ALMOST BEHEA BY BURSTING WHEEL

HARRY G. DOBSON OF DELOIT THE VICTIM OF A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.

DEATH WAS INSTANTANEOUS

Bursting Flywheel Severs Jugular Vein, Breaks
Neck and Crushes Spinal Column. He Leaves a Young Wife and Child.

(Special from Deloit.)

While running a wood buzz saw in Deloit, Harry Dobson was instantly killed by the bursting of the fly wheel. He was standing in front of the saw when the accident happened, and was struck by a flying piece of metal from the fly wheel just under the chin, severing the jugular vein, passing down into the shoulder and breaking the neck and spinal column. The shock and force threw him some distance and he was killed outright.

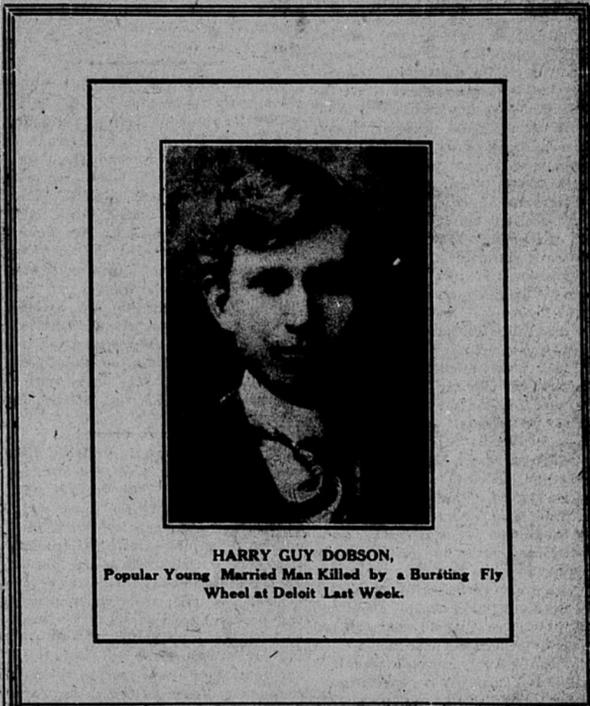

Harry Guy Dobson, youngest son of T. Cyrus Dobson and Huldah Marie Dobson, was born July 24, 1883, at Deloit, Iowa. He came suddenly to his death Oct. 28, 1909, and at his death was 26 years, three months and four days old. He was married to Lillian Cose July 17, 1901, and to this union was born one son, Lemuel O. Dobson. Harry lived in Deloit until seven years of age, when his parents moved on the Cook Ranch in Sac County, Iowa, where they resided nine years, his father and his three sons carrying on a large farm and there Harry took his first lessons in farming. The two eldest sons then began working for themselves, and his father moved with his family back to his farm at Deloit, where his widow and youngest daughter still reside. After Harry's marriage he lived a short time in Sac county, then moved on his father-in-law's, C. J. Cose, farm near Deloit and then he purchased a home in Deloit and lived a year or so, then back to the same farm, where he was still residing and working the farm and doing very nicely. On the day of his death he was helping his father-in-law cut wood.

At the time of the accident, Harry and Lucy Myers were getting the wood to the saw. Lucy stood next to the saw and Harry at the other end of the wood when the Aldrich chas curator broke and struck death nearly instantly. One can only imagine the grief of the bereft wife, whose husband left home in health and vigor for his work to be carried home lifeless. Her parents, C. J. Cose and wife, and sister, Myrtle, were at her home and rendered that aid that only a loving father, mother and sister can give. The deceased's widowed mother, Mrs. I. C. Dobson, and sister, Mrs. May Rudd, were in Deloit when the sad were present at the funeral, but Alma and Mattie, his sister, Mattie and little daughter were on their way, but arrived too late for the funeral.

The funeral was held Sunday forenoon at 11 o'clock at the L. D. S. church, Elder J. W. Wight of Lamoni, Iowa, preaching the discourse. The choir was composed of four male voices from Deloit, Seara McHenry, Dr. McConaughy, Ralph Casaday and Harry Carpenter. The pall bearers were his young men neighbors and associates from boyhood, Mearl and news reached them, and his sister, Eunice, was teaching the school near his home, the brothers and sisters, who are married and living elsewhere are Mrs. May Rudd of Dow City, Alma C. Dobson of Selby, S. D., Mrs. Pearl Nelson of Ronneby, Minn., Alfred H. Dobson, who just returned from the coast, and Mrs. P. M. he and Lucy Myers were getting the wood to the saw. Lucy stood next to the saw and Harry at the other end of the wood when the

This was one of the largest funerals ever held in Deloit. It is estimated that there were fully as many outside as were inside the church. Relatives and friends were at this time, as both the widow and the deceased husband had sent to those living at a distance. All

CARROLL OFFICER SLAIN BY ROBBER

MARSHAL HATTON SHOT AFTER RUNNING DOWN TWO MEN

BOTH WERE RECAPTURED LATER

Murdered Officer Pursued Men Who Had Raided
Two Homes in Carroll. Posse Lands
Slayer and Companion in Jail.

CARROLL, Ia., Nov. 2.—Shot in the back by one robber while in pursuit of another, City Marshal Patrick J. Hatton of this place fell mortally wounded on a public road seven miles east of here shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, dying a few minutes thereafter in the office of Dr. Deshler at Glidden.

As he fell Marshal Hatton fired one ineffectual shot at the fleeing robbers, both of whom were later captured and are now safely in the county jail here.

The streets were thronged with excited citizens when the prisoners were brought in shortly before noon, and though there had been many threats of lynching there was no menacing demonstration.

The prisoners, both young men, gave the names of Ernest Linquist and Oscar Larson. It was the former who shot and killed Marshal Hatton. It has not been learned where they are from.

The men made raids on two houses here about 9 o'clock last night.

At the residence of A. Bedford, which they entered first, they got nothing but a watch. Going from there to the home of C. A. Lyman, a traveling man, they secured three watches and a diamond ring. Here they were surprised by Mr. Lyman, who came home while they were still in the house.

Lyman was unarmed and they easily escaped through a window.

The alarm was quickly given and the men were tracked to the outskirts of town where the trail was lost. Marshal Hatton, with Frank Walsh as deputy, then secured a team and buggy and started in pursuit, getting away shortly after midnight. About 6 o'clock this morning they overtook the burglars on the road near Glidden, traveling on foot.

At the command of Marshal Hatton, Linquist halted, while Larson, his companion broke into a brisk run down the road.

Hatton started in pursuit, while Walsh covered the other robber with his revolver. Soon Hatton opened fire on the fleeing man, the explosions frightening the team so that Walsh was obliged to abandon the captured robber and turn his attention to the horses. Instantly Linquist with a lightning like motion turned and fired, the bullet entering the marshal's back. As the marshal fell he fired at his assailant, but without effect. Both robbers fled, while Walsh ran to the side of his dying chief. Lifting him into the buggy he hurried to Glidden where Dr. J. J. Deshler was aroused. The wounded man was carried into the doctor's office, where it was found that nothing could be done for him. He died 20 minutes later without regaining consciousness.

Meantime a posse headed by Marshal Hagaman of Glidden was gathered together and started in pursuit of the robbers, who were soon overtaken in a corn field.

The men tried to escape by running, but shots from Hagaman and several of the posse caused them to surrender. Linquist was shot in the back by a small calibre revolver, but his wound is not considered serious.

Officers from Carroll went to Glidden in an automobile and brought the prisoners to the county jail.

The body of the murdered marshal was brought home in an ambulance. Hatton had been marshal for about a year and was extremely popular, both as an officer and citizen. He was about 35 years old and leaves a wife and three children.

Thus far no one had been able to learn where the two prisoners came from. They are fairly well dressed and do not look like ordinary tramps or hardened criminals.

We learn that Mr. T. P. Black, formerly a prominent merchant and citizen of Dow City, died of heart failure at his home in Fort Dodge on Sunday. The Review has heard no particulars save that the death was totally unexpected and that it occurred in the same room where his brother died a similar death but a short time ago. Mr. Black was a good citizen, a warm friend, an upright man and many Crawford county people will join in expressions of sorrow over his untimely death.

POUNDED TO PIECES BY DRIVING ROD

MILWAUKEE ENGINEER FRIGHTFULLY
MANGLED NEAR CHARTER OAK

AT EIGHT O'CLOCK THIS MORNING

Driving Rod on First Mail Engine Breaks, Tears
Cab to Pieces and Kills John Smith of Sioux City the Engineer.

This morning about eight o'clock a frightful accident occurred on the fast mail train Number Five, on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, bound for Sioux City. The right driving rod of the engine broke, crashed through the floor of the cab and then thrashed, pounded and tore through iron and wood and human flesh and bones like a very fiend incarnate. The train was ten minutes late leaving Charter Oak and the accident occurred just this side of the Crawford-Monona county line. The speed was high and the train went a mile before it stopped. The driving rod had all the power of the high steam pressure behind it and we are informed that the body of John Smith, the faithful engineer, was pounded and torn and crushed in an indescribable manner. As the havoc was all on the engineer's side of the cab the fireman escaped without injury. This accident, the breaking of a driving rod, is the most dreaded by all engineers. There is no escape from the murderous blows, no warning, nothing but swift and awful death.

The remains were taken to Charter Oak as the accident was thought to have taken place in this county. Coroner Byrnes was unable to be present and the necessary legal inquest will be held tomorrow with I. A. Mains as acting coroner.

Engineer Smith lived at Sioux City. He leaves a wife and family, and his brother-in-law was a former chief of police of Sioux City.

Mrs. Maxwell entertained the Coff Club most delightfully on Thursday. The table decorations were in the new design and were very pretentious. Miss Clark assisted in serving a very nice supper.

Leslie Osborne was called to Harlan last week to attend a social event.
