THE GIDDY WHIRL.

Denison is Gay With Many Social Events.

DINNER PARTIES A FEATURE.

Judge and Mrs. J. P. Conner the Recipients of Many Farewell Dinners Before Leaving for Washington

SOCIAL NOTES.

If Denison cannot "kill the bear" socially we do not believe any town in Iowa can.

The social whirl has been as the newspaper reporters would say, "in our midst" and every one has had a good time.

One marked feature of this season has been the absence of large parties and the number of small and elegant dinners. The number of courses served and elaborate floral decorations and exquisite dinner cards have made these small affairs a delight to the eye and have made mental pictures that will long be remembered.

The fine art of dining is well worth while, and the table talk heard in Denison is exceedingly interesting.

Some recent new comers have said Denison was the most social town they ever lived in. "People seem so glad to see each other," was another remark made by an out of town visitor that sounded good to those who know and love the Denison friends. We presume there will be quite a lull in social matters until Xmas time when the bright young faces of our school boys and lasses will set the ball in motion again.

On Monday and Tuesday evening of last week Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Hunt gave teas to their friends. Chrysanthemums were the flowers used for the table decorations and Mrs. Hunt served a very elegant three course tea. The guests had, on both evenings, a very enjoyable and social visit.

On Friday afternoon the W. R. C. had a pleasant and profitable thimble bee at the home of Mrs. J. Blackman. Lunch was served and was a much enjoyed feature of an afternoon devoted to good works and a good time.

On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. McMahon gave a small and exquisitely appointed dinner complimentary to Judge and Mrs. Conner. Mrs. McMahon, we predict, will be amazingly popular in Denison for she has a most charming personality.

The dinner tendered Mr. John Sewell by Miss Ethel Gulick on Thursday night was a decided success. The delightful cordiality of the Gulick home is so well known that it is one of the accepted facts. The table was very lovely in white and green, candles shaded in green, favors and carnations were used in working out the color scheme. The favors were extremely clever, being figures of boys and girls done in water colors. The figure stood upright on the name card and each held in its hand a joke that was read and enjoyed by the guests. A very appetizing and delicious five course dinner was served by Mrs. Voss and Miss Meyers. After the dinner the guests were presented with cards upon which a figure had been fastened minus the face and every guest was invited to draw some other guest. This caused no end of fun and resulted in Prof. Humphreys having first prize for the men while Miss Bruner of Carroll was successful among the ladies. Dr. McConnaughey drew the worst ever and had a drawing slate for practice as the consolation prize.

The guests at the dinner were the Misses Lillie Raine, Sewell, Osborne, Stoner, Strahan, McAhren and Bruner, of Carroll. The gentlemen were Messrs. Sewell, Humphreys, Miller, Balle, Lamborn, McLaren, Klinker and McConnaughey. It is a great pleasure to Mr. Sewell's friends to have him home again and they enjoyed the evening with him very much.

On Thursday afternoon, despite the rain the Coterie club gathered with Mrs. Chas. Bollen and found such a hearty welcome that they felt well repaid for their struggle with the storm. Mrs. Bollen's cosy home was decorated with very beautiful chrysanthemums. A game called "furbearers" was played. Mrs. Ferguson won the prize, a lovely bit of china. The refreshments reflected much glory on the cooks and were greatly enjoyed. Mesdames Cook and Hamley assisted Mrs. Bollen in serving.

On Wednesday night the whist club met with Mrs. Tom Kelly. The fines had been used to purchase prizes. Nearly all the members of last year's whist club were present. Mrs. Kelly won first prize for the ladies, a half dozen cut glass sherbet cups. Mr. McLennan was awarded a stick pin. Mrs. Kelly then served a splendid supper, showing that she can cook as well as she can play whist.

On Friday night Mrs. J. H. Mahoney entertained the social whist club. Four tables were filled and the guests enjoyed the game and also the excellent supper served later by Mrs. Mahoney. Both the whist clubs are in a flourishing condition and promise a winter's enjoyment to the many who are fond of the game.

On Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Scriber gave a brilliant dinner as a courtesy to Judge and Mrs. Conner. The table was resplendent in red carnations and the guests found their places by dainty place cards. The evening was one of unalloyed pleasure, the guests were all old and tried friends and the pleasant home atmosphere made everything most congenial. The five course dinner was a triumph in culinary skill.

The dinner given Judge and Mrs. Conner by Mr. and Mrs. Gulick was the last of the series of complimentary dinners given by the friends of this popular couple. Green and white was the cool and attractive color scheme of the table. The dinner cards were suggestive of the Thanksgiving time, turkeys embossed in gold, and were very dainty. The dinner was served in five courses and contained all the good things of the season served in the most palatable manner.

The beautiful home of Mrs. J. B. Romans was ablaze with light on Wednesday when Mrs. Frank Woolston, assisted by Ione Romans, gave a party to Mrs. Woolston's Sunday School class. Mrs. Woolston has a large and enthusiastic following among her scholars and the present members and all those still in town who have belonged, were included. The parlors were filled with happy and laughing groups of young people. A game of cats furnished a great deal of amusement. The prize was captured by Miss Christie. Hazel Laub, who is a never ending delight as a musician, played and Mrs. Romans gave two of her readings that are always splendid. The refreshments were lovely and some of the guests are talking yet of the chicken salad. Ione Romans assisted greatly in entertaining and making the evening what Mrs. Woolston meant it should be, a "tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

Scraps at the P. E. O. was really a very peacable affair, the ladies gave away their hash secrets and to show the faith they had in them prepared a goodly amount of food just like the receipt handed in. A new mission davenport purchased by the P. E. O.'s for their use, was in the club room. It is the work of Mr. Fastje and is very handsome, it will also be useful to the society as a place for keeping their records.

On Friday evening the B. Y. P. U. gave a reception to Rev. and Mrs. Stull at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Jones. Mr. Leon Cassaday presented the callers to the guests of honor. The rooms were thronged with guests all the evening, all the churches being well represented and gladly extending a welcome to the new pastor and his wife. Refreshments were served by the young ladies of the society. The table was decorated in pink carnations, the table cloth had a circle of pinks and a bouquet of the same flower in the centre. Carnations also decorated the side board. Mr. and Mrs. Stull made a very pleasant impression on our people. It was a very graceful thing for the young people of the church to plan so elaborate and large affair, making it an opportunity for the older members to enjoy themselves care free. Mr. and Mrs. Jones added the cordiality of their welcome to that of the young people and Mr. and Mrs. Stull's.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jones expect Mrs. J. Thomas and family of Omaha and Al Dean of Rockwell City to spend Thanksgiving with them. We hope Mrs. Thomas' beautiful voice may be heard in the Thursday church service.

On Friday night the pupils of Miss King gave a very interesting recital. The pupils belonged to the younger group of students and all of them showed the painstaking care that Miss King gives to her work. The recitations were much enjoyed together with the music.

A SALE'S SUCCESS.

A merchant down in Humboldt county bids defiance to catalogue houses. He has a two page ad in the Independent and says he can outsell, outbid, and outdo any catalogue house in Chicago and he is doing it too. Why not? His rent is less, insurance less, clerk hire far less, goods come in large quantities with freight less. A man who goes into his store and buys knows just what he is getting and the ad tells just what he has to sell. Catalogue houses can't compete with the live county merchant.—Britt Tribune.

Sure enough when a merchant advertises in a live paper it attracts both customers and comments. The A. B. White sale that was heralded by the mammoth two page ad in this paper was one of the most successful sales ever held in this county. It was no grab game either. If you wanted the goods you paid the price plainly marked on each article, you paid your money and got just what you ordered. The A. B. White house has a specific contract for a year advertising in this paper and anything that appears in an editorial way is just so much editorial opinion and is not printed for pay.—Humboldt Independent.

MANGLED BY ENGINE.

J. Duncan, a young brakeman on one of McDougall and Yale's dinkey engines on the Hupp end of the cut-off met injuries Wednesday morning about seven o'clock which afterwards resulted in his death. The young man was riding on the pilot of the engine, when through a sudden lurch caused by a slight declivity in the road bed he was pitched forward, falling beneath the wheels. Owing to the light weight of the engine the unfortunate man was not cut up to any great extent, but was rolled over by the wheels and bruised in a frightful manner. One leg was broken and one shoulder badly mangled, besides which he received internal injuries which doubtless would in themselves have resulted fatally.

He was immediately taken to the home of Matt Weiss, adjacent to the scene of the accident, where he remained conscious long enough to inform his attendants of his place of residence, Emmetsburg, Iowa, and his parents were immediately telegraphed. A consultation of physicians, among them being Dr. Powell, was called and everything possible was done, in the faint hope of his ultimately recovering. About noon, the patient seemingly not getting any weaker, it was deemed advisable to take him to Earling on the work train and there catch the passenger for Omaha. Upon his arrival in Earling, however, he had a sinking spell from which he never rallied. The coroner was immediately informed of the death, and 10 o'clock this morning set as the hour of holding the inquest. It is the general opinion of those acquainted with the facts of the case that no blame, whatever, will be attached to any one by the coroner's jury, it being one of those unfortunate accidents which are bound to occur and for which no one can be held accountable. Mr. Duncan, the deceased man's father, is expected to arrive in time to be present at the inquest.—Defiance Enterprise.

27-Short Horns-27

At Public Auction the offering F.W. Hanna, Defiance, Iowa. Sale to be held in the New Defiance Sale Pavilion

Thursday Dec. 14, 1905 1 p. m.

This is a splendid lot of well bred animals from the best families in America, some of which are pure Scotch and all of which are highly bred in that blood. The whole offering is composed of uniformly quick maturing individuals with strong constitutions, style, quality and aptitude to carry flesh. Inspection both of the individuals and of the pedigrees is cordially invited, knowing that every individual will bear inspection both from the standpoint of blood and beef. The sale is not a means of turning off onto the public a lot of poor animals and undesirable families, as I am offering my best animals and am keeping representatives of every family entered in this sale. The sale terms are cash, but notes with good and approved security with interest at 8 per cent will be accepted. Sale will not begin until afternoon passenger train has arrived from the east.
