We feel sure our readers will appreciate the two poems by James Whitcomb Riley found in the paper this week. "Orphan Annie" has made many of us look about for the Gobble-uns when the things seemed creepy, and "There Little girl don't cry" tells of a lesson in life which all have experienced.

There are two people at least who do not think marriage a failure, to judge from their actions. Our old time union veteran citizen, Edward Sierer and Mrs. Mary A. Biles were married at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. Thureson on Tuesday, Aug. 20, at 11 a. m. The bride is a resident of Springfield Ill., and now been married for the fourth time. Mr. Sierer has been married three times. May their views of matrimony never grow less rosiate from their last venture.

Our well known citizen Mr. C. F. Kuehne was not one of the successful ones at the late meeting of the grand lodge of Knights of Pythias, where he was elected as representative from Iowa to the supreme body. He had been one of the representatives for twelve years which was a great honor. He comes home seemingly smiling and good natured over the matter, and means to be a better member of the order than ever.

Henry Hennings one of the big land owners of Hanover township has rented the farm and will in the spring move to Schleswig where he will engage in the implement business. He comes from one of our best German families, his father of the same name being one of the original Germans to begin farming in the county. Henry is a natural mechanic, loves to repair and put together machinery. He will sell the Deere goods when he gets started. He has bought the business of the Nye-Schneider-Fowler Co., and will have their big buildings. May he have good success.

Early Showing Fall Dress Goods

DRESS Goods in all the new fall shades and new weaves. This is Crawford county's great dress goods store--so you will take it for granted that the most varied and the largest stock of all kinds of dress fabrics is here--for example; the PANAMA, TAFFETA and SERGE families in great assortments; the many other suitings, including the much sought after fancies, smart blue suitings; and scores of different weaves of black goods. The most comprehensive display of dress goods in the county is here awaiting your approval. And broadcloths, Paris is emphatic--broadcloths! Variety is a striking feature this season and there's not a color or weave--if its favored by fashion--that is missing from the selection. You'll experience little or no difficulty here in getting just the material you want for your fall dress.

And all the findings that go with a dress--TRIMMINGS, LACES, BUTTONS, FACINGS, ETC., are here in profuse variety.
