

CLEAN WHOLESOME
SANITARY MILK

DENISON CITIZENS INFORMED AS TO THE DANGERS OF FILTHY MILK

PROF. M. H. REYNOLDS OF MINN.

The Eminent Specialist of the Minnesota Agricultural College Gave an Illustrated Lecture on Monday Night.

Through the endeavors of Dr. Simpson, the veterinary surgeon of Denison, backed by the desires of the mayor and the ladies of the Federated Clubs, our people were favored on Monday evening by an illustrated lecture from Prof. Reynolds of the Agricultural College of Minnesota. This was given in the city hall before an audience of nearly one hundred people. Prof. VanNess of the Denison college handled the lantern and gave the views in a manner satisfactory to the speaker and the audience. The introductory talk was made by Mr. Sims, who called to mind how through the endeavors of science the cholera, yellow fever and small pox had been nearly wiped out, and were terrible scourges no more. Just now science was turning its attention to the white plague of consumption and would in time drive it out of existence. As one of the means of doing this, was the use of pure sanitary milk and Prof. Reynolds was here to explain about that matter.

The speaker acknowledges that he had a great and important subject for consideration. When one remembers that milk was the food of thousands upon thousands of the human race, and was the largely accepted food for small children, they would realize how important it was that this be clean and healthy. Of course, the speaker laid special emphasis on the condition of cow barns, and the way the cows were cared for and milked. He showed barns where the cows waded about in manure knee deep, where the milkers had filthy hands, the udders of the animals were not cleaned at all, where dust and dirt circulated freely, and the milk could not be otherwise than unhealthy. He gave the results of scientific experiments showing the per cent of disease breeding germs in the atmosphere of our doors, in close dark barns; and in those where there was light and pure air. Where flies abounded, dust was falling from hay and straw over head, and from dry food being eaten at the time of milking, the harmful bacteria were found to flourish in the milk.

The speaker called to mind that the dairyman who sent out clean wholesome sanitary milk would not compete with the one who paid no attention to such things. The milk must be kept cool from the time it leaves the cow until used by the consumer and this meant added cost for ice. So with added wholesomeness of the milk, would come some increase in the price. Milk could look clean and not be so. Cows could look healthy and fat, and yet have tuberculosis in advanced stages. The only way to tell as to the condition of the animal, was the test of the veterinary surgeon. Of course this could be told by killing the animal and examining the lungs, liver and intestines. Many of the views related to model dairy farms, where the cows were curried and washed and kept as well groomed as horses in a first class livery stable, where there was light and air.

Dr. Reynolds said that people should demand that the cows from which they drank milk should be given pure water, be kept in airy barns, and where the manure was taken away often enough so not to contaminate the air; their udders be wiped with a damp cloth before milking, milkers have clean clothing and clean hands, there be nothing done just before milking to raise a dust, the milk be cooled and kept so until consumed. Of course pails, cans, bottles in which milk was placed must be well cleansed. The great majority of these requirements were well known to his hearers before he gave his lecture.

Prof. Reynolds complimented Denison on being one of the first cities of Iowa to pass an ordinance requiring the testing of cows from which milk was sold. He also expressed surprise that in all the cows tested that only four had been found in a diseased condition. This he thought a remarkable record and spoke well for the condition of the cattle here. The lecture was not so scientific to be tiresome to the ordinary person. He was careful not to create a prejudice which would make people declare they would not use milk. Many of our citizens met Prof. Reynolds during the day and found him a most companionable gentleman, well posted on many matters aside from the one he spoke upon. On Tuesday he gave the same talk in main before the meeting of the state veterinary association meeting held in Fort Dodge, and he is not expecting to lecture elsewhere in Iowa so that Denison people were specially favored thanks to Dr. Simpson who is secretary of the state association, and responsible in part for securing Prof. Reynolds to appear on the Fort Dodge program.

Carl F. Kuehnles was today elected a regent of the State University to succeed Hon. Thos. D. Healy.

There was a neighborhood cottage prayer meeting held at the home of Mr. Branch and wife on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the bible class in the M. E. church of which they are members. Others may follow from week to week.

Rev. Lamb of Omaha preached in the Presbyterian church last Sunday as Rev. DePree is yet in quarantine. The pastor will not be out by next Sunday and so a minister also named Lamb will preach. Rev. DePree feels it very much that his plans for church work have been checked for a time.

In another column is a notice that Prof. H. Meinke will give lessons in German each evening or private lessons. He has instruction rooms under the billiard hall on Main street. He is a graduate of the Real Gymnasium in Stralsund Pommern Germany, and evidently a young man of superior education.

"A Devil's Lane" is an original musical comedy in four acts, and takes its name from a disputed boundary line between two farms and not from the red figure of Satan as you would suppose. The small tragedies of daily life are presented with such natural humor, and so true to life that you cannot help but fall in love with the characters while you laugh at them. This charming comedy will be seen at Opera House on Monday, January 25.

WERE WED AT WOODBINE.

Mr. Geo. B. Smith and Miss Edna Cater Married on Sunday.

On Sunday afternoon at four o'clock at the residence of the bride's brother at Woodbine, Iowa, occurred the wedding of Mr. Geo. B. Smith and Miss Edna Cater both of this city. Rev. C. L. Nye performed the ceremony which was witnessed only by intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Shortly after the ceremony the happy couple took the train for Denison and were soon ensconced in their cosy home on Tremont street. Mr. Smith purchased not only the Book Store of Mr. Allard but all his household goods and so they had a ready made little home all ready for them.

Both bride and groom are now well known in Denison although they have been with us but about a year. During his connection with the corner book store Mr. Smith has proved himself a popular, affable and efficient young man of high character. Miss Cater was equally popular as a clerk in the Racket Store. She is a most capable and attractive young lady and a fine musician. Mr. and Mrs. Smith expect to devote their time to the Corner Book Store and their many friends wish them abundant success and happiness.

SOME SOCIAL NOTES.

Wednesday and Thursday were delightfully filled by Mrs. Ley's parties that were large and strikingly social. Mrs. Ley had provided a game that precluded any thing but a good time, each guest being asked to make it a point to talk to everyone present. It made a merry-go-round of pleasant talk, Mrs. James Smith taking the prize on Wednesday and Mrs. Ferguson on Thursday. Supper, and a very nice one was served by Mesdames Ley, Wood and Kemming and Miss Verne Stocking.

Penelope had one of the jolliest, most delightful meetings in its history yesterday with Mrs. Eugene Gulick. A number of invited guests were present and all enjoyed the elegant refreshments served by Mesdames Gulick and Voss and the Misses Gulick and Miss Strahn. Carnations and narcissus were the flowers used by the hostess for decorations. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. D. O. Johnson.

Friday Mrs. Simpson entertained Coterie and a number of friends as well at her attractive and hospitable home. Mrs. Simpson is a charming hostess and her entertaining of Coterie was no exception to the rule. Mrs. George Sprecher captured in the prize in a game of stitches. Miss Alice Knaul and Miss Erma Naeve assisted Mrs. Simpson in serving.

The P. E. O. met Friday night with Mrs. George Naeve and took into full fellowship Miss Marie Naeve and Mrs. E. C. Chamberlin. Mrs. Naeve's well known hospitable home was beautifully decorated in roses and narcissus and the ceremony could not have had a more attractive setting. After the ladies were full fledged P. E. O.'s a lovely two course supper served with daintiness and exquisite taste of the hostess was served.

The Wonderful Chinese Tots.

The Des Moines Register & Leader

Eight little Chinese children, seven girls and one boy, waifs from Chinatown in San Francisco, delighted three large church audiences yesterday. The children range in age from 4 to 12 years, and are musical prodigies. They are touring the country with their orphans home superintendent, Miss Carrie Davis. These small tots, three years younger than they now are, were in the earthquake at San Francisco, and in care of Miss Davis they and their companions walked six miles to escape the encroaching fire. The orphans' rescue home in San Francisco was ruined, and they escaped with nothing but the clothing they had on. None of the children or teachers was injured. These eight children, by giving musical programmes in various churches, are hoping to rebuild their home in San Francisco, which is conducted under the home mission board of the Methodist church. Six-year-old Yum wields the baton with all the grace and mimicry of Sousa, and has his seven companions well trained under his leadership.

Yesterday morning the children and their teacher, Miss Davis, gave the programme at the Highland Park Methodist church. Yum showed the mastery of the baton by conducting the congregation in the singing of "America."

Most of these children were saved from Chinese slavery, having been bought and sold several times, until seized by Miss Davis and her rights of possession fought out in the courts.

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Nellie Burnett has renewed her suit against Mrs. Lenora Lang of Willow township. Mrs. Burnett says she was married in November 1897 and lived happy with her husband until he became inticed from home by the defendant. She claims ten thousand dollars in damages. The two children are ten and two years old. The defendant is the young wife of the elder Lang who was put under guardianship to keep him from giving his property to his wife without consideration. The case will have some sensational testimony if brought to trial.

One of the cases on the docket for the coming term of court has to do with the affairs of Dr. Brandt and Mr. John Meyer, the farmer living east of town, a notice of whose sale of personal property we print this week. It will be remembered that about July 6, 1907, Mr. Meyer was badly hurt in an accident, and sustained a compound fracture of his leg. He called on Dr. Brandt for medical aid. In time he became satisfied that he was not getting well, as he thought he should, and consulted another surgeon. From the fact that Dr. Brandt filed a suit against Mr. Meyer for $155 fees for services, it would seem that the same had not been paid. Mr. Meyer comes back with a counter claim for $3,500 damages for malpractice.

The Rebekahs installed their officers on last Wednesday night. Mrs. J. W. Baker acted as installing officer. The officers were: Miss Mary Luney, N. G.; Miss Ollie Hilderbrandt, V. G.; Mrs. J. W. Baker, R. S. N. G.; Miss Latchaw, L. S. N. G.; Miss Thompson, Warden; Miss Roberts, Conductor; Mrs. Jensen, Chaplain; Miss Tompkins, I. G.; J. W. Baker, O. G. The lodge closed its contest for members with great success and it is now one of the largest lodges of its class in the county.
