DEATH OF MRS. DORA LOUIS.

Mother of Mrs. F. W. Meyers Suddenly Stricken at Her home in Iowa City.

On Thursday afternoon, April 27th, Mrs. F. W. Meyers received the sad intelligence of the death of her mother, Mrs. Dora Louis, at Iowa City. Although for several years an invalid, Mrs. Louis appeared in better health than usual on the day of her death, attending to household duties, visiting with friends and appearing in excellent spirits. During the afternoon she was suddenly taken with an attack of acute indigestion, which was followed by heart failure.

Mrs. Louis was born in Soest, Bavaria, and was seventy-five years of age. She came to America in her youth and was a resident of Iowa City for sixty-eight years. Six children, all of whom were present at the funeral services, survive her, they being: Frank J. and Henry E., of Iowa City; William, of Winfield, Kans.; Mrs. A. VanWagener, Sioux City; Ede T. Louis, of Iowa City, and Mrs. F. W. Meyers, of Denison. Funeral services were held at St. Mary's Catholic church, Iowa City, Rev. Father Schulte officiating, the obsequies being attended by a large number of old friends and pioneer citizens. JUNIOR CLASS RECEPTION HELD

Given in Honor of the Senior Class at the Carnegie Club Rooms on Friday Night.

The junior class reception for the seniors was held in the library club room Friday, April 28, 1911. The room was very prettily decorated in the senior colors, crimson, white and emerald green. Refreshments were served at small tables, including one large one for the faculty and in the center of each table a May pole supported the ribbons which were run to the favors at each plate. The color scheme was carried out in the menu, which was prepared by Mrs. Silletto, and the games and entertainment of the evening were characteristic of May day. Each guest was presented with an American Beauty rose, the class flower. The evening passed all too quickly, and at a late hour the guests departed, voting the juniors to be royal entertainers.

Keating-Fitzpatrick.

Miss Nora Fitzpatrick was married to Mr. James Keating Tuesday, May 2, 1911, at St. Rose of Lima church, Rev. Father Farrelly officiating and celebrating the nuptial mass. The bride, charmingly gowned in old rose silk with picture hat and carrying a bouquet of bride's roses, was attended by Miss Margaret Brown, who wore pale blue silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride's brother, Maurice Fitzpatrick, was best man. The wedding party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, rendered by Miss Margaret Houlihan. During the services Eugene Owens sang "O Promise Me."

The bride came from Ireland when a child and has since made her home with her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Bauman. The good wishes of her many friends were showered upon her. Mr. Keating is one of Paradise township's most prosperous farmers. He is a man of sterling worth. His devotion to his invalid mother for several years has been most tender. He is well worth the charming and capable lady he has chosen.

A sumptuous wedding breakfast at 11:30 and a very informal reception was tendered the bride and groom by Mrs. Bauman at her home, west of town. Mr. and Mrs. Keating received many handsome gifts, that attest the esteem in which they are held. The groom's present to the bride was a beautiful diamond brooch. The happy couple left on the evening train for Denver and other western points, and will be at home to their friends after May 20th.

A BUSHEL OF WOLVES.

James Finneran Brings Seven Young Wolves to Denison—Caught in His Pasture.

The wolves are not all dead yet. This morning James Finneran, who lives just north of town, captured seven young ones that were nicely housed in a good sized wolf hole out in his pasture. One of the little fellows was dead, but the rest were lively as kittens and about as cute. Even in their infancy they show signs of savageness when approached in too rough a manner. Mr. Finneran took them out home again, hoping to capture the mother with the aid of the young ones.

The Mistake.

In his biography of Alexandre Dumas Harry A. Spurr says that the improvident French author, who hated avarice, was once waiting in line for his cloak at a saloon when he saw a millionaire give a tip of 50 centimes (10 cents) to the servant who handed out his paleot. Dumas, getting his cloak, threw down a 100 franc note. "Pardon, sir; you have made a mistake, I think," said the man, offering to return the note. "No, no, friend," answered Dumas, casting a disdainful glance at the millionaire; "it is the other gentleman who has made the mistake."

Shakespeare in France.

I once stumbled upon a choice bit of French quotation from Shakespeare. It was a tale by Uchard. The distinguished author of this tale rendered "Fragilité, thy name is woman," by "Fragilité, c'est le nom d'une femme" ("Fragility, that is the name of a woman").—Strauss.
