Mrs. Clifton Lawrence of Kiron was an interested participant in the last meeting of the special meetings at Denison. She is one of the sweet singers of the Baptist church at Kiron and deeply interested in Sunday school and religious work.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Norman are much disappointed because Miss Garnett is too busy to return for the holidays. Denison's nighingale is having great success not only as a whistler but as a reader, especially in juvenile parts. She has had some fine offers, one with a leading opera company, but she will remain in the Lyceum field.

The Omaha papers announce the wedding of Mr. J. E. Balle of Denison and Miss Helen Myer of Omaha is set for December, 28th. It is reported that the happy couple will go to Honolulu for their wedding trip but Julius, for some reason, fails to confide his plans to any one. Denison people take great interest in the approaching nuptials. The bride to be has been a frequent visitor in Denison and has made many friends who will accord her a warm welcome. Mr. Balle has long been a prime favorite among our young people and they congratulate him upon winning such a charming bride.

Don't fail to enjoy the annual Christmas ball at the Opera House, Wednesday evening, Dec. 25th. Music by the Hover-Wheeler Bond orchestra.

In another column we re-publish a pipe dream concerning Deloit, written, so we are told, by an old time Review worker. After reading the article one feels inclined to think that the sand deposit must have been almost exhausted in writing it.
In another column we publish an advertisement of the "Fun-day Washer." It sounds too good to be true, but H. K. Harthun, who has the sale of the machine in this county declares that every word is so. He will have the machine on exhibition in the Welch building and he asks the housewives to come and see it, for he is positive that he can convince them that it is the best ever.

It is reported that Miss Flora Polster formerly teacher of music in the Denison public school has resigned her position in the schools of Des Moines. It is also reported that Miss Polster is to be married during the Christmas Holidays. Miss Polster is not only a beautiful singer but she is a young lady well qualified to make a happy and delightful home. We congratulate the fortunate groom and wish the bride the utmost happiness.

Sheriff Meehan says his Syrian prisoners spend their time reading native papers sent them by friends in Omaha and in learning the English language from a book designed for that purpose. They are deile, but he watches them well. They have been in jail now nearly one year and it must now seem like the place they live in. Further imprisonment stares them in the face, for if a new trial is given they will have to remain in jail until the result is known.

Clifford Randall has returned from Cleveland, Ohio, and will remain at home for a short time. He tells us that owing to the financial stringency scores of draught men have been laid off and that he was one of the unlucky number. Clif is a good worker and will not long be idle. Mr. C. S. Randall wears a smile as he expects his sons, F. H. and W. S. and his daughter Addie to return from Iowa City for the holidays. Ray, who is at Basin, Wyo., will be the only one absent from the family circle.

Frank Carl expects to celebrate Christmas in his new house. It is a pretty, cosy and comfortable home and we hope that he and his estimable wife will live to enjoy it for many years.
The poultry show ought to be a permanent feature. The corn show should be made permanent also. We supposed they judged chickens by their size and laying qualities. But they do not, it is the color of the feather that counts. We always judge chicken by eating them. But the judge at the chicken show said he would resign before he ate all those chickens, and him a drawing thirty dollars or so a day, at that mind you.
