Oct. 1st.—The Prophet, Ezekiel, a Watchman, Ezek. 3.

The lesson this week calls to our attention one of the great prophets of the Old Testament time—Ezekiel. He lived in the days when the Jews were in captivity at Babylon. As in the case of the prophet Jeremiah, his message did not fall on ears ready to listen and appreciate. That the Jews would not like him and his message was felt in advance, and so the Lord gave him directions which would comfort and sustain him in his trials.

A reading of what God told Ezekiel throws light on one of the great problems which the Christian people have to go with today. It is one of the reproaches which non-Christians put on Christian believers, that they are not in earnest. Christians claim to believe that only those who believe in Christ as a personal Savior can have blessed, eternal life, and that also the opposite is true, that all who do not so believe will be eternally punished, or at least will not have a happy existence after physical death. The question now comes, why are not Christian people ever active in personal work, in warning their sons, daughters, friends of their terrible situation if they persist in unbelief and defiance of God's commandments?

Ezekiel was told that if any came to destruction by reason of his failure to tell them the truth, their blood would be on him. The eighteenth verse gives this matter very plainly. It states that God has said that the wicked shall surely die. Ezekiel knew this and is told that he must not fail to give warning. He is likened to a "watchman," whose duty it is to make an outcry if any evil thing is about to befall the people. He is told, "If you do not warn the wicked from his wicked ways to save his life, the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity, but his blood will I require at thine hand." It is further added that if a wicked one is told of his danger and persists in sin, although he may die, Ezekiel will be blameless.

This statement from God is most important. You and I are spoken to as well as Ezekiel. We are to be held to accountability if we refuse to do our duty in telling our associates as to their relation to God. We are warned of the sin of omission to act, and further told that to save a man from death will entitle us to great reward. This is taught in the twenty-first verse of the lesson.

It will be remembered that the great apostle, Paul, warns us not to put a stumbling block in the way of our brother, which shall cause him to sin and lose his promise or chance of blessed, eternal life. It will be found that this "placing a stumbling block" is mentioned in the Old Testament scripture which we are considering today. The twentieth verse is a terrible one, in its showing that if one is righteous and good and then falls away to evil, his punishment will be severe and the first good will not help the case. If this falling away is caused by the neglect of the preacher or teacher, the sin will be visited on the one who does not do his or her duty.

The lesson thus calls for active work on the part of the professing Christians. Responsibility on them is great. Men and women are drifting away on every side from right paths and they must be warned or their loss of heaven will be charged to us if we lift no hand to save them. It is to be hoped that the study of this lesson will be the source of arousing Christians to their full responsibility to be a watchman and warn people of danger if they are choosing to live in defiance of God's commandments.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.
