THE ELECTIONS.

Ohio, Rhode Island, Virginia and Massachusetts will elect governors next week Herrick will undoubtedly be re-elected governor of Ohio. Curtis Guild, jr. will probably succeed Governor Douglas of Massachusetts. The result in Rhode Island will be close, and Virginia is safely democratic.

York, Philadelphia and San Francisco will have municipal elections this year to elect mayor. In New York the triangular contest between the republican nominee, Mr. Imes, the independent candidate, Mr. Hearst and the Tammany favorite, Mr. McClelland, will probably result in the triumph of Tammany. It is said that the government of any locality or city represents the average moral status of its people, and New York, not being eligible to be ranked with the highly moral cities, seems to prefer the Tammany grade of government. This does not imply that there is not a numerous body of patriotic and honest citizens in the metropolis of America; but it only means that the unregenerate predominate at this time, or at least have captured the machinery of municipal government.

Mayor Weaver, of Philadelphia, and his followers of the reform element, are hopeful of defeating the corrupt ring which has formerly held sway over the city affairs and good citizens everywhere hope for the same result. The San Francisco election seems to be a contest between labor unions and the two old parties. It seems to be largely a question of local affairs, and has not attracted wide attention outside of that city.

Minor officers are to be elected in other states, including Nebraska and Michigan.

The prominent issue in most of the elections at this time seems to be that of reform and purity of politics. This wave of moral awakening with respect to the affairs of government cannot fail to purify and elevate our national politics, at least to some extent.

A UNITED COUNTRY.

As becomes a thoroughly equipped and progressive newspaper at the national capitol, the Washington Post of Washington, D. C. treats fairly and generally with high efficiency and insight, the political conditions of the whole country. It purports to be independent in politics, although its positions on most questions in the past seem to indicate that its editorial writers are governed by democratic influences. In fact a report is now current to the effect that the Post Publishing Company has undergone recent changes, and that the famous Cincinnati democrat, Jno. R. McLean, has acquired a half interest in the paper.

Among the ablest special writers at Washington is one who writes under the pen name "Savoyard." His utterances are usually highly tinged with democratic bias. It is therefore interesting and significant to note in his closing sentences of one of his late articles concerning Shaw and the presidency this sentiment: "As for the democratic party it has lost its politics and I have not taken it into account. It will take a miracle to make it a factor." So general and strong has become the approval of the aggressiveness and efficiency of republican politics that it has reduced the opposition to a sporadic and demoralized outbreak of discontent. No better and more accurate test of the soundness of the republican doctrine could be desired than the material prosperity, so far as it depends upon fiscal laws and wise measures generally is concerned, which abounds, and the general acquiescence of the people in the principles enunciated. No surer indication of the sanity and intelligence of the common people can be found than the unity of their approval of policies which are manifestly just and beneficial. The old slander that you can make the people follow a leader, regardless of his principles, if he is shrewd enough, is without foundation in fact and experience, except for short periods of time and in limited numbers. The United States has found her equilibrium so far as political doctrine is concerned, and in President Roosevelt she has found the ideal executive to administer it.

NO APOLOGY NEEDED.

The animus of the Bulletin in relation to all things connected with the editor of this paper is so well known that we have seldom felt it necessary to make any explanations concerning any of the misrepresentations which its malice has prompted. In the last issue of the Bulletin we are charged with leaving the postoffice in charge of one man only, to the inconvenience of the public and to the hardship of the clerk. We did leave Denison at 11:30 Saturday forenoon to keep a business appointment made a number of days previous. We returned to Denison Sunday evening. We did not leave Denison until Mr. Kemp as well as Mr. Sprecher were in the office, and not until we were assured by Mr. Kemp that his hand had so far recovered that he was able to relieve and assist Mr. Sprecher during our brief absence. We do not claim to be giving the postoffice our undivided attention; like nearly one-half the other postmasters in Iowa we are editing a newspaper as well, but we do claim that we have never allowed the work of the office to suffer, that we have made numerous improvements in the postal service here, that patrons have more privileges and better service than in many offices where even a larger clerical force is employed, and that the postal service in Denison to day is fully as good as at any time since the establishment of the office although the amount of mail handled has largely increased. This is an explanation; not an apology in any sense of the word.

The claims of Duluth to being metropolitan go glimmering. Two bears were recently killed within the corporate limits.

E. H. Harriman doubtless thought he had wasted enough time cavorting around and at the last moment decided to hurry home. Well he can afford the luxury of breaking traveling records in view of his large railroad holdings.

As evidence of the absolute political and intellectual independence of Senator Dooliver from corporation control we offer his reflections on the University of Chicago. He said that the campus of a certain Chicago college smelled like a Kansas oil town.

Be it said to the credit of the judiciary that the Iowa bluebeard, Blydenburgh, will not escape punishment. The seemingly immaculate record, and the church connections of this man render a certain punishment all the more imperative. The church is not shielding that type of men.

The freakish stories which were circulated concerning the Sultan of Sulu's proposal to Alice Roosevelt, and her plunge into the water in traveling costume, have been denied in toto by her; and in closing the incident it may be remarked that nobody believed a word of the silly rumors.

The announcement of Secretary Taft that he will not resign his cabinet position to become a candidate for the office of president, and that furthermore he will not at any time seek the office of president, clears the political atmosphere to a considerable degree. That interstate fight which has been feared in Ohio is now probably all off.

H. H. Rogers, whom Thomas W. Lawson denominates the financial genius of the Standard Oil Company, did not receive a very enthusiastic reception in Kansas. In view of recent hostilities there it seems that his journey to that state was an invitation to trouble. There are only two things that can awe a Kansan; they are a cyclone and a drought. Plutocrats only arouse his ire.

The great strike in Russia threatens to become general throughout that empire. It is tainted with political discontent, and has resulted in overturning oppressive governmental practices. The sinister institution of despotism and bureaucracy, of a burdensome royalty and a pampered clique of favorites, is a weight which even the stolid and long suffering Russian peasant will eventually resent. The indignity and humiliation to which that class has been subjected for centuries in the arrogance and brutality of the officials who are not responsive to the popular will, or responsible to the people for their tenure of office is goading these people to desperation, and the strangest aspect of the case is the delay of the people in throwing off the yoke of oppression.

The spectacle of the President of the United States riding upon a special train which he is paying for at regular rates out of his own pocket is a new one in American politics, but it is safe to say it will in no sense interfere with the astounding popularity of the chief executive.—Jefferson Bee.

Thirty people go from Humboldt to California this week to spend the winter. When thirty people can go away from a town the size of Britt to spend the winter in a warmer climate, it does not indicate that times are very hard.—Britt News.

The Ida Grove Pioneer calls attention to the fact that the late R. P. Clarkson ten years ago made charges against the New York Life Insurance company that are amply borne out by the revelations of this year. Readers of the old State Register remember the vigorous assault made by Uncle Dick on the eastern insurance companies. As time goes on more of his good work will be remembered.—Rockwell City Advocate.

Both of the Denison papers are kicking about the alleged slowness of the court house contractors and the poor management upon the part of the board of supervisors. If there is anything rotten in those parts, it is quite the proper thing to air it. That is the only way to arouse the sleepy heads and induce them to haul in their slack.—Manilla Republican.

A good local paper is the best advertisement that a town can have. A paper, to give the right kind of an impression, must be well filled with local news and must contain a good amount of advertising. Men with money who are looking for a location do not want to go into a town that fails to give its local papers proper support is generally pretty dead. A live town patronizes the home paper, and the paper with a good patronage is generally a good paper.—Grand Junction Globe.

Many people have noticed the fact that calendars differ this year on the date for Thanksgiving day for 1905. Some of them mark November 23 and others the 30th. There are five Thursdays in November which is unusual. The information says for the president to proclaim the last Thursday as Thanksgiving day, but there is an idea among some that the day proclaimed is the Thursday after the third Thursday. This would bring Thanksgiving on the 23d.—Pocahontas Record.

The California party, consisting of S. M. Neely, wife and daughter Sayde, J. H. Tyron and wife, and Mr. Tyron's uncle, Hiram Tyron and wife of Terre Haute, Indiana, departed Tuesday on their western trip. They will go over the Rio Grande route and will stop off at Denver and Salt Lake City while enroute. A large number of their friends were at the depot to bid them farewell and wish them a safe and pleasant journey.—Manilla Times.

BURNS TO GROUND

Dow City's Fine Hotel Totally Destroyed by Fire.

HAS NO FIRE PROTECTION.

Causes Total Loss Where Fire Might Have Been Extinguished. Hotel Burns in Less Than Two Hours.

Shortly before noon on Monday fire was discovered issuing from the roof of the City Hotel of Dow City. The alarm was given by a neighbor as the occupants, Mr. R. A. Slocumb and family, were busy preparing for the noontime meal and had noticed nothing amiss. Mr. Slocumb rushed to the garret and found it a mass of flames and smoke. Dow City has no fire protection and the flames soon had made such headway that at one time it was feared that the fire would get entirely beyond control and messages were sent that the entire business portion of the city was in danger. Fortunately this proved not to be the case and the fire was confined to the one building.

Seeing that nothing could be done to save the building, efforts were directed toward saving the furniture, the most of which was taken from the burning building.

The Baptist church across the street south of the hotel was in danger for a time and would have been consumed but for the prompt efforts of the bucket brigade. The fire burned quickly and in two hours the building was but a smoldering ruin.

The hotel was a fine building and a credit to Dow City. It was provided with steam heat and Manager Slocumb was making it a very popular and successful institution. The loss for him is a heavy one. When seen on Monday he had made no plans for rebuilding and in fact it was a hard proposition for him to find a place to live and to stow the furniture taken from the building. It is possible that with proper encouragement Mr. Slocumb might come to Denison and establish a hotel here.

He is an experienced hotelman and it would certainly be a gain for Denison should he come. The insurance carried was $3,500, $2,500 on the building and $1,000 on the furniture. Among the effects burned was a bureau highly prized by the family a bureau which Judge Bassett formerly owned and which had been in the family for many years. Mr. Slocumb blames the Dow City authorities in that the water-works voted have not been put in. The fire was burning against the wind when first discovered and he is of the opinion that had the water-works been put in as provided the fire could have been easily put out with but small loss. We sympathize sincerely with Mr. Slocumb and his family in their misfortune and hope that the future may have much better things in store for them.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Brief Account of Convention Held Here October Twenty-Second.

The Denison District Sunday School convention was held in the Baptist church on October 22. In the afternoon some very interesting and helpful addresses and papers were listened to and discussed. In the evening Mr. Thurston gave an address on the subject "Our Equipment."

Officers elected for the coming year were: Pres., Mrs. E. W. Pierce; vice Pres., Mrs. J. F. Glenn; Sec., Miss Edith Gillmor; Treas., John L. Richardson; Sec. of home department, Mrs. N. W. Nash; Sec. of normal department, Mrs. E. W. Pierce; Sec. temperance department, Mrs. Hope; Sec. primary department, Mrs. Lee Barber; Sec. house to house visitation, Mrs. Pierson.

The following resolutions were adopted: We, your committee upon resolutions, hereby submit the following as our report for your consideration:

1st. Whereas, there has appeared to be some doubt as to the officers of this association constituting a Look out Committee whose duty it is to have general supervision of and to keep thoroughly in touch with the needs of the Sunday ance of the Sabbath day. That we believe that the allowing of sports upon the Sabbath is demoralizing to any community and that its allowance lowers the standard of morals in the community where it is allowed. That we believe it is detrimental to the prosperity of any community and one of the surest methods of the destruction of the religious sentiment therein.

4th Whereas, it is believed by your committee that the addition of the following officers would be beneficial to this association, therefore be it resolved that the following officers be added to those already had by this association and that officers be at this meeting elected to fill said offices.

Primary Department sec., House to house visitation sec., Home Department sec., Normal Department, sec., Temperance Department sec.

THE OAKS QUARTETTE

Renders Fine Program at the Opera House on Friday Evening.

The Oaks Quartette was the attraction at the opera house on Friday evening. The quartette gave a splendid program and the audience was most appreciative. The harmony was fine and the singing all that could be asked. Especially did the quartette excel itself in the rendition of "Remember Now Thy Creator" and in the beautiful closing piece "When the Little Ones Say Good Night." The solos were excellent and Miss Springgale proved herself to be a reader far above the average. Her numbers were heartily enjoyed and enthusiastically endorsed. The quartette is the equal of any that has visited Denison and is worthy of the greatest success. This is said, not because they are Crawford county boys, but because they deserve it.

ANALYZING MILK.

The Process is Neither Difficult Nor Complicated.

The chemical analysis of milk is not complicated nor difficult. First the chemist weighs a small dish, cup or saucer and carefully notes down the results in ounces, grains and fractions of grains. Next he pours in some milk to be analyzed and again carefully notes down the result. By subtracting the weight of the dish from that of both the weight of the milk is found and recorded. Next the receptacle is placed over a steam jet, which evaporates the water of the milk, leaving only the residue or "solids." Again the dish and its contents are weighed, and by a simple calculation the percentage of solids is ascertained.

The "solids" of the milk have been found by innumerable analyses to average about 13 per cent, and while the fat varies in milk from different cows the solids left after extracting the fat are found to be a very constant quantity, seldom falling below 10 per cent or over 14. This gives the chemist a positive basis for his calculations and enables him to state with great certainty whether or not the milk has been watered.

The fat or oil in milk is determined by dissolving it by means of ether, the residue remaining after such test being termed "solids other than fat." The average fat or oil found in milk from cows is 8 per cent, and any amount less than 3 per cent indicates almost to a certainty that the milk has been skimmed. If analysis shows a decrease of fat it indicates that the milk has been watered, while if fats and other solids together are low you may infer that the skimmer has done its worst.

Treachery.

Deliberate treachery entails punishment upon the traitor. There is no possibility of escaping it, even in the highest rank to which the consent of society can exalt the meanest and the worst of men.—Junius.
