Mrs. S. G. Wright and Mrs. John Woodruff Gave Two Delightful Parties Last Week.

F. H.'s ENTERTAINED AT DELOIT
Miss Kathryn Lally Given a Surprise on Her Eleventh Birthday P. E. O.'s Hold Meeting.

Mrs. John Woodruff and Mrs. S. G. Wright gave two delightful parties last week, at which time they entertained eighty guests. A very pleasing game was introduced, Miss Lillian Garrison capturing the prize on Wednesday and Mrs. J. B. Romans on Thursday, both being dainty pieces of hand-painted china and much prized by the lucky recipients. Very elegant refreshments were served on each occasion.

The F. H. club were royally entertained by Mrs. McKim at Deloit on Thursday. Aside from the usual pleasure of the meeting, Mrs. John Rower gave the ladies a very interesting account of her trip through the Yellowstone Park and presented each member with a pretty souvenir. It being the birthday anniversary of the hostess, the club presented her with a handsome spoon. The ladies returned to Denison on the evening train, voting this one of the pleasantest meetings of the year.

The young friends of Miss Kathryn Lally gave her a surprise party on the occasion of her eleventh birthday anniversary on Tuesday. The affair was a genuine success from every point of view. The hostess was the recipient of many pretty remembrances and good wishes from her guests.

The S. S. club met on Tuesday afternoon with Miss Emma Raine in charge of the menu, and Miss Minnie Mill, chairman of the program committee. A most excellent supper was provided, followed by a delightful musical program.

The P. E. O.'s held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. D. L. Boynton on Friday. A feature of the program was a most interesting travel talk by Mesdames Voss and Gulick. Light refreshments concluded the afternoon's pleasure.

The W. R. C. ladies furnished a pleasant afternoon Tuesday to all who attended their thimble bee at the home of Mrs. Hayes. An appetizing lunch and a general good time was the order of the day.

be made by Jacob Hauck, of Omaha, and Hon. Carl F. Kuehnie, of Denison. After the speeches the remainder of the afternoon will be devoted to sports for both old and young, and a large number of prizes will be awarded to winners.

In the evening there will be a beautiful display of fireworks at the park, followed by a large ball at the Bruederschaff hall.

The plans are to make this the greatest day in the history of the Germans of Crawford county, and no one can afford to miss coming to Denison October 6th.

ROOSEVELT BEATS TO A FRAZZLE

Defeats "Sunny Jim" Sherman for Temporary Chairman of the New York State Convention.

At the republican state convention of New York state, held at Saratoga yesterday, Theodore Roosevelt was chosen temporary chairman of the republican state convention over Vice-President Sherman, after a bitter struggle on the floor of the convention. There were 1012 votes cast, of which Roosevelt received 567 and Sherman 445, three not voting, giving Roosevelt a majority of 122 for the temporary chairmanship.

When the announcement was made that Roosevelt was duly elected temporary chairman, a stupendous uproar went up from the floor of the convention. Vice-President Sherman and State Supt. of Prisons C. D. Collins, escorted Colonel Roosevelt to the chair. Vice-President Sherman introduced Col. Roosevelt, saying briefly: "Gentlemen, your selection for temporary chairman, Col. Roosevelt."

Death of H. M. Hanchett.

H. M. Hanchett died at his home in Charter Oak on Thursday, Sept. 15th, after an illness of ten days. Paralysis was the cause of his death and the stroke was so severe that he remained unconscious until just before his death. An old friend, Joseph Moore, spoke to him and shook hands with him, but before his daughter could reach his side he had lost consciousness again. Henry Martin Hanchett was born Aug. 4, 1834, in Courtland county N. Y. In 1856 he moved to DeKalb, Ill., with his parents. In 1861 he moved to Iowa and was married shortly after his arrival to Hannah Parmentier. Mr. Hanchett was an old soldier, having enlisted in 1862 in company D, of the 21st Regiment of the Ia. Vol. Infantry. After three years of service for his country he received his honorable discharge at Baton Rouge, La., July 15, 1865. He was a member of the Gen. Shields G. A. R. Post at Dunlap, where he had lived before he moved to Charter Oak. Mr. Hanchett is survived by his wife and two children, Mrs. Cora Dustin, of Dunlap, and Arthur Hanchett, who is well known to the Charter Oak people. ## DOW CITY WINS TWO GAMES.

Dow City Boys Win Two Games From Hopkins Bros. Bloomers—Both Were Good Games.

According to schedule, the Hopkins Brothers Bloomers were here Tuesday afternoon to cross bats with the Dow City nine. The game in the afternoon was very interesting and closely contested by both sides. The Bloomers had five lady players who did exceptionally good work. Paul, of Denison, pitched for Dow City and Freed was catcher. Dow City won the afternoon game, the score being as follows by innings:

Bloomers ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

Hits: Dow City 4; Bloomers 4.
Struck out: By Paul, 1.

The last inning Dow City did not go to bat. The playing was clean and straight from start to finish.

The evening game was by electric light and was a very interesting game and furnished amusement for a good crowd, but this game was more in the form of a farce. As in the afternoon, Dow City won the evening game, the score being 7 to 6. Hopkins Brothers team was all right and should they ever return to Dow City will meet with a hearty welcome.—Dow City Correspondent.

COURT ADJOURNS THIS WEEK.

ment and the amount of property subject to taxation.

The case of S. S. Rogers against Crawford county was called for trial before a jury on Tuesday afternoon, and the jury was selected, impaneled and sworn this forenoon to try the case. It is a case in which the amount of damages which Mr. Rogers' farm will sustain by reason of the construction of the Boyer river from Arion to Dunlap is involved. The board allowed as damages $1500, and Mr. Rogers, not being satisfied with it, appealed to the district court, where the trial will settle the amount he should receive.

The case of Rudd versus Dewey, tried here several times and appealed to the supreme court and reversed, was settled, the parties having agreed upon an amount satisfactory to both parties. The case was dismissed by the court at the cost of the plaintiff, in pursuance of the agreement by the parties.

The case of Wendt versus Voss and others, which is a suit to set aside the probate of a will made by Henrietta Rath, was continued on account of the sickness of the defendant. The case was specially assigned as the second jury case for next term, when it is expected it will be finally disposed of.

There are several other cases on the calendar for trial, but few of which can be tried at this term. A great deal of business has been dispatched by the court since it first convened.

SOMEWHAT WARM

Got So Hot the Major Registered a Kick

"Talk about heat," said Abner Byng, as we sat upon the porch of Jones' country store trying to keep cool, "this is nothing at all to what I've seen; it's coolness, absolute frigidity. Why, when I lived out in the Cannibal islands, back here in 1878, if the people would see the thermometer fall to 100 degrees in the shade they'd get out their skates and begin to consider the probability of an ice crop."

"How high did it used to get?" asked Major Potts.

"Generally up to four or five hundred in the shade. They never did any cooking with fires out there. Always baked their bread in the sun. Lay a steak on the window sill, and it would be done on one side before you could stick a fork into it to turn it over. The water was hot, too. People never thought of trying to get cold water to drink. Put a leg of mutton down a well and it'd come up boiled, and you could pump mutton soup out of the well for two or three days. The first time I went to swim in the ocean out there I didn't know about it, and I was nearly scalded to death."

"In the ocean?"

"Yes, sir; in the Pacific ocean. Why, a dog in that country couldn't put down four legs at a time. He would go on three legs so's to give the other one a chance to cool. It was a common thing for horses to get their shoes red-hot, and one summer I remember the pavement got so warm that several horses and their legs burned off clean up to the knee."

"Did they have no cool weather at all?"

"O, yes, of course, that was in the rainy season. Then it would get very cold sometimes, and this caused a curious phenomenon. The island I lived on was about eight miles long in winter time, but the heat of summer was so intense that it would expand the island to the extent of about four miles, and so she'd go on expanding and contracting from year to year in the most extraordinary manner. I know just after I went there I bought a piece of 12 acres of a man. It was summer time and I paid him so much an acre. When the cool weather came I found that it wasn't more than half the size it ought to be, and the trees were crowded up together so close that you couldn't walk through them. Took advantage of me, the man did. I ought to have bought in the winter."

"Was it a prolific soil?"

"Well, yes, when the season was good. In real hot weather, things were slow in growing. But ordinarily my corn would be between 300 and 400 feet high, and the stalks from six to nine feet in diameter at the base. We cut it with axes. The ears were generally about the size of a large lobster. There was a man over on one of the islands, named Smith, who used to raise one turnip a year, and that was enough, because a single turnip would cover three-quarters of an acre. But one good growing season Smith's turnip grew so fearfully that it covered the entire island, and Smith had to move off and go up on the side of a volcano back of his place, however, the turnip would grow, couldn't be stopped, you know; and it did grow until finally it got so heavy that it sunk the island."

"Did what?"

"Sunk the entire island, and that you know, let the ocean into the volcano. This generated steam so fast that the whole thing exploded, and Smith was blown 63 miles out to sea and picked up, discouraged, by a San Francisco ship. He told a friend of mine that that was the last turnip he would ever raise."

"Yes, sir, it was hot in these regions. Let a man in good health step out of doors in the middle of the day and he's come back all black and wrinkly, exactly like dried beef. I've known men who cured themselves that way so that with a couple of days in a smokehouse they'd keep for 200 years, alive and good as ever."

"Alive?"

"Yes, alive. And evaporation was so great that I've seen the ocean fall 150 feet under a hot sun until you could wade 20 miles from land."

"Did you ever do it?" asked the major.

"Often. I've waded 40 miles out."

"I thought you said the water was boiling hot."

"Boiling hot? Well, I believe I—O, yes, of course, boiling hot sometimes, but—but, of course, I wore my boots. No, sir—if any man catches me telling a lie I give him leave to kick me on the spot."

Then up rose the major, and, elevating the toe of his boot, he applied it to the rear elevation of Abner, and sent him whizzing out into the street.

French Police Dogs.

The Paris police dogs are constantly demonstrating their great use. Their latest achievement is the capture of an ex-convict who was leaving a house in the Rue de la Chapelle. He struck a passing policeman, the blow being so well aimed that the man fell. Rising, he pursued the fugitive and kept him in sight. Two other policemen, accompanied by their dog, saw the fugitive—a fleet runner. The dog was sent after the suspect, and overtook him. A desperate struggle followed, and the dog released his grip, but only to take another more effectively. He seized the man by the throat, threw him to the ground, and kept him until the police took charge of the recidivist.

He Wasn't to Blame.

"Tommy," said the teacher, "you know very well you have no good excuse for staying away from school yesterday."

"I know it, teacher," replied the little fellow. "But it wasn't my fault."

"Are you sure it wasn't?" queried the teacher.

"Yes, ma'am," answered Tommy. "I tried my best to think up a good excuse, but I just couldn't."
