MORE INTERURBAN TALK.

On Friday last Denison was visited by representatives of the company organized to construct what is known as the Sioux City Denison Interurban line.

The parties who were here were Mr. A. H. Tennis, president; Mr. W. L. Harding, secretary, and Mr. Walter H. Foss, the right of way man.

They drove from Sioux City across the country to Denison in a general way along the proposed route. They seem to be very much in earnest about the matter, and will probably go ahead with the work.

They found a proper amount of enthusiasm in favor of the scheme while in Denison and promised to return in the near future to hold a public meeting, at which full particulars will be given and permission afforded for full investigation of their plans and purposes.

We sincerely hope our people may at least give the matter thorough attention and investigation, and if the plan is feasible will lend their influence and aid toward the construction of the road.

Daughter—I don't know, papa. I'm not a lightning calculator.

An Utter Failure.

"That man couldn't make a success of anything."

"What makes you say that?"

"Why, he actually made a failure of a butcher shop."—Detroit Free Press.

Jew High in Catholic Church.

"Cardinal Kohn certainly sounds odd. Still, it may be reserved to the twentieth century to bring us such a novelty," says the American Israelite.

"Dr. Theodore Kohn, son of a full blooded Jew, was in 1893 elected arch bishop of the Austrian diocese of Olmuetz, one of the most prominent episcopal sees of Christendom, which had occasionally been occupied by members of the imperial family, and which for three hundred years had been reserved to members of the highest aristocracy.

In 1904 charges were filed against him in Rome, and, while the material was not sufficient to try him for malfeasance, Pius X. induced him to resign. The stipulations of this compromise were never made public, but it was understood that he would be given a cardinalate. There seems, however, to be a hitch somewhere, but the archbishop insists on the fulfillment of the promises made to him."

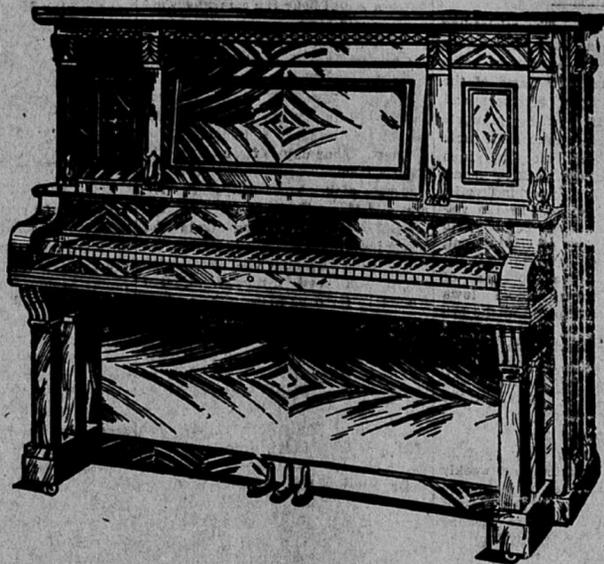

Fine Work.

"Note this exquisite Chinese carving!" said the man with a taste for oriental art. "Imagine the patience and digital dexterity it required."

"Yes," answered Mr. Bliggins. "I'll bet the man who did that could hook up his wife's dress without a murmur."
