On Thursday the friends and neighbors of Mrs. Frank Fee gave her a delightful surprise. ## ABOUT FRANK YOUNG.

There has been much conjecture as to the real condition of Frank Young, Jr. since his distressing accident. It will be remembered that Frank was thrown from his carriage his head striking the curb stone, there was no contusion visible but the blow was of such severity that he was unconscious for several weeks; passing through this stage he was for a time delirious and this in turn gave way to a dazed condition of the faculties from which we are pleased to state he is daily recovering. Mr. Chas. Young received a letter on Monday morning from his father who is now in Denver, he was kind enough to show us this letter from which we make the following extracts. "We have just come from the hospital where Frank has a good large room. He goes where he wishes to in the house and next week he can go in the yard. It would do your heart good to see how he has improved since I came. The doctor lets me see him whenever I go out there. We will be home the first of next week and if I do not miss my guess Frank will be able to come home in a few weeks, we stay only a short time with Frank but his eye is getting clear and strong and he is much better. He talks all clear only he is weak and must have rest. Everything looks as if he would be all right without doubt." Signed F. J. Young. The above news will be gladly received by all of Frank's friends and dispense with the rumor that his mind is permanently injured by the accident.

Later—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Young returned from Denver yesterday and report the facts of Frank's condition substantially as given above. They look much worn by the anxiety of their son's illness but seem confident that he is on the road to speedy recovery and that he will be able to return to Denison in a few weeks.

CABINET GOWNS.

We know part of our readers and the better half at that will be interested in the gowns worn by our Denison ladies. The following is what the Chicago papers say of the gowns worn by Mrs. Shaw and Miss Erma.

"The gowns of all the women of the cabinet family were exceedingly handsome that of Mrs. Shaw being of the heaviest, richest white satin, forming a court train which fell away from the front over a petticoat of white brocaded satin. The bodice was cut with a long point front and at the shoulders was elaborately trimmed with duchess lace, the same lace making a long, slender fan mounted upon mother of pearl which she carried.

Much interest was in evidence in the charming costumes of the girls of the cabinet family, Miss Shaw wearing a costume of pale blue crepe de chine embroidered in white wisterias, and pearl ornaments."

IN MEMORIUM.

We publish from the Traer Star Clipper the following extract concerning the life of Mr. Marcus Kahler, an account of whose death was published in our last issue. Mr. Kahler was well known here as are all the members of his family and they have the sympathy of all.

The Star Clipper says:

Marcus Kahler has been one of the familiar figures in Traer's better population for over a quarter of a century. He came here from Waterloo in 1877 to take a place in Brooks & Moore's bank. He was a most valued member of the bank for eleven years, during which time he accumulated sufficient to embark in business, and in company with Orin Hartshorn he engaged in the lumber and coal trade. Mr. H. was succeeded by Asa Ames, and soon after by Lyman Wood, who for ten years or more has been a joint partner with Mr. Kahler. Deceased was born in Scheswig, Holstein, Germany, over sixty-one years ago. His father was a government official, having in charge important forestry work. Marcus was well educated and was a graduate in architecture also. He served a year in the German army and came to America in 1869, locating first in Waterloo, residing there until coming to Traer.

Mr. Kahler leaves a wife and six children to mourn his passing, who because of the strong family ties that bound them together are crushed by the weight of sorrow which only the death of loved ones can bring. One son, Hugo, is studying medicine in Chicago; another, Waldo, is a graduate in law school and is associated with his uncle, C. F. Kuehnle, of Denison, Iowa; Herbert, a young son, is at home, as are also the daughters, Gertrude, Zenaide and Elsie. The latter is a teacher in the Traer public schools. It is a model family. Were nothing else considered save the rearing of such a group, the life work of Mr. Kahler would be a success to a degree to which few men ever attain. What legacy is richer than a family of dutiful and reputable children who honor their father and mother? One brother died in Traer in the early days of the town. Two sisters in Germany comprise the living members of the family of his parents.

Mr. Kahler was a member of the Knights of Pythias, Iowa Legion of Honor, Northwestern Lumbermen's association and the Iowa association. He has always been prominent in every interest for the good of society and town. For many years he served on the school board and gave the work careful and conscientious effort. He was also a member of the congregational church.

Of the many men who, in the past thirty years have engaged in business in Traer and have been removed by the cruel hand of death, we do not recall one whose life work will in so many respects measure up to the standard held by Marcus Kahler. He was a strictly honest man. His keen sense of honor was apparent to every man that ever dealt with him. He possessed a large heart. He was broad-minded. He was on the right side. His encouragement and good cheer have banished many a cloud. Whether in business circles, society or church he could meet his duty manfully, gracefully and successfully. He was one of the most liberal men in Traer, not only in his family, but in every public movement. The demise of men with such noble impulses, such breadth of thought and action, is a public calamity. Traer mourns as she has not done in many years.

Mrs. Anna Barber of Stratham, New Hampshire is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Chas. Heavirland this week.

PARSIFAL.

About sixty tickets have already been sold for the production of Parsifal to be given at Boyd's theatre on next Wednesday. A party rate of one and one-third will be secured over the railroads and as Denison people have been given the pick of the seats they should be able to hear the great opera in comfort. The opera as produced by Mr. Savage's company promises to be one of the greatest musical treats the west has ever known and we would advise all music lovers to attend if possible. Good seats may still be obtained by application to Mr. W. C. Rollins at the REVIEW office,

DEATH OF RUSSELL NICHOLSON.

Russell, the twenty months son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Y. Nicholson died on Sunday March 5th of pneumonia. He had a strong constitution and made a brave fight for life but without avail. Funeral services were held at the home on Tuesday afternoon; The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson was at death's door during the illness of her little brother but we are glad to say that it now appears that her life will be spared to be a comfort to her parents in their grief.

This is the third time within a month that death has visited the Nicholson family and we simply cannot express the sympathy that is in the hearts of all our people for these sorely afflicted ones.

THE CONNERS ARE COMING.

Judge and Mrs. Conner may be expected home some day this week, possibly to-morrow. Everyone will be glad to see them and to get the story of the last congressional session and the inaugural at first hand.

Despite this supplement the REVIEW is obliged to omit news letters from Schleswig, Vail and Goodrich. These letters will be published next week.

SPECIAL TRAIN.

The Illinois Central announces that it will run a special train to Omaha on Wednesday, March 15th, for the benefit of those attending "Parsifal." The train will leave Denison about 1:00 p. m. and will leave Omaha soon after the close of the performance. This will enable Denison people to attend the opera without the inconvenience or expense of a night away from home. Since the announcement that a special would be run a large number of tickets have been sold and the indications now are that nearly a hundred will go from Denison.
