

THE GREY DAYS.

January, February, they are sad and bitter months. The glow of the old year is departed, the gladness of the holidays is gone.

A LINCOLN NUMBER.

We believe that our sixth issue of the Magazine Section is worthy of a special announcement. It might be termed a "Lincoln Issue."

In the general contents will be found a clever by story W. E. Grogan entitled "The Withdrawn Painting;"

The colored comics "The Tale of the Bandit Mouse" deal this week with their antics at a birthday party.

The serial, "When Wilderness was King," is now well into the complicated plot of the story.

The Baptist ladies wish us to say that the excellent coffee which they served at their supper and which received so many compliments was the celebrated Oakleaf Brand sold by the Balle-Brodersen Co.

In this issue we publish the statements of the First National and the Crawford County State Banks. These statements bear out what the Review said editorially the first of the month, that Denison might well be proud of its financial institutions.

Nearly every person who is subject to attacks from their stomach suffers from a morbid dread of a dietetic treatment for relief, that is three-fourths starvation, and one-fourth toast and milk.

AMONG THE SICK.

Many Denison People Suffering From Disease and Accident.

There is an unusual amount of sickness in Denison at this time and the physicians are being kept busy. We give below the news of some of the sick folks and hope they may all be better when the Review goes to press next week.

Ben Bartcher is a very sick boy. He has typhoid fever complicated with kidney trouble and his case is serious. He has been very busy of late and has overworked and we are sincerely sorry to say that the chances are against his recovery.

Mrs. S. S. Wilkinson is ill with pneumonia, she seems to be getting the better of the disease and her lungs are clearer than they were a few days ago, but it is a question whether she will be able to rally and recover from the ravages of the disease.

The home of Alderman P. M. Lane is quarantined for diphtheria. His bright little baby is afflicted, but it is said to be in light form and we hope that it is.

Mrs. H. W. Gould is very sick. On Monday her life was despaired of but at this writing she is some better.

Mrs. C. D. Miller is slowly gaining but her husband tells us that recovery is very slow. It is almost a miracle that she did not succumb to the dread pneumonia as she is a frail little woman. We are glad indeed to chronicle her recovery.

Mrs. W. W. Holmes is reported as improving after a severe attack of erysipilas. Last week she was a very sick woman and her condition caused much alarm to her friends but it is now thought that she is out of danger.

Mr. T. W. Harker is seriously ill. He was taken with a chill, and as he lives by himself it was nearly twenty-four hours before his condition became known and he received any help or nourishment.

O. A. Patterson is laid up with a very angry sore on his leg. He fell and hurt his shin and later went to a dance with the result that he has not been able to get to his work at the Stewart Lumber Co. for several days.

Mrs. F. W. Meyers fell on the icy walks on Tuesday. She threw her arm back to save herself and while she did not break any bones she injured the ulnar nerve of her left arm quite severely. The physician tells us that it will be some time before she can use her arm.

Mrs. B. F. Philbrook is on the mend after a hard struggle with threatened pneumonia.

Mrs. Lottie D. Ley is recovering from an attack of "la grippe."

Mrs. C. A. Jones has been ill for the past two weeks but is now on the gain.

Miss Elizabeth Sarachon has had a serious time with pneumonia but is now reported as some better and there are strong hopes for her recovery.

MISS SCHLUMBERGER

told the story of "The Second Trial" in a manner that brought tears to the eyes of all old college men present, only those who have passed through the ordeal of a college commencement could thoroughly appreciate the full meaning of the selection, although all present were held spell bound by the beautifully modulated voice, and well timed gestures. This selection was given second honor by the judges.

This ended the main part of the program, and while the judges were preparing their decision Miss Norman once more treated the audience with one of her whistling solos, and the High School Octette sang one more selection.

The judges next announced their decision, also awarded prizes to the three contestants who ranked first.

We believe Denison can well hope to win honors at the district contest with Miss Schlumberger as its champion. She is a hard worker, industrious, ambitious and has great natural talent. She will undoubtedly do all possible to prepare herself for the coming contest and we know she will give a good account of herself and reflect still greater glory upon the schools of Denison.

The contest occurred so late in the week that we are unable to procure Miss Schlumberger's portrait for this issue but next week we hope to present to our readers the picture of Denison's champion.

TOO BUSY FOR NEWS.

The Review Editor Enjoys Visits From Subscribers and Finds to Hustle.

For the past few days the Review editor has been most pleasantly employed, enjoying many visits from subscribers from all over the county. Incidentally we have enjoyed the fact that nearly all of them came to renew their subscription until somewhere along in 1908 or 1909. January and February is the harvest time for the newspaper. If it does not get ahead some then it will sure go broke during the dull months of July and August. This has been the most enjoyable subscription season the editor has ever known.

Newspapers are very cheap. The editor gets his pay, part in cash, part in advertising, part in political preferment or county printing and very largely in kind words, that is, if he gets them. On Wednesday the Review made a net gain of eleven subscribers while sixteen old subscribers came in and re-newed for another year. As we said before it is a real pleasure to see and visit with one's readers, not only from the financial standpoint but because the right-minded editor takes an interest in his readers and knows them for his friends. The only drawback is that a man cannot be in two places at one time. He cannot be out chasing the festive news item and in the office visiting at the same time. If there is any falling off in the news this week, therefore, we beg your indulgence, but we will say this, that we would rather visit with subscribers than hunt news and that all who have not yet made us a visit are welcome.

FOR A GREATER IOWA.

The time is ripe for a Greater Iowa movement. The land boom period has passed. The new industrial future of the state has been only dimly foreseen. The state is in the wash between the two waves. Thriving towns with unrivalled possibilities are at a standstill because land values are not rising, and men of wealth who have relied on speculation are not yet ready to develop industries.

The state has the cheapest fuel in the world in boundless supply. It has adequate means of communication, no state better. It has a population of greater average buying capacity than any equal number of people on the face of the earth. Why should it not supply its own needs?

The towns that have asked and answered that question are the towns that are thriving today. There is not a dead county seat in Iowa that has ventured into manufacturing enterprises. There is not a prosperous city that does not owe its prosperity to the industries that employ its labor. Des Moines can rival any city in the middle west as an industrial center, and has set out to do it. Some of the citizens of Des Moines have each pledged two thousand dollars a year for three years to promote the work, and to interest capital seeking

ANNOUNCEMENT..

I wish to announce to the people of Denison and vicinity that I am not only manufacturing furniture, but I will also take your orders for any ready made furniture you may want shipped in.

Everybody that needs furniture should take special note of this, and do not fail to call on me. First, for the reason I can save you money; second, thirty years of experience in the manufacture of Furniture will assist me in helping you to select the best, and have your home and furniture right up to date.

Catalogues showing illustrations of all kinds of Furniture in the Colonial, Mission or Rococo styles, as well as others, are at your service.

OFFICE FURNITURE—Every kind at the lowest price. What's the use of going to Chicago to buy furniture or sending to catalogue houses for it when you can get it at home for the same price and probably less.

Asking for a part of your patronage, I am,

Respectfully, yours,

John Fastje, DENISON, IOWA. C. C. Phone No. 126

investment in the possibilities of the situation. Not a man in Iowa doubts the outcome. Des Moines is just as certain to become a large and wealthy manufacturing and jobbing center as it is to remain on the map.

There is not a county seat in Iowa in which dozens of citizens cannot afford to each invest several hundred dollars a year in the work of promotion. The new life the community will take on will alone make the venture profitable. The natural advantages are here, the conditions are favorable, and the best buying constituency on earth is at the door. If Iowa manufactured alone what Iowa consumes it would be listed as a manufacturing rather than an agricultural state.

Let the Greater Iowa movement begin with the year. Iowa has passed from the land boom class, and is entering the race for industrial supremacy. Let the state face its future. The year 1907 ought not to pass without the development of new industrial activity in every considerable center of population.—Des Moines Register and Leader.
