EXPRESS COMPANIES ARE FIRM

Sheriff Barrett Says That at First
Outbreak of Trouble He Will Call for Troops—Strike Will Spread and May Tie Up Building Trades.

Chicago, May 24.—All prospects of peace in the teamsters' strike have disappeared and it will be open war from this time on. The last conference looking toward a peaceable adjustment was held between James B. Barry, business agent of the drivers' union, and the local managers of the seven express companies. The conversation was brief and pointed. Business Agent Barry opened the negotiations by saying: "Our position is this, I want all the men reinstated except those who have been guilty of violence. I cannot do anything different. That is what the local union wants, and that is what the local officers have told me to demand. That is all I can do. The men told me that they all want to go back in a body or they want to go back at all. That is the position of the union and the union officials."

The reply of the representatives of the express companies was brief. It was: "Our opposition to the reinstatement of the men will be the same four years from now as it is today. We will not take them back under any circumstances."

This brought the conference to a close and all parties concerned in it immediately left the city hall.

Lumber Drivers Join Strikers.

The spread of the strike was not as large as was anticipated. Four hundred and sixty-two drivers, employed by twenty-eight firms belonging to the lumbermen's association, went out. In each case the men were ordered to make deliveries to boycotted houses and the usual strike followed. Other firms, to the number of fifty-five belonging to the lumbermen's exchange, will make similar requests of their drivers and by tonight it is expected that the full number of 2,000 drivers employed by these lumber concerns will be on strike.

A meeting of five associations, embracing 135 firms owning planing mills, sash and door factories, etc., was held and it was decided to call upon their drivers to make deliveries. This will force out 1,800 more men.

Unless the strike is settled, the carpenters, stone masons and other affiliated organizations are bound to become involved in the difficulty.

Situation Alarms Sheriff.

The city officials and Sheriff Barrett feel well nigh hopeless of being able to maintain order in the lumber district and at the same time protect wagons in the downtown streets, as they have been doing. It has therefore been determined that at the first outbreak of rioting, such as marked the strike ten days ago, a call will be made on Governor Deneen for military assistance.

Sheriff Barrett said: "At the first outbreak of trouble which in any way approaches the rioting we have had, I shall call for troops. I will do everything in my power to maintain order, but the minute it gets beyond me I will appeal to the governor."

The troops which will first be ordered out if the necessity arises compose the First brigade of the Illinois National Guard, commanded by Brigadier General George M. Moulton. It comprises the First, Second, Seventh and Eighth regiments of infantry, the last being a colored regiment, and the First regiment of cavalry, in all, about 4,000 men.

Every preparation has been made for a prompt response by the National Guards and a large consignment of riot cartridges has been received.

Must Answer Questions.

Judge Kohlsaat of the United States district court ruled that Cornelius Z. Shea and other officials of the teamsters' union answer the questions put to them in the hearing before Master in Chancery Sherman. If they again refuse to answer they will be cited for contempt of court.

Judge Kohlsaat also ordered that thirty-seven men be called into court to show reason why they should not be punished for contempt in violating the injunction of the court forbidding interference with the management of the wagons of the seven express companies. Twenty-four men were also ordered to show why they should not be punished for contempt in violating the order of the court issued for the protection of the wagons of the Employers' Teaming company.

Twelve Men Are Indicted.

The grand jury indicted twelve men in connection with the death of Charles Carlstrom, the member of the Carriage Makers' union, who died as the result of a beating he received at the hands of thugs, hired by the officials of the union, according to their own story.

Curry in Omaha for Recruits.

Omaha, May 24.—Frank G. Curry, the famous strike breaker, is in Omaha for a few days to recruit men for the Chicago Employers' association, to take the place of striking teamsters. Curry came here from Kansas City, where he enlisted 450 men in six days. He is prepared to hire men for $3.50 a day and board and lodging, with free transportation to and from Chicago.

GETTING CLOSE TO THE FARMERS.

Kansas City Journal; Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson is manifesting a thoroughly business-like conception of the duties in his office in his swing around the circle of western and southern states. That he and his party are not on a junketing trip is evidenced by his studious avoidance of official ceremonies, banquets and the like, as well as by his lively interests in crop conditions, methods of agriculture, and the welfare of the agricultural colleges. It is a good thing for a public official to get his ear down to the grass roots once in awhile and hear what the people have to say. It is an especially good thing for a secretary of agriculture to visit the farmers of the country and exchange views with them, for farmers as a class are quiet, modest folk, accustomed to sawing wood and saying nothing, no matter what or how many just grievances they may have cause to cherish. An assessor or a tax collector is too often the only link between a farmer and the government.

The heart-to-heart talks of Secretary Wilson and his party will likely be productive not only of a better understanding, but also of real good to the farmers. The experts in the party are giving much valuable information in regard to grasses, cereals, forage crops and other agricultural questions, and the large attendance of farmers at the meetings indicates that the seeds of knowledge are not falling in barren places.

Secretary Wilson is particularly to be commended for his earnest insistence upon the diversification of crops and the planting of hedges and trees. The average farmer is apt to fall into a groove in planting his crops, with the result that even the most fertile soil will not always stand the strain. As Mr. Wilson points out, the planting of hedges not only serves as wind breaks for the crops, but the hedges also tend to prevent the formation of tornadoes. It is needless to say that the rapid consumption of American forests will at no distant day produce conditions which will not only be felt in commercial circles, but which will have a serious effect upon soil and climate. In European countries forests have become a science, and the work of tree planting is a regular duty in the yearly round. It will be a fortunate thing if Americans can be persuaded to abandon their habits of reckless waste and extravagance in this respect and pay more attention to the demands of the future.

AN IMPORTANT CASE

The supreme court of the United States is soon to pass upon a case that is exciting great interest in the south. It is a case appealed from the northern district of Alabama, in which Judge Jones has held that the United States has authority under the Fourteenth amendment to punish lynchings, without waiting upon the state courts. Judge Jones was a former governor of Alabama, and is a staunch southern democrat, who was appointed to the bench by President Roosevelt. It was Judge Jones who exposed peonage in Alabama a year ago and punished those found guilty.

The important feature of the case now before the supreme court arises out of the fact that the man who was lynched was in the custody of the state when he was taken from a jail in which he was being held under arrest. The supreme court has held repeatedly that the Fourteenth amendment affords protection merely against the action of states, and that it does not warrant interference on the part of the general government because of individual offenses. Judge Jones now differentiates the case before the court from these other cases in this particular: that the prisoner was in the custody of the state and the state failed to protect his rights.

The southern press has not received the decision of Judge Jones with favor. The old state's rights idea is yet strong in the south. The thought of the United States interfering with the administration of justice in a southern state is not pleasing. The judge is charged with catering to the good opinion of the "negrophobists" of the north, and is looked upon as a traitor to the old traditions. If his position should be sustained, it is claimed that the negroes will be set apart as a superior class, having rights that others do not have. A thousand other objections are offered to the creation of a precedent by which the United States may be called upon to stop lynching.

The impression gathered from other decisions of the supreme court, is that the decision of Judge Jones will not be upheld. The supreme court has not looked with favor on national citizenship. It has steadfastly refused to do anything to enlarge the scope of the constitutional amendments, and, on the other hand, has done everything to get out of enforcing them. In view of the recent decision that a native born Chinaman can be deported on the honor of an immigration official without right of trial, it is not likely that the court will go out of its way to interfere with a lynching more or less in Alabama. "This true, tis pity, and pity tis, tis true."

Tournament Days at Council Bluffs.

All eyes have turned toward the twenty-seventh annual tournament of the Iowa Firemen's State association to be held in Council Bluffs, June 6, 7, 8 and 9. There is no longer any question but that the occasion will be the greatest of its kind ever held in this or any other state, and those who have been identified with large affairs of this kind, freely state that the preparations that have been on foot for the past six months for the tournament at Council Bluffs, and the amount of money raised to defray the expenses of the tournament, far exceeds anything that has ever been done in a similar event in the West. From the very start, the management of the affair have been utilizing in their efforts to establish a new standard for firemen's tournaments. In addition to the parades, races and contests that are usually pulled off on such occasions, enough spectacular extra features have been added to make a full day's program by themselves. The tournament proper will take place on the fair grounds with a easy walking distance from the center of the city, but no sooner will the exercises be over at the fair grounds than another program will be started on the streets down town, consisting of parades, illuminated fire runs, music, marching and scores of other special stunts that have been prepared in every detail with the greatest care.

And, as if the management were fearful that four days and four nights of almost uninterrupted entertainment were not sufficient for the tens of thousands who will attend the tournament, the management has closed a contract with Barney Oldfield and his famous "Green Dragon" to give an exhibition on June 7 and 8. Oldfield will take part in the parades and will run his gasoline monster against time on the field. As is well known, Oldfield holds the world's records for distances from one mile to fifty miles. Since the announcement that he will take part in the tournament, correspondence has been received from scores of automobile enthusiasts, requesting that a series of automobile races be arranged and it is practically assured that farther interest will be added to the already crowded program of events by a half dozen automobile races.

EDUCATION AND ENTERTAINMENT.

When both of the above features can be successfully combined in the presentation of an entertainment of any sort the venture is sure to succeed. The only performance of any kind given under canvas, which combines the two essential points are the ones given by the Gentry Bros.' Famous Shows. The entertainment furnished by these almost human animals is repete with merit for all ages and instruction for those who care to profit by it. Any one of the acts presented this season in Gentry Bros.' Famous Shows United represents at least one year of continued tuition to the animal or animals employed in its presentation.

Gentry Bros.' Famous Shows have been enlarged and improved for this season and the fact will be quickly appreciated when the combined street parades are seen. The display is scheduled for morning of the day of exhibition in this city, which is near the Illinois Central Depot Denison Saturday May 27.
