Harvey Volkman, who has been teaching in the Taber schools the past five years, was in Denison this week on his way to Adel, Iowa, where he will teach the coming year. He had sent his family on by rail and was driving across the country for his health.

An Obedient Patient. When the chickens came home to roost they were astounded at finding an owl occupying the best perch in the house.

"You're in wrong, aren't you, son?" coldly remarked the leghorn rooster; "What brought you here, anyway?"

"Doctor's ad-vice," replied the owl, without ruffling a feather.

"Hurry up with the further particulars!" harshly commanded the rooster. "Keep your comb on, old chap!"

said the owl: "You see, the terribly late hours I've been keeping began to affect my health and the doctor ordered me to go to bed with the hens!"

Mr. Julius Sonsken and wife are preparing to move up in Wright county, where he has a large body of land.

He has sold his fine home on North Pine street to Dr. Kemp of the post-office force, who will move in about September 15th.

Dugan, vice-president, and M. L. Houllhan, cashier. This is a strong combination as all the officers are well known and reliable men. The new bank will open for business August 15th.

A very unique affair of last week was the bride breakfast given by Mrs. O. A. Patterson in honor of Mrs. Scriber's sister, Miss O'Connor, and Mrs. Conner's guests, Mrs. Briant and Mrs. Ashby. A cool west porch with ample room for five tables was an ideal place for it and at the close of the game a delicious breakfast was served by Mrs. Patterson, assisted by Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Kahler. Prizes were won by Mrs. Conner, Mrs. Ashby and Mrs. Evans.

Among the Sunday schools established this summer is one at the Coon Grove school house. On last Sunday the county secretary, Mr. Chas. K. Meyers, was at this school. There was a fine attendance of children and some of the parents. On Sunday afternoon, August 14th, R. Y. DePre, the county Sunday school president, will preach there. The service begins at 2:30. Other pastors will be invited to give a preaching service at Coon Grove this summer and fall. It is hoped the farmers living near will give Rev. DePre and others large audiences.
