MANILLA MOURNS

Death of Mrs. Wm. H. Hadley Causes Deep Sorrow.

PROMINENT IN GOOD WORKS

Relatives and Many Friends Join in Grief Third Manilla Matron to Die This Summer.

The hand of death has rested heavily on many homes during the past year. At Manilla the grim reaper seems to have reaped chiefly among the prominent matrons. Mrs. Saunders, Mrs. Crake, Mrs. Hadley all factors in Manilla's social and religious life, all leaving large families and many friends, have been called away during the last few months. We present to our readers a portrait of Mrs. Hadley, a portrait which we had hoped to have last week but which was unaccountably delayed. Mrs. Wm. Hadley whose funeral occurred on Friday Sept. 9th was born in Cornell, Ill. in 1853. Her maiden name was Emma Gates and she removed to Iowa with her parents when but four years of age. At the age of ten she came to Crawford county and at the age of nineteen she was married to Wm. H. Hadley the faithful and loving husband who survives her. For many years they resided on a farm near Astor, prosperous and respected by all. Four sons Harry, James, Albert and Guy, were born to them all of whom have lived to know the grief of a mother's death.

It was only last December that Mr. and Mrs. Hadley decided to retire from the farm and enjoy the fruit of their labors. They accordingly made for themselves a comfortable and happy home at Manilla. Mrs. Hadley was a lovable woman, conscientious, kindly and imbued with the true Christian spirit. She was prominent in all that worked for the good of her community.

The funeral services held at the Methodist church were largely attended, a beautiful profusion of flowers attested the esteem in which she was held. Rev. Cable formerly of Defiance officiated and spoke eloquently of the many virtues of the deceased. The Review joins the many friends in extending its sincere sympathy to the husband, the sons and the brothers and sisters of this good woman who has most surely gone to a great reward in Heaven.

"A cold or cough nearly always produces constipation—the water all runs to the eyes, nose and throat instead of passing out of the system through the liver and kidneys. For want of moisture the bowels become dry and hard." Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar is the original Laxative Cough Syrup. It melts and corrects the above conditions, by acting as a pleasant cathartic on the bowels—expels all colds from the system and cures all coughs, croup, whooping cough, La-Grippe, bronchitis, etc. LAMBORN DRUG CO.

Manilla

News reached here yesterday from the M. E. conference now in session at Osceola that Rev. Joseph Stevens and Rev. Cable of Thurman, Iowa would exchange pulpits. While a great many people are sorry to lose Mr. Stevens, they are very much pleased with his successor as he is well known at this point and is a very able man.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. G. Kehr returned from a business trip to Chicago.

Miss Ella Farver, who has been very sick the past week is at the present writing much improved.

Gus Lapel the 16 year old son of Mrs. John Lapel has been very sick with complication of the bowels for the past two weeks. Little hopes of his recovery are entertained.

Dr. Draper is entertaining his cousin from Sioux City.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Neely and Sadye expect to leave for California to spend the winter, in a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wilks, E. B. Goodrich, Mattie Buffington, Dr. and Mrs. Draper, John McCracken and Ed Cadwell were some of the Interstate Fair visitors last week.

W. S. Moore spent Saturday and Sunday in Sioux City on business.

Rev. Moore, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Storm Lake, Ia. spent several days of the past week with his two brothers at this point. The three brothers spent a few days together before Mr. Nathaniel Moore left for his new home in California.

WILD MEN OF AUSTRALIA.

An Aboriginal Dwelling and a Sweet but Uninviting Dish.

An explorer in the wilds of northern Australia writes: "While at work one day Mr. Hingston found an aboriginal dwelling which revealed evidences of architectural design seldom displayed by Australian aborigines. It was evidently a main camping depot, oval in shape, about sixteen feet long and fourteen feet high. It was built of layers of straw intermixed with a good stiff clay. Small openings as windows were numerous all round the sides. The door was the only drawback. This was a mere burrow hole about one foot from the ground, and one was compelled to crawl in on all fours to enter this primitive type of mansion. When we cleared the river we anchored at Maria island. Seeing some of the blacks on the beach we went to interview them. They were apparently frightened, however, and abandoned the canoes on which they were at work and cleared into the bush. Care was taken not to interfere with their possessions, and pipes and tobacco were left where the natives could find them. Rambling about we came upon an open space of considerable extent marked out in large squares with stone, on which were planted, three to five feet high, five or six hollow posts, which were stuffed full of human bones. All the posts were painted red. We doubtless had stumbled upon a sacred spot. There were some nice skulls, but not a thing was interfered with.

"A few miles up the river we struck a big camp of natives, but they cleared into the bush as soon as they caught sight of us. We waited some time at the camp, and the blacks returned, satisfied that we did not intend mischief. The usual presents of tobacco and pipes were given, and they were received with the greatest satisfaction. Indeed, we became perfect friends for the time being. To seal the friendship, or perchance, it may have been the native fashion of 'looking toward you,' a great buck came to me with a wooden vessel shaped like a canoe in his hand and full of honey. I noticed on the top a ball of grass. The chap held the honey to me, but I shook my head, so he took the ball of grass, whisked it about in the sirup and popped it into his mouth. After sucking it dry he put it back into the honey, and when nicely soaked offered it to me again. He evidently wished me to follow his example, but I passed. There was a fine iguana on the fire, just nicely cooked. This I did try, and it was really good—just like chicken."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

It isn't a bit cooler to be on the shady side of life.

Every man likes to learn, but no man likes to be taught.

To be a man is to be the worry of some woman; to be a woman is to be the worry of some man.

Before doing anything as a result of enthusiasm or excitement, see if your enthusiasm or excitement will not wear off.

Every man flatters himself that he will finally whip his enemy and that he will give him a good one when he gets at him.

It is said charity begins at home. As a matter of fact, there is a good deal of complaint because charity does not begin at home.

When a man gets married he is apt to think everybody should give him a present, but how he hates to give wedding presents when his friends get married!—Atchison Globe.

Strength of Mussels.

You must, some time, try to open the shell of a fresh water mussel or a sea clam. You will find one the size of your hand has great strength, although both his muscles may not be larger than those of one of your fingers. I have often seen a boy pick up a mussel and insert his fingers before the shell was quite closed, thinking he would open it again. Few boys can succeed. They usually have hard pulling to get their fingers free. A big mussel can bite hard. Were it not that the edge of the shell, in big specimens, is smooth and thick, a boy might get his fingers cut to the bone.—St. Nicholas.

A Wasp and a Fly.

An observer tells this: "I was once an interested spectator of a short struggle between a wasp and one of those large flies like a bee with a big, flat head. The pair were on the ground, and I watched while the wasp, after probably stinging the fly, deliberately severed the head from the body and then, finding it still too heavy a burden, cut off the tail end of the fly and flew off with the trunk without waiting to perform its toilet. The whole operation took about five minutes, and from the masterly manner the wasp set to work he was evidently a practiced hand."

Mollere's Births and Deaths.

There are two tablets in Paris informing the sightseer that he is passing the house where Mollere was born. One is in the Rue du Pont Neuf; the other at the corner of the Rue Saual, where it meets the Rue St. Honoré. One inscription says that Mollere was born in 1620 and the other in 1622. Some time ago there were two houses in which Mollere was said to have died.

A Trick of Luck.

"Luck never manages things just right," said the irritable man who dislikes music. "It might just as well have been the other way round, but it wasn't."
"What is the trouble now?"
"My daughter who plays the piano has a sore throat, and the one who sings has a sore finger."

START NEW STORE

Bartcher & Schneckloth Buy Portz Furniture Store.

WILL PUT IN LARGE STOCK.

Latest Business Change Means Fine New Furniture Store Managed by Experienced Men with Ample Capital

Mr. P. J. Portz has sold the remainder of his stock of furniture to Bartcher and Schneckloth. The deal was completed on Tuesday morning and immediate possession was given. The stock has been allowed to become low as Mr. Portz intended going to South Dakota, either selling his stock in bulk or closing it out at retail. The stock purchased will then form only a nucleus about which the new firm intends to build up a fine stock of the best and newest furniture. There must certainly be room for two first-class furniture stores in Denison and if the new firm is as progressive and enterprising as we believe it will be, the furniture trade of Denison can easily be doubled, for people will be willing to come a few miles farther if they know that by so doing they will have two large stocks from which to make selections.

Mr. Ben Bartcher who will have active charge of the business needs but little introduction to the people of Denison. He is as fine a young man as Denison has produced in many a day, honest, honorable and straight-forward, affable, obliging and industrious, he is the kind of a young man who earns and deserves success. He is an experienced furniture man, having been the right hand man in Mr. Salomon's store for a number of years. He is a regularly licensed embalmer and undertaker and has much experience in this line of work. We know of no one who does not like Ben and wish him success in his new venture.

Mr. Schneckloth is one of the respected pioneers of West Side, that town that has furnished so many first-class business men to the county. Not long ago he moved to Denison to enjoy the benefits of a larger city. He finds he is still too young to "retire" and his entrance into Denison business circles will be appreciated.

The firm has ample capital to buy a large stock at the lowest cash prices and that is what it intends doing. It is also possible that a new location will be sought with better facilities for display of goods. THE REVIEW welcomes the new firm to the ranks of Denison business men and wishes them a full share of patronage and success.

BOXES TO BE NUMBERED.

Rural Free Delivery Boxes to be Numbered Hereafter. Patrons Should Read This Carefully

The Denison postoffice has just received an order from the postal department relative to the numbering of rural mail boxes. The department orders make it the duty of each carrier to report in rotation the mail boxes on his route which are in good condition and which conform to the regulations of the department. Boxes found to be safe, weather proof, and fit receptacles for mail are entitled to numbers, providing that they are boxes approved by the department or were erected prior to October 1st, 1902. No non-weather proof or otherwise unfit boxes shall be numbered. All such must be replaced by the owners, or no numbers will be assigned. No rural mail box within the incorporation limits or within one-half mile of the postoffice shall be numbered unless erected prior to October 31, 1903. Service must not be withdrawn from any box, however, without specific orders from the department. The first regulation box served by each carrier shall be number one and box after that thereafter to be given the proper number in order of service from No. 1 to and including all those boxes entitled to service.

The postmaster is to notify each owner of his box number after the assignment is made and the number must be legibly and conspicuously placed on each box.

New boxes subsequently erected between those already numbered will be given the next consecutive unused number.

The numbering system will be of great value in avoiding confusion, in facilitating the handling of mail when for any reason a new carrier has the route. Remember, numbers can only be given to regulation boxes that are in first class condition September 30. If your mail box is out of repair or you need a new one, attend to it now, and get your number in regular order. You will find it a great convenience in the end.

Mr. J. L. McLeod of Manilla made Denison and the REVIEW office a pleasant call today.

Miss Lois Plimpton arrived to-day for a visit at the Kling home.

Mrs. Wm. Hamilton left to-day for DeWitt, Iowa.
