Mr. W. A. Lamborn has purchased the Cassaday drug stock and has shipped it to Battle Creek where he will establish a branch store. Denison has needed one less drug store for some time. The stock was a good one but the store was one too many. The soda fountain was a fine one and always proved popular but out side of this the store did little business the past year. Mr. Lamborn is one of Denison's brightest and most enterprising business men. He will give Battle Creek a thoroughly up-to-date store and will run it in a first-class manner. We congratulate Denison on having gotten rid of an overdose of drug store, and we congratulate Battle Creek on having gained a live and dependable merchant.

GOOD—BETTER—BEST.

The Halle-Brodersen store is all ready for the great event of its merchandising year—the spring opening. For weeks all the energies of the big store have been directed toward making this the big event of the year. Thousands of dollars worth of beautiful wares will be displayed for the first time, hundreds of "dreams" of bonnets will make their debut and from top to bottom the store will have on its best bib and tucker. The Halle-Brodersen store is worth going miles to see—and scores of people do go miles to see it.

In richness and profusion of stock, in beauty of decoration and in the elaborate pains taken with the display the opening of this year will excel all its predecessors. Even in making its announcement the Halle-Brodersen has had everything in keeping, the Review being ordered to use the finest of wedding stationery in printing the dainty invitations which bade the ladies of Crawford visit the 1909 opening.

Clerks, school teachers, mechanics, laborers and all other wage earners, can not save money in a better way than to invest $19 per month for a farm in The Reclaimed Everglades of Florida, which will bring them large and sure returns. PERT PARAGRAPHS.

A man finds very cold comfort in being in hot water all the time.

The critical moment is the one that comes about 2 a. m. when your wife gets her eye on you.

I WANT SOMETHING THAT WE ALL CAN USE

If it ever becomes fashionable to be comfortable and easy probably the millennium will be peeping over the horizon.

It is only too frequently quite hard to tell the truth—from the fascinating fiction that it is traveling with.

Give Uncle John a silk muffler. Silk mufflers are so serviceable, and nobody else may think of it. He probably doesn't wear them, but they are so nice to have.

When a man is obviously taxing his brain to say nice things about you look out that he isn't soon engaged in taxing your pocket.

The man who takes things easy is equally prone to let 'em slide.

Keep your temper. If you don't it is certain to give you away.

When a woman has been insulting to a man she will never forgive him until he has apologized for it.

As a man can't spend his money and have it, too, there are some who have adopted the expedient of spending somebody else's.

Ask the Doctor

It is your privilege to take your prescriptions to the druggist you may prefer. The doctor is quite apt to write it up on whatever blank is handiest. It is not an indication that you are to take it to the store indicated upon the blanks.

The matter of having it compounded is something for you to decide, according to your own judgment.

We give as perfect prescription service as can be had. If you desire the doctor's opinion, ask him about us. We are confident he will assure you that you make no mistake in bringing your prescription here.

Our prices are always as reasonable as possible, taking into consideration the fact that we use high class pharmaceuticals. Have your doctor phone your prescriptions to us and we will deliver them if you want.
