

IMPROVES HIS PLANT.

John Schnoor Adds a High Grade, Up To Date Machine to His Harness Shop

Mr. John Schnoor has added the finest power stitcher in the market to his fine harness shop on Broadway. The machine is an excellent one of great power. It has a gasoline attachment which keep the thread saturated with wax and it sews through five layers of rubber belting as quick as a wink. Mr. Schnoor will continue to do all the finer work by hand but the machine will enable him to make the lighter grades of harness as cheaply and much better than the harness manufactured by the large plants. He will be able to select his own leather, fit the horse and make a harness adapted to this country and still compete in price with the manufactured product. Mr. Schnoor is to be congratulated on his enterprise. The new stitcher is to his shop what the type-setting machine is to the printer.

A GAY CLUB MEETING

A more delightful Penelope than the one held at the home of Mrs. W. J. McAhren it would be difficult to conceive.

Carnations, American beauty roses and vines draped upon the curtains made the house very lovely.

During the afternoon the hostess invited the members to the dining room and on the dining table was a little pile of packages in tissue paper. The guests were each invited to take one and upon opening the package it was found that the hostess had made the daintiest needle books of all colors and hues, lasting souvenirs of Mrs. McAhren's deft fingers and exquisite taste.

The supper was served in two courses by Mrs. Van Steenburgh and the Misses Hart and Meyers. Nothing could have been nicer than the menu.

Mrs. Baunister of Napierville, Miss Falkner of Helena and Mrs. Van Steenburgh were the out of town guests.

Penelope has had many happy days but none to be longer remembered than the one spent with Mrs. W. J. McAhren.

A WEDDING.

On Wednesday evening of last week at seven o'clock occurred the wedding of Mr. Herman Adams and Miss Martha Steensen. The ceremony took place at the German Lutheran church, the witnesses being Mr. William Hoffman, Mr. John Lueck, Miss Lena Adams and Miss Hattie Adams.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Steensen of this city. She was raised in Crawford county, and is a young lady possessed of all the housewifely graces. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Adams. He is a Crawford county boy, of good and industrious habits and he gives every promise of success. We wish the young people much joy and happiness.

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

(Episcopal)

The first harvest festival services were held this year in Holy Trinity church last Thursday, Friday and Sunday, and the church, one and all were glad to welcome this beautiful festival in thanksgiving to Almighty God for His great goodness to us. The sacred edifice presented a beautiful appearance with a lovely gold altar cloth and hangings, also beautiful cut flowers, grapes, corn and wheat. The Rev. Mr. Browne was the preacher Thursday evening. Mr. Browne is from Hartington, Neb. The church was well filled with a good audience to hear him. He gave us a forcible sermon. The rector of the parish was the preacher Friday and Sunday morning. He was greeted by good congregations, and the best of all was the Thanksgiving Communion Sunday morning last. A very large number made communions. Much credit is due to the choir and organist and also the ladies of the church for their grand work and labor of love. Truly we are thankful.

Sunday next is the 16th Sunday after Trinity.

Holy Communion 8 a. m.
Morning prayer, litany and sermon 10:30 a. m.

Sunday school 9:30 a. m.

Wednesday evening, prayer and sermon 7:30 p. m.

Friday, October 6th, choir practice, 7:30 p. m.

All are cordially invited.

ARTHUR PRATT, Pastor.

REVIVAL MEETINGS IN PROGRESS.

Mr. Edwin R. Dow, the "Lawyer Evangelist" now conducting the Union Gospel Meetings in Denison was formerly a prominent lawyer and politician in Dubuque, but four years ago he felt the call of God so strong that he gave up his chosen profession of the law in order to preach the Gospel of Christ.

THE RITUAL OF THE BIBLE.

Contributed by Rev. Arthur Pratt.

All public worship must be carried on by means of ritual of some sort, form of words, of prayer, of verse, accompanied by attitudes, gestures and ceremonies, all these seem to us naturally at once as appropriate for use in public worship.

But what particular forms and ceremonies there are to be we cannot determine for ourselves nor indeed, are we at liberty to choose. It is our plain duty to look for this end, first into the Bible, the inspired word of God, and secondly into the traditions of the Catholic church, subject only to such rules and limitations as our own branch of the Church may have laid down, happily, there is abundant testimony in the Bible as to what the ceremonial of worship ought to be, and the traditions of the Church, are also very clear upon the subject, even as far back as the very times when the Apostles were here upon earth, carrying out the personal instructions of their Divine Lord and Master. The Bible is full of ritualism from first to last, the sacrifices of Cain and Abel, with their attendant rites and ceremonies, were undoubtedly ordered by God, those of Cain were, indeed rejected, but not because of any excess in ritual. The ceremonial of the Mosaic period was appointed again by God, and described to Moses with the utmost attention to detail. It would be impossible to conceive any stronger evidence of the importance of Ritual in the sight of God than the solemnity and importance which surrounded these minute and elaborate instructions to Moses afford, for we must remember that the Old and New Testaments form together the inspired revelation of but one religion, they are the records of two dispensations it is true, but not of two religions.

It is a great and very common delusion to suppose that the necessity for memorial worship, and the virtue of it, departed with the Jewish dispensation, that all this Mosaic ritual passed away without leaving behind any awful lessons to those who came after. That the most holy will and intentions of God changed completely with regard to this subject at the advent of our Lord. Such a notion cannot be made to agree with our knowledge of God who is the same yesterday, to-day and forever, in whose sight a thousand years are as one day. In the great eternity of His existence, the whole period of this world's life is but as it were a moment of time. So it is then inconsistent with all that the Bible teaches us of the unchangeable nature of God, that it should be thought that what He pronounced right in essence and principle in one age He should esteem to be wrong in essence and principle in another.

In short, that to this extent He should have altered the terms upon which acceptance as a worshipper might be secured by man, we say, it is not everything under the Mosaic law had counter part under Christ. The sacrifices, the victim, the priests, the temple, the altar, the vestments, the incense, the ointments, the rites and ceremonies, all these were purposefully ordained by God as types of corresponding things which the new dispensation should bring both patterns to be copied in our Christian Worship.

In the Epistle to the Hebrews, we read that the temple and rites of the old cov-nant were a shadow of good things to come; (Heb. X, 1.) that they were the patterns of things in the Heavens; (Heb. IX, 23.) that the ministers of the earthly tabernacle "serve that which is a copy and shadow of the heavenly things" (Heb. VIII, 5.) That is to say, perform Divine Service at even that sanctuary, which, being made after the pattern seen on the Mount, is the visible representation on earth of the true sanctuary, which is in Heaven.

All will not be serious exhibition of Horses at the Omaha Horse Show which will be held during the week of October 9th, at the immense Auditorium in Omaha. Many interesting features have been added which will add life and fun to the whole show. One of these features is a Gymkhana afternoon and evening which will be filled with fun and frolic. One of the events on Gymkhana evening will be a cigarette race. Riders will race from one end of the arena to the other, don a fancy costume, light a cigarette, raise an umbrella and race to the other end. The cowboy race is also an interesting number. The entries for this event come from the cattlemen of South Omaha, and also the eastern horse owners who enter for the very sport itself. The race is in the nature of a potato race. Each contestant is provided with a sharpened lath and the one that can carry the most potatoes from one end of the arena to the other in a stated time wins. The unhorsing of the riders and falling of the ponies make the event full of life.

CROP BULLETIN.

Official Report of Iowa Climate and Crop Service. Week Ending Oct. 2

This has been another week of ideal weather, the daily mean temperature ranging from 6 to 9 degrees above normal, with very light rainfall and drying winds. September was frostless, and the latter half was unusually warm. The conditions have been very favorable for ripening the corn crop, which is now practically safe from possibility of harm by frost, except in very small areas, where planting was done after the June floods. Much of the corn planted as late as June 15 has developed beyond expectations, the husks and blades brown and kernels sound. Reports indicate that for the state at large more than 95 per cent of the entire corn acreage is well matured, and from five to 2 per cent would suffer some harm from a very heavy frost at this time. The very latest planting promises to be sound and merchantable if present conditions prevail a week longer. The quality of the crop as a whole is extra good. The crop season has been favorable. The daily mean temperature since March first has been 1.5 degrees above normal. The output of corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, hay and forage stuff will be above the state average. The only drawbacks have been the very poor apple crop and partial failure of late potatoes.

RED WINGED SEA ROBINS.

They Are Among the Most Curious Fish Along Our Shores.

I suppose the peculiarity which would be noticed first about the sea robin, grunter or gurnard, as he is variously called, would be his clumsy shape. The head is large and deep in comparison with the body. One of our observing young folks, looking at him alive in his tank of the United States fish commission, Washington, would be apt to exclaim, "Oh, see, he has little hook claws which help him crawl along!" Sure enough, just in front of the pectoral or side fins are three little fingerlike processes on each side, which are used to stir up weeds and sand and to rake around among the pebbles and rout out the small animals upon which the sea robin feeds in its native waters. While doing this it seems to be crawling along over the bottom by hooking these peculiar claws into the sand.

Sea robins feed on small crabs, fish, shrimps and other diminutive animals which they find among the loose stones. In Europe all the gurnard family of fishes are eagerly sought, as they find a ready sale in the fish market. They attain a length of two feet and a weight of eleven pounds. Our species of the sea robin, a cousin to the European variety, is found on our northern coast and is taken in great numbers in the pound nets along Vineyard sound, where they spawn during the summer months.

They are much esteemed for the table, being one of the most delicate of the edible fishes. The flesh is firm, snow white and hard to distinguish from that of the kingfish. The American sea robins are fifteen to eighteen inches long and weigh from one and one-fourth to two pounds. When taken from the water they grunt quite loudly and if placed on the ground give a little hop forward of a few inches, grunting as they do so. This grunting sound can be heard quite plainly if one is in a boat lying quietly in shallow water near where they are.

The head is sheathed with bony plates and armed with sharp points, which are rather hard to distinguish at first, as they lie quite flat against it. When caught they erect all their spines and inflat very painful wounds on those who try to handle them. The pectoral fins are a little more than half as long as the body and may be extended like a fan when in use or folded quite close together when on the bottom, thus giving them the name of butterfly fish.

The rays of the tail may also be much extended to look like a Japanese fan.

The color of this peculiar fish is a brownish yellow over the back and sides and cream white below. The pectoral fins are deep orange color, with a blackish marking toward the tips, crossed all over with little dark brown lines and edged with light yellow orange color. The lower jaw is a beautiful turquoise blue, edged with a vein of brassy yellow.—St. Nicholas.

Placing the Responsibility.

A small boy, not more than seven or eight years of age, was once sent to the office of a Brooklyn school principal for some offense. The principal saw that the little fellow had an unusually straightforward and honest appearance, so he concluded to lead up to the proper punishment for the young offender by asking him a few questions. "If you were a teacher what would you do with a boy who acted as you did this morning in the classroom?" he asked.

"I'd send him to the principal," promptly replied the boy.

"What do you think the principal ought to do with such a boy?" continued the questioner.

"That's up to you," was the reply.

"The boy escaped punishment.—School Journal.

Giants and Dwarfs.

In life giants are usually weak-minded, as well as frail of body, and as a rule they do not live long. Dwarfs, on the other hand, are often nimble witted and stand a good chance of longevity. An Austrian empress in the seventeenth century took the whim to round up all the giants and dwarfs in her empire and turn them in together. Apprehension was expressed that the big ones would terrify the small ones, but it was the other way. The giants were compelled to ask for protection from the Impish tricks of the dwarfs, and they had to be separated before peace reigned among them.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

For Lung Troubles

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral certainly cures coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption. And it certainly strengthens weak throats and weak lungs. There can be no mistake about this. You know it is true. And your own doctor will say so.

"My little boy had a terrible cough. I tried everything I could hear of but in vain until I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. The first night he was better, and he steadily improved until he was perfectly well."—Mrs. S. J. STREETER, Akron, Ill.

Town Lots That Are Sure To Grow.

The New Wyoming Towns that is now being established by the Pioneer Town Site Company is deservedly attracting general attention. Located in Fremont County, Wyoming, in the famous Wind River country on the line of the Wyoming and North Western Railway, now under construction, and within two miles of the east line of the great Wind River (or Shoshone) Indian Reservation, comprising 1,400,000 acres of land, which will be opened for settlement June 1st, 1906, the town cannot help but take a prominent position among the cities of Wyoming.

The tributary county is good and will be settled speedily.

The general situation of the town is most auspicious assuring to investors, or those locating in any line of business large returns.

Opportunities of this kind are rare and "those who know" are rapidly taking advantage of this one.

Lots in the new town will be offered for sale during session of the Wyoming State Fair.

at Douglas, Wyo. Oct. 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th 1905.

Mr. P. Whitney, General town site Agent of the Pioneer Town Site Company, will be at Douglas during the above period with maps and prices and all information concerning the new town.
