

Libby Prison Diarrhoea Cured.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express Co., Chicago, writes, "Our general superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old Libby Prison diarrhoea. I used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23rd Ohio Regiment, and have no ailments except Libby Prison diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once. For sale by Ph. A. Schlumberger.

Aug. 16. Saul Tries to kill David. I Sam. 18: 6-16.

Our lessons continue the history of David. After the death of Goliath the Israelites pursued after the Philistines and put them utterly to rout. In the songs of rejoicing the greater meed of praise was given to David than to Saul and this caused him to be jealous of the lad who had sprung so suddenly into popularity. Saul still kept David with him but in time he grew to hate him, and the lesson says that he threw his javelin at him twice, but did not harm him. Saul made David the captain over a group of one thousand soldiers, may be to remove him from court, or again to put him in a place where he might come to injury.

The record says that Saul was afraid of David because the Lord was with him. Those experienced in the world well know that while a Godly man may be hated by evil doers, still they fear him, if they know that he is actuated by good motives and is a follower of Jesus. Law breakers, men of corrupt practices may rail at the Godly people, but in their hearts they respect them, and in days of trouble when a true friend is needed it is the Godly in a community who are looked to.

The record further says that David behaved himself wisely in all he did. This was notable for a young man who was not of true worth and whose trust was not in God. He was fast becoming the Nation's hero after his slaying of Goliath. He had married the king's daughter and certainly from a worldly point of view had sufficient to make him proud and puffed up. Yet he is humble, and in this gained the estimation of God and man. It will be found that David made no move to undermine Saul, feelings that he was God's anointed king. It will be found later on, that when men came to David expecting reward for killing Saul they were themselves slain for killing "God's anointed." So this lesson teaches humility.

The lesson also teaches that God will protect and care for His own. He had David escape the javelin and later protected him when pursued for months in the mountains. Aside from those promises which make sure eternal life to those truly following Jesus there are none more precious than those which give assurance of God's love and care over his loved ones. The blessed Jesus compares himself to the "Good Shepherd" which establishes a relation between us and Him which betokens tender watchful care. The 121 psalm is full of verses which call to mind the watchful eye of God upon His people. It is in this Psalm which occurs the declaration, "He that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber or sleep" words which in sacred music have been sung to thousands of listening ears, and read with comfort by many more.

Turning to the New Testament there comes further to view promises which are mighty in their meaning, and afford consolation under all the varying circumstances of life. The declaration in John 13:1 is most precious "Jesus having loved His own which were in the world. He loved them unto the end." It has seemed to us that one meaning of this was that Jesus would be with us to the last extremity in this world, and that thus nothing should be able to pluck a loved one out of His hand. In the last verses of Matthew is found another great promise, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world". What could be more assuring? The great Apostle Paul in Romans eight, which is full of promises of most comforting import, asks "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulations, persecutions, famine, death, life, heights, depths any creature? The answer, is that none of these things shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. In the same chapter and in the 28th verse is the promise, "We know that all things work together for good to them that love God." What more can one ask in the way of assurances that God is with His people. He was with David in the days when his heart was right and he was dedicating his life to God's service, and He will be with us now in the same way.

WEST DENISON. Mrs. W. J. Bauman has the little daughter of Mrs. Killeany. We are sure the little one has found a good home and foster-mother.

John Blackman and wife entertained at dinner on Sunday a number of their relatives. Jerome Blackman and wife, Floyd Smith and wife and baby, John Duff and family were of the party. We know they enjoyed themselves as both John and his wife are excellent in their hospitality.

Mrs. Brannon called on the Misses Fitzpatrick Thursday. John Bauman and Nora Fitzpatrick spent Sunday at the James Finnern home.

Margaret Conway and daughter visited at the pleasant home of Dr. and Mrs. Brannon one day last week.

John Blackman and wife spent Friday evening at the Frahm home in Denison.

John Blackman had the misfortune to lose a fine thoroughbred hog this week from a broken leg.

Lillina Brooks and Inez Howe, of Chicago, are visiting with their cousin a couple of weeks. These are two bright young ladies who are nurses in hospitals in the city. They are certainly enjoying our fine country air, taking early morning canter on horse back.

Paul Norris is driving the mail route for Mr. Hawk a few weeks.

Effie and Jack Norris left on Saturday for an extended visit in St. Louis with friends.

The Harvey boys and John Blackman are planning on attending the State fair. We wish them a pleasant time.

The many friends of Elsie Tevor, will be pleased to learn of her marriage at Boone, on Friday last to Ralph Hitchcock of Topeka, Kansas. The bride needs no introduction to the people of this and surrounding communities and the groom's choice is enough to assure us he is a level headed young lawyer. They will make their home in Topeka, after a sojourn in Colorado. We join in wishing them a happy voyage over life's sea.

A new thing this year at Iowa's great State Fair will be the double night shows. A new entertainment is that in the stock pavilion where the prize winning live stock will be parades, together with a novel and interesting special program to fill out the entire evening. This will be the fashionable event of the Fair week at Des Moines. It will be strictly high class live stock show. On the last evening, Friday Aug. 28, this pavilion show will be supplemented with the addition of the Liberator band concert and the best vaudeville from the amphitheater show. The Plain's "Sheridan's Ride" will be given each evening at the amphitheater.

HEALTH OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

What Boston is Doing for the Health of Her School Children.

In commenting two weeks ago on the presence of Dr. A. E. Winship the great educator at the Chautauqua we promised to tell our readers something he said in private as to the way Boston is caring for the health of her school children. It would appear that in the beginning of the idea for the school board to give medical attention to the children, there was appropriated $10,000 for the physicians who were to go to the school buildings at least once a week and examine those children whom the teacher suspected as needing inspection. If the child was thought to require removal from school or a temporary stay at home to recuperate, he was told to go home and seek further medical advice, and such nursing as the parents could give. This was found to be unsatisfactory and now more money is spent and more care given. The appropriation has been increased to $20,000 notwithstanding the fact that the school taxes are high. Now the physicians visit the schools quite often, and make their examination independent of the teacher. When he finds a child who should be out of school, showing symptoms of coming disease, he not only send it home but the school board has hired nurses to visit the child and suggest to the parents the best way to fight the ailment.

The nurses provided by the Boston school board are women of tact and good sense. They do not go in a domineering way to take the place of the parents in caring for the child but only to suggest what might be good. They see whether the little one has been sleeping in a room where there is no pure air admitted, whether the surroundings are sanitary, whether children can be bathed at necessary intervals and as to plain wholesome food. The nurse does not stay, but suggests what the parents might do. If the circumstances are such that doctors cannot come at the expense of the parents, then a physician of the school board attends.

Dr. Winship says that a result of this line of undertaking, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and kindred fatal and common diseases have been driven from the school children of Boston. Not only this, but there has been a marked betterment of the health of the parents, for they have taken the hint as to how to keep from disease, from the suggestions of the nurses as to the care of the children. The physicians of the city state that their practice in contagious diseases has fallen off fully seventy-five per cent. There is certainly a large field for thought in the idea of the commonwealth in the form of the school board caring for the health of the children. As is known, in many cities of the world, at least one meal a day is provided children who come hungry or need clothing to be able to attend regularly. Things have not come to this condition in Iowa, but thoughts along this line are in order, looking to the future.

Chronic Diarrhoea Cured!

"My father has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered from the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by Ph. A. Schlumberger.
