There were two small fires on last Thursday morning in town. The first came from a bundle of okum in the cellar of the Menagh & Co. store on Broadway. The fire alarm rang at about seven thirty and promptly brought the firemen. They threw out the burning bundle and did not use the apparatus. Later the roof of the building owned by Sarachon Sisters caught fire from a defective chimney but the flame was put out, the alarm not being turned in. With our good fire company and water supply it will be hard for any but an extraordinary fire to get beyond control in Denison.

The First of the New Spring 1908 Merchandise has arrived.

This no doubt will interest many who have been unable lately to get just what they wanted in Prints, Percales, Muslins, Sheetings, Dress and Apron Gingham, Muslin Underwear, and the very latest in Dress Goods and Suitings. Of course, these early arrivals only indicate what our entire spring stock will be when complete, but for the present will offer something new and different in quite an extensive range of patterns and qualities, affording very pleasing selections. And as the season advances now, each day, will see additions in every line to our great stock, offering greater inducements for your patronage for 1908 than in any previous year in our store's history. This store, from now on, will be an interesting place and we solicit frequent visits, as each time you will meet with new surprises; the pleasing sight of bright new merchandise accumulating each day as the height of the season approaches and the prices will always be the lowest.
