a Passenger on Monday.

As stated in the last issue of this paper Sheriff Bell was summoned to Waterloo on Tuesday by one of the Illinois Central's detectives to take charge of a couple of thieves he had spotted on the train.
The particulars in the case are about as follows: On Monday of last week a passenger on the I. C. was robbed on the train between Denison and Arion, while he was asleep. Later he reported the fact, and it happened a couple of train men were being watched by Detective Welsh, in behalf of the company.
The detective took the fellows in charge when at Waterloo, and telegraphed Sheriff Bell to come after them.
Mr. Bell immediately brought them to Denison and they were given a hearing before Justice Gulick.
One of the prisoners was the colored porter on the train, and he gave his name as James L. Williams; the other was the newsboy, Arthur Schoelzie, a lad sixteen years of age.
When brought before Justice Gulick, both pleaded guilty, and were bound over to the next term of court, the boy being placed under $200.00 bonds, and the negro under $500.00.
The boy's home is said to be at Davenport, where his parents reside, and are highly respected people.

Tunneling Out of Libby Prison.

James M. Wells, one of the surviving actors in that astonishing epic, tells the story himself in the January McClure's.
The Libby Prison was the place where were confined, right in the center of Richmond, some five hundred Federal prisoners during the War of Secession.
Fifteen of these prisoners bound by oath to secrecy dug their way down a wall into the cellar of the prison, and then tunneled out of it and across the street, and to the precarious liberty afforded by the streets of the Confederate capital. Wells tells of the tunneling of the escape by it of some two hundred prisoners, many of whom were recaptured, and of his own dash out of the city into the Federal lines. The story is one that stirs and impresses with the extraordinary patience and cunning which comes to the imprisoned man longing for freedom.
