A peculiar accident occurred last Sunday evening when two young men who had been visiting at the former Koenekamp farm, 3 miles west of town, started on their return trip. Driving down a steep hill to reach the main road, the horse bolted and the driver was unable to hold the animal in check. He dashed through the railroad fence and out onto the railroad track. There he turned and started directly up the track toward Dow City. The buggy was soon overturned and the occupants thrown to the ground. The horse ran on, crossing bridges and keeping on the track.

Mrs. J. R. Griffin, a neighbor, taking in the situation and believing that the horse would fall through some bridge in crossing, flagged a passing flyer by using her petticoat as a flag. She realized full well that a train going at a high rate of speed would undoubtedly be wrecked by striking such an object. She was profusely thanked by the trainmen for her foresight, after which they ran slowly into Dow City. But the horse had kept ahead and reached town first, where it was caught. One can hardly understand how the animal could have crossed so many bridges and not have fallen through any of them. The two men were badly bruised and one was considerably cut about the face and neck, but they consider they came through the accident pretty lucky. The buggy was badly wrecked.

The interior of the J. R. Best hardware has been rather upset for a week or more owing to the fact that Mr. Best had all the old shelves removed and display cabinets, etc. put in their place. These very much improved the looks of the store and added greatly to the convenience. The Anderson Drug store is being repainted and fixed up like new and everything fairly shines therein. The spirit moves.

The contract for the construction of the electric light plant was let on Monday night to the Fairbanks Morse company. The council had studied long and hard on the proposition and to learn a little more yet they journeyed to Millard and Valley, Neb., last week to inspect the plants at those places. One night last week they drove to Dunlap to see that plant in operation. There is no doubt but that the council has worked for the best interests of the town and we predict that when the plant begins operation the patrons here will not be slow to let the council know of their satisfaction.

To do a good trade wants nothing but appreciation; to do a large one, nothing but application.

All men, especially printers, appreciate that which they acquire with difficulty and retain it the longest.

I don't think much of a man who is not wiser today than he was yesterday.—Abraham Lincoln.

Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it is dear at any price if you have no use for it.

The knowledge of business principles is the qualification today that distinguishes the successful man from the ordinary one.

Time is the measure of success, as money is of wares; and business is bought at a dear hand where there is small dispatch.

He who receives a good turn should never forget it; he who does one should never remember it.
