HUMAN WASTE

Down in Oklahoma some of the goodly philanthropists are studying the problem of human waste. It seems to be a new idea that human waste is worth considering from an economic standpoint. The great packing houses credit their profits largely to the elimination of waste. It is claimed that the utilization of every scrap of what was formerly wasted gives to the packers millions of dollars yearly.

Is not the item of human waste worth considering? The country that shall first solve that problem will be the greatest and the happiest on earth. Think of the human waste, through disease, through vice, through strong drink, through bad habits of living, foul air, bad food, unsanitary quarters.

We have been too ready to safe-guard our "business" interests at the expense of flesh and blood.

While we are studying the conservation of our national resources, let us remember that our greatest national resource is in sane, healthy, clean-minded men and women. It is not an ethical question alone, it is not a question of religion, it is a matter of civic economy of the highest order.

And then the poor wasted lives. Oh, the pity of them. Oh, the shame and the disgrace. A great nation spending millions of dollars to join the waters of the two seas in the names of war and commerce; reaching out to reclaim the desert places; staying the hand of the axe man; conserving the power of flowing waters; but doing so very little to save and direct and reclaim the human waste.

Poor human wrecks. What splendid salvage and how few the workers be.

We understand that there is some question in the city council as to whether the near-smut column of the Bulletin should be referred to the Sewer committee or the committee on Nuisances.

Mayor Rollins tells us that he is bestirring himself to find out where the city money goes and that he will give us the benefit of his researches next week. The Review is glad if it has started something doing along the line of investigation of city affairs.

The Register and Leaders' New Years resolution not to take any more cock-tails in its advertising columns, was highly praiseworthy, but its repetition for four months, top of column, next preceding pure reading, is beginning to smack of a certain Pharisee who gave repeated thanks that he was not as other men.

SCENE IN MUNICIPAL COURT.

Judge LeRoy—"With what is the prisoner charged?"
 Officer—"He is charged, Yer Honor, with working in the Review office."
 Judge LeRoy—"What? 'Tis a horrible crime. Give him six weeks in the near-smut column."
 Prisoner begs for commutation to a life sentence in the penitentiary, but without avail. Exits in tears.

When there is no fever and little (if any) swelling, you may know that it is only necessary to apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely to get quick relief. Try it. You are certain to be pleased with the quick relief which it affords. Price, 25 cents; large size, 50 cents. For sale by Ph. A. Schlumberger. 14-4

Col. Patten, a Lieutenant in the Old Guard, an exclusive organization composed of soldiers of distinction who fought in the Civil War, very popular in secret society circles, recommends the famous remedy, Peruna, as a spring tonic.

Remember, he says not only that he recommends Peruna as an invigorating spring tonic, but also as one of the best remedies that he has ever tried for coughs, colds and catarrhal complaints.

What are you going to do with such evidence? Are you going to turn away from it and listen only to the talk of people who probably never saw a bottle of Peruna, certainly never tried a bottle of it, who have nothing else to do but to talk about other people's affairs? Are you going to listen to such people as that, instead of accepting the testimony of those who know?

There may be a few people so constituted as to be able to perform such a mental feat. But the sensible people, the reliable people, the brawn and brain of the world, who are governed by principles of justice and common sense, are going to accept the clear, pointed and undoubted testimony of a man of national reputation who knows what he is talking about.

Peruna is everything he says it is. It is an invigorating spring tonic. It is also a good remedy for coughs. We have many testimonials attesting to this fact. Peruna is manufactured by the Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Not a drop of Alcohol

Doctors prescribe very little, if any, alcohol these days. They prefer strong tonics and alteratives. This is all in keeping with modern medical science. It explains why Ayer's Sarsaparilla is now made entirely free from alcohol. Ask your doctor. Follow his advice.

Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, biliousness, nausea, dyspepsia. We wish you would ask your doctor about correcting your constipation by taking laxative doses of Ayer's Pills.
