IOWA STANDS BY TAFT.

The unofficial returns seem to show quite early that the Taft and administration forces have carried the state and will have at least 150 majority in convention. It was hard to believe that Iowa, so long a republican state, always standing by republican presidents, would at this time, without reason, reverse its record. The result is a great rebuke to Cummins, Dolliver and other Iowa insurgents, who have embarrassed, rather than aided, the president in his efforts to carry out the pledges of the national platform. No doubt some of the insurgents in Congress have secured amendments to a few bills which have strengthened them and made them better in a way, but they have done this in most cases in a spirit of animosity rather than in friendliness, which has tended to give campaign ammunition to the democrats and weaken the republican party.

Carroll is nominated by probably 5,000, not maintaining his lead of two years ago over Garst by about 25,000. A hard fight was made against him. The country vote was much lighter than usual, the progressives being strongest in the towns, and the John Cawnie affair no doubt lost Carroll thousands of votes, though we believe it will be found in the end that Governor Carroll was justified in all the charges he made against Cawnie and in calling for his resignation.

While Captain Hull was defeated by Prouty, insurgent, in the Seventh, the regular republicans have made up for this loss by the nomination of Tower in the Eighth, all other former regular and insurgent congressmen being renominated. The state, as before, if all nominees are elected, will send three regulars and eight insurgents to Congress.

That Judge Smith in the Ninth received a majority over Byers of about two thousand is cause for great rejoicing by his friends. Smith is a strong man. He is popular in congress, and if the house is republican the coming session, Smith in all probability will be elected speaker. He has won his spurs in this contest.

But what will the progressives do? Is now a leading question. Will they, as in the Sixth and Eighth, two years ago, support the democratic nominees and elect them, or stand by the decision of the republican vote as expressed at the primaries Tuesday. It is hard to believe that they will bolt to the extent of causing defeat, yet the course of Cummins and other insurgents during the present session, of bolting the will of the majority, is encouragement for them to swat all regular nominees. If they do not do this they are better republicans than their acknowledged leaders have shown themselves in congress. But every one should hope for the best.—Coon Rapids Enterprise.

ADVERTISING A PUBLIC SALE.

Advertising a public sale, as well as all other kinds of advertising, has undergone a great change in the last few years. Some years ago when a farmer wanted to have a public sale he had the printer print him from 100 to 300 bills, and then a week's time was consumed in posting the bills, riding all over the country, posting them in every place where a prospective buyer was likely to see them. Today it is different. The farmer goes to the printer and has 100 bills printed on cards, something good and substantial. Then he has a good advertisement put in the newspaper. The up to date farmer realizes that his time for several days is worth more than the cost of advertisement, and, besides, the advertisements in the newspaper go into the homes and are read at leisure, whereas the bills are sometimes glanced over as passed by. No farmer can post from 500 to 700 bills for the price the printer will charge him for a good sized advertisement. Farmers have realized the value of advertising in newspapers, and now when they have a public sale of any consequence you will find their advertisement in the local papers.—Exchange.

THE TRANS-CONTINENTAL ROAD

The executive committee of the new transcontinental road through Iowa, along the line of the Northwestern railway, has issued a bulletin relative to the manner of uniformly marking the road. Under these instructions Vice President Gilbertson of this county will put up 35 signboards along the route in Greene county, one for every corner and one for every mile of the distance.

THE OFFICIAL SIGN WILL READ: IOWA OFFICIAL TRANS-CONT. ROUTE.

This sign will be placed on board, size 8x24 inches, two-inch black letters on white background, with two-inch space at bottom of sign for arrow. One official sign to be placed at each section corner on post, whitewashed, not less than 12 feet high. Sign to be 8 feet from the ground. At every cross road, not on a section line, one white pole, without sign, will be placed.

At turn in road all fence posts or telephone poles on corners are to be whitewashed, and official sign is to be marked with an arrow to indicate the direction to be taken.

Commencing at Clinton each town is to place signs to next town west on marking more than one route to the route.

Each town may have the privilege of next town west. Each town is to sign in or through their town as they wish. Each town is to furnish speed limit signs and danger signals where needed.

If at any time sections of the road may be impassable by reason of wash-outs, repairs on bridges, or for any cause, the town chairman on each side of such section will display from a white pole at or near the postoffice a flag in the day time and a red light at night. This will be a warning to the tourist to stop and consult the bulletin which will be posted on the white pole, which will give information in regard to the condition of the road and directions as to the best way of continuing the trip.

County vice presidents and town chairmen will at once secure the permission of local telephone companies to use their poles for guide boards, and, without delay, arrange their route and whitewash posts.

Four hundred official sign boards are being finished for immediate delivery. Sign boards will be sent to the town chairman by M. J. Dannatt, vice president for Clinton county, by express or freight, upon remittance being received covering the amount of cost of signs at 15 cents each.

Sign boards reading, "Danger, Run Slow," will be furnished at the same price as the official sign.—Jefferson Bee.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Denison People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in this locality.

Mrs. J. D. Starring, Central & Elm Sts., Jefferson, Ia., says: "For years I was troubled by pains through my kidneys and back. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to my notice and I procured a supply. In two days after I began using them, I was relieved of the backache and soon the terrible burning sensation over my right kidney disappeared. Since then I have felt better in every way. STILL WAGS THE EARTH.

Kansas City Journal: Really, what a lot of worry and bother over nothing. Halley's comet has come and gone, and we are still here. This weird celestial visitor was not so unfriendly as many had anticipated. With a gentle fist of its impudent tail it spurned the weary old earth and left it rolling along in its path around the sun in apparently as good condition as before. The comet is now beyond the point where it could harm us, even if it wanted to, and there was no indication at any time that it entered other than the host of feeling toward us.

But it certainly was a rare experience. It is not recorded that the human family ever underwent just this experience before. Doubtless the earth has passed through comet's tails, but that must have been thousands of years ago. Thanks to the scientists, we were forewarned and were prepared for its harmless phenomena. The scientists, however, were divided as to what sort of heavenly manifestations might be expected. Some said there would be nothing, and others went to the extreme of saying that the earth would be enveloped with a luminous gas of such brilliancy as to blind all living things. It was even darkly hinted that the people of the earth would die holding their sides in shrieks of laughter because of the presence of laughing gas in the comet's tail.

It is a relief to know that Halley's comet, notwithstanding the harmlessness of its visit, is outward bound and that it will not return again during the lifetime of most of the people now on earth. Prate as we may about our confidence in astronomical science, its approach put a bit of a strain on the nerves. Had there been any one alive who had actually met a comet's tail and survived, it would have been reassuring. As it was, we had to take the scientists' word for it, and—well, science has been known to make mistakes. However, here we are, safe and sound, with a clear track ahead and no other comets to fear for some time to come. It is entirely proper that we should feel thankful that nothing direful happened to disturb the peace and serenity of this "sure and firm set earth."

AMES GRADUATES TO FARM.

Thirty-three Out of Thirty-eight Students Will Engage in Farming. Flattering Offers Refused.

Of the 38 animal husbandry graduates in the 1910 class at Ames, 33 will be farmers, 4 will enter college work and 1 agricultural paper work. Of the 38 men, 29 came from farms and 9 from the cities. Of the nine city men, all except one will engage in farming. The college has been asked to fill 16 positions to teach agriculture in high schools and secondary colleges at salaries from $1,000 to $1,200 per year, but could not induce any member of the class to consider such positions. The college has been asked to fill 12 college positions with salaries of from $1,000 to $2,000 per year and only 4 men cared for such work. During the past nine years more than 80 per cent of the graduates of the animal husbandry department of the Iowa State College have returned to the farms.

TEACH FARMING IN SCHOOLS

County Superintendents of Iowa Advocate a New Department for Schools of the State.

That the rural school teachers of Iowa may be more competent to teach the rudiments of agriculture, manual arts and domestic science in their schools, the county superintendents of the State will ask the Iowa State Teachers' College at Cedar Falls to introduce a rural teachers' course of study, together with a model rural school and training department.

At a recent conference of the county superintendents of Iowa a resolution was unanimously adopted, which favored the rural teachers' training school. According to the 85 county superintendents present, agriculture is being taught in the rural schools by teachers who have little or no knowledge of the subject. Because of the important relation of this subject to the rural communities, the county superintendents declared that it is imperative that the teacher be given normal school instruction that she might better impart her knowledge to the children of the rural district where only the theoretical side of the subject is needed in the school room. The rural school children are also entitled to instruction in the manual arts and domestic science, and for that reason a teacher should have those subjects included in her course of study at the state normal school.

Much of the work in agriculture in the rural schools has been conducted by the department of the Iowa State College of Agriculture at Ames. Because of the success of the work of this department, the county superintendents will ask the next general assembly to make a more liberal appropriation to this department of the college work. They will ask that two or more extension workers be placed in the field to have direct supervision of this work in the rural schools.

One of the measures to be asked of the coming legislature will be a rural normal school law. This law would provide for the establishment of county or district training schools with courses of study in the manual training arts, domestic science and elementary agriculture.

Because of the shortage of labor on the Iowa farms and the necessity of boys between the ages of 13 and 14 working on their father's farms during the busy farming season, the county superintendents favor a 4 months' compulsory school year for these boys. A modification of the present compulsory school educational law may be asked so as to permit boys of that age to leave school earlier than school children under the age of 12 years. The law makes it compulsory that children under 14 years of age remain in school continuously for 24 weeks. The county superintendents, for the reason that boys between the ages of 12 and 14 are needed to work on the farms. It is inconsistent to keep boys of that age in the school room and teach them the rudiments of agriculture, they argued, when they could be learning practical farming on their own farms during the busy season of the year.—Decorah Public Opinion.

G. AND N. W. DEPOT ROBBED.

Mike Carney broke into the depot Wednesday while Station Agent Grau was at dinner, and took what money was there, amounting to about $19. Officers and others were soon on his trail and he was overtaken in Dunlap and returned at once to Dow City. He confessed the crime and was bound over to the grand jury. In default of bail he was taken to the county jail.—Dow City Enterprise.
