 Read the banks statements in this issue. They are remarkable documents and show better than anything else can do, the remarkable prosperity of Denison and Crawford county. The deposits are large and amply secured by the assets of the banks. No city has more solid and secure in banking institutions and no other town is better able to take care of loans for all legitimate purposes.
 Rev. Dr. E. Miller will not return to the Denison charge after the next conference session. Next Sunday will be his last with the Denison church. During the years that we have lived neighbor to Dr. Miller we have known him as one of the dearest, kindest and most lovable of men. He is one of the saints of the Methodist church. Not only is his character of the very highest, but he is one of the world's greatest thinkers, a profound and eloquent pulpit orator and a writer whose fame is world-wide. He has the gift of humor which is given to all sensitive natures and is, in every way, a man, calculated to benefit any community in which he may be placed. We have learned to love and respect Mr. Miller and his good wife and her sister, Mrs. Schade, who made up the little household and we shall miss them greatly.
