

DENISON WHITEWASHED.

Correctionville High Wins Game by a Score of 13 to 0.

The Denison high school football team met defeat on last Saturday at Correctionville, Iowa, where they played the Correctionville high school, the score being 13 to 0.

Carey, who plays right half back in the Denison team, was hurt in the early part of the game and Jones was called upon to fill his place.

This is the second game of the season for the Denison team and we understand that their failure to win this game was due to lack of confidence.

The lineup Saturday was as follows: Correctionville Position Denison Thomson L. E. Jones, Baker Hinkhouse L. T. Nielson Sandven L. G. Wygant Barron C. Cochran Conklin R. G. W. Brodersen McCormick R. T. T. Brodersen Peck R. E. Schlumberger Davis L. Q. Saul Cutchall L. H. Temple Thom R. H. Carey, Jones Wilkins F. B. Helsley

Pierce, one of the best sculptors in America, will carve an exact reproduction of Bartholdi's "Statue of Liberty," from an immense cake of soap weighing 500 pounds. He will also arrange a display showing the New York harbor, Brooklyn bridge and all. During the entire "Hot Coffee week" 50c worth of pure Castile soap will be sold for 25c; never such a bargain offered before in Crawford county. Watch for the Statue of Liberty.

SENATOR J. P. DOLLIVER

What! Is he dead, whose voice an hour ago held senates listening to his mighty strain, Whose speech like sea waves sounded to and fro, And hearts grew glad to hear the deep refrain?

Will we no more the genial face behold, The strong form see, nor grasp the kindly hand, Nor hear again his laughter as of old, Nor see his like again in all the land?

On stormiest seas his ship he proudly steered, By rock and isles where but the bravest win, Why should he die just as the land was neared, Just as the ship was proudly sailing in?

Who had not seen him when the hour was great Touch human hearts to wonder and to thrill! O, princely eloquence, is this thy fate, One little day, and then forever still?

Fame stood beside him with her crown of gold, Such as earth's noblest to her noblest bear— Death saw the prize and snatched it from her hold, Yet left the laurels like a halo there.

Death must have grieved to shut the door on him, To leave us waiting for the curtain's rise, Such use for men there is when day is dim, And stars forget to lighten up the skies.

He had his foes, who not, at such a height? Yet this he said, he feared not one nor all, With naked sword he stood amidst the fight, They found him dying close beside the wall.

When autumn leaves before his open door Fell in soft music from the trembling limb, It was like murmurings by the sweet seashore, He did not dream it was a dirge for him.

For to the last his soul was all ached And smiles beguiled the quickly fading breath, Nor any thought what might be hovering near, He only died and never knew 'twas death.

Farewell, farewell! upon some other shore Where all is fair and beautiful about, May we not meet where death can be no more, Where suns ne'er set, nor any stars go out?

S. H. M. Byers.

SOCIAL NOTES.

A number of hallow'en parties are being planned, which will no doubt be greatly enjoyed by the younger set. Mrs. Theo. Walker entertained the F. H. club. There was a large attendance of the members and several guests were also present. The ladies were all delighted to have Mrs. Brodersen with them again after her long absence in Europe. A most delicious supper was served at six o'clock.

Mrs. J. H. Mahoney was hostess to a large company on Wednesday in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Carson, of Des Moines. Bridge was the order of the afternoon and five tables were surrounded for the fascinating game. Mrs. Kuehnle received the high score prize, a beautiful brass jardiniere. Mrs. Johnson assisted her sister in serving dainty refreshments at the close of the game.

P. E. O. meeting was held with Mrs. F. H. Morgan on Friday. The committee in charge served light refreshments at the close of the chapter meeting.

Penelope members are to have an extra meeting this week Thursday. Mrs. Gulick having invited them to luncheon on that date, thus giving them an opportunity of meeting and visiting with her sister, Mrs. Shaw.

Mrs. Voss presided over a beautiful five-course luncheon on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Hopkins, of Pasadena. Garden flowers in graceful profusion were used in decoration. It was a gathering of the nobility, judging from the place cards, which bore the names of queens, countesses, duchesses, princesses, etc. The favors were dainty little easels bearing a portrait and which the hostess brought with her from Switzerland. It goes without saying that this was a "royal" affair.

Coterie had one of its jollies, meetings with Mrs. Gebert on Thursday. The afternoon was spent with fancy work and concluded with a splendid supper.

One of the most elaborate functions of the week was the luncheon given Thursday by Mrs. Carl F. Kuehnle complimentary to Mrs. Una Hopkins. The dining room was most beautiful in its decorations of pink and green. The polished table with its dainty doilies and pink shaded cardies had for its centerpiece a large bouquet of pink rosebuds. The place cards were done in water colors and the favors were dainty little bon-bon baskets containing creme-de-mints. Luncheon was served in six courses, covers being laid for fifteen guests.

Mrs. L. Cornwell entertained at dinner at Hotel Denison on Thursday in honor of Mrs. S. M. Martin, who is spending a few weeks with her many Denison friends. The table decorations were white carnations, the same flower being used as favors. After dinner the company adjourned to Mrs. Cornwell's home, where they spent an enjoyable afternoon visiting with the guest of honor.

The S. S. club had an especially pleasant meeting at the club rooms on Tuesday evening with Miss Kate Schumaker in charge of the menu and Miss Susie Craft in charge of the program. Klatter Klub met with Miss Kate Silletto on Tuesday evening. An excellent two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, and a most enjoyable evening is reported.

Mr. Eugene Miller, of Copenhagen, Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Miller, of Fayette, Iowa, are in Denison for a visit at the Fink home. The Messrs. Miller are sons of Mrs. Fink and have not seen each other for thirty years. It is a glad time for Mrs. Fink as she has not seen them together to thirty-five years.

POLAND CHINA BOARS for sale. Of large type, February and March farrow. W. A. McHenry. 38-41

Wedding Bells.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place on Tuesday morning, October 25th, at the St. Rose of Lima church in this city, when Miss Lillian Greves became the bride of Mr. William Garrity, of Mitchell, S. D. The Rev. Father Farrelly pronounced the impressive rite ceremony. The bride was attired in a beautiful paquin gown of white satin trimmed with Persian net and wore a picture hat. The groom was attired in the conventional black broadcloth. After the ceremony the bridal party gathered at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Greves, on East Walnut street, where a four-course wedding breakfast was served. The happy couple left on the morning train for a wedding tour through the Black Hills and Denver. They will make their home at Mitchell, S. D., after December 1st. The Review joins with their many friends in heartiest congratulations.

Nearly all of the democratic papers over the district in speaking of E. L. Crow and his atness for the state senate lay considerable stress on his being a good mixer and a successful farmer. It is nice to be a good mixer and quite important to be a successful farmer, but these two ingredients alone do not make good senatorial timber—not necessarily. The other fellow, Kuehnle, has these and a few other qualifications—these except that he is a successful business man instead of a successful farmer. Kuehnle has a university education, is skilled in the art of oratory and debate, has good sound judgment, and other qualifications which legislative men ought to have. And Kuehnle is a good "mixer," too.—Woodbine Twiner.

SCHLESWIG ITEMS.

Mike Collins, of Denison, was in town Sunday greeting political friends. Agatha Brommer closed a successful term of school at the 19-mile house school Friday. She returned to her home in Denison that evening.

The box social at the Hy Naeve school had a fine crowd Friday evening. The program was well rendered, which showed the work of the school as well as that of their teacher. The room was decorated with gourds, pumpkins, mangos, jack-o-lanterns, pictures and kindergarten work. A neat sum of money was received from the boxes which will be used for the school. A good time was enjoyed by all.
