A strange thing happened this summer for the Review subscription list, in that the time for which the paper sent to the name of James Smythe expired. Now for thirty-five years such a state of affairs had not occurred. Accordingly our respected Mr. Smythe came in Saturday with many apologies. With his record as a subscriber there was no danger of his being dropped from the list.

Our Kiron correspondent gives the news that a baby boy was born at Kiron to the barber, L. C. Goodrich and wife. The mother is a sister of Mrs. Timm, of Ricketts, and Mrs. Gordan Gary, of Denison, one of the Hoffman sisters. Friends of the family tender congratulations.

We saw the other day two boys beating a rug on a line. They were in the midst of a cloud of dust breathing it into their lungs. How much better to send the rugs and carpets to the cleaning wheel. Then the men folks do not have to breathe in the poisonous dust, or spoil a suit of clothes. Call up phone 497 and the rug manager will do the rest.

Uncle Sam has had his mail boxes painted green. If the telephone and light companies should now have enough civic pride to paint their poles the looks of the city would be greatly improved. Right in the center of the fine cement walk about our $50,000 hotel are the poles of these companies, unpainted, ugly unseemly. Let us have paint.

Mr. John Richardson and wife are back from their camping out on the banks of Lake Okoboji. He was out fishing every day but Sunday and then they attended Friends church not far from his lodge. The friends of Mr. Richardson are happy to see that he is looking like himself again, and even better, than before his sickness. He will take up his old position of caring for the children, whom he loves, who attend the north brick school building.
