Mr. Johnson, of the bookstore, has done a most creditable thing and gone to visit his aged parents in Marshall county. Showing he has the right kind of a heart in his breast, he was lamenting the other day that he could not have been with them during the late blustering weather so to do the chores and not have the father out in the cold. Rev. Johnson and wife are most worthy people.

We had the pleasure of a call on Monday from George Neddermeyer who lives near Charter Oak. He is one of the best known Germans of the west side of the county. Long before the town of Charter Oak was laid out he settled on the fine land of his homestead and began to make it produce the corn and hogs and cattle which brought the highest prices in the Denison market. His sons are now conducting the place. He still has the kindly smile and friendly way which have ever made him beloved by his neighbors and friends. May he live long, a representative of the capable Germans who have made Crawford strong and great for grain and stock.

For the past year he has lived on the Rogers farm south of the cemetery. His land is in the wooded district of Minnesota and he will not try farming extensively. He is taking up his cows and will try dairy farming. A host of friends wish him and his wife, who was the daughter of Prof. Von Coellon, much success in their new home.

Attorney Moore of Manilla, was in town Monday on legal business, returning that evening. We see that the Manilla Times has suggested that Mr. Moore present his name in the June primary election before the republican voters for nomination as county attorney. He is a lawyer of experience and stands well at Manilla. This year it is a free for all and candidates must go to the voters for nomination.

Special February Showing New Undermuslins.
Newly arrived, carefully stocked, daintily arranged are the new muslin under garments, which already have received much attention from many early buyers. The new stock represents easily the most notable white wear collection this store has ever shown and already bids fair to outrival all former displays, in point of interest.
The refined taste of the daintiest woman is perfectly expressed in these rarely beautiful undermuslins; made from the softest cambrics, longcloths and nainsooks, adorned with laces and embroideries fine as you would choose for yourselves at the counters. Many of the embroideries are comparable only to hand work; none are other than refined and perfectly suited to the garments they beautify. Then the making of these muslins, whether simple or elaborate. One of the rarest delights this wonderful exhibition affords comes from examining the garments inside and out, and finding every little seam finished with more than the particular care of the home sewer.
