A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

One of the most happy events in the history of the life of your correspondent, occurred at my home Saturday evening Jan. 25, 1908.

My husband, Mr. Herr and my housekeeper, Mrs. Hawkins, had very successfully planned a surprise for me, Sunday Jan. 26th being my 49th birthday. At the close of business hours at the post office, accompanied by my husband, we wended our way homeward, arriving at the door, not a sound was heard, but imagine if you can my great astonishment when the door was opened for me to enter, when I soon found the room was not vacant by any means. With much pleasure I was permitted to greet forty of our townfolks who had gathered to celebrate the event. Two tables in the dining room, which seated twenty-two at once, was laden with eatables, and supper was in readiness. I was immediately reminded that I was not to dine alone as was usually the custom after closing hours, Mrs. Hawkins, the cook was assisted Saturday afternoon and evening by Mrs. Anna Moss and Mr. Herr had special business at home in the afternoon also, all having been very quietly and cautiously planned. Georgia Nicewarner and Orpha Campbell served.

Supper over and tables put aside, we were invited to take our exit into the parlor, the door being closed, we wondered what act in the drama was coming next. We were soon asked to return, glancing about the room to see what game was being played we spied a very fine bookcase and writing desk at the farther end of the room which seemed to of suddenly made its appearance, which added much greater surprise. The presentation speech was made by my uncle John Dobson in behalf of the friends and relatives gathered with joy unspeakable. I tried to express my gratitude for their presence and for the very nice gift they had presented, a gift which I shall prize most highly and one that shall ever be a constant reminder of dear friends. I would not forget to mention the receipt of some smaller presents which friends brought also. The remainder of the evening was very pleasantly spent in visiting, singing and graphophone selections.

Mr. Herr treated the guests to apples and about midnight all departed to their homes wishing the writer good night and many happy returns of the day.

A TRAVELING PAIN.

There is no disease quite so peculiar as rheumatism. The pain which is in the little finger today may be in one of the toes tomorrow. And so it travels all over the system, seeking an outlet, and finding none it settles permanently in one place, and from its home other pains start out, and settle down and multiply. Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedies for rheumatism attack the disease from all points at once, and their work is always successful. If your druggist has not got these remedies write to the Drummond Medicine Co., New York, and describe your case. Agents wanted.
