SUPERINTENDENT FELLOWS RESIGNS

"He has had 17 years of practical experience in school work, five as a teacher, both in grade schools and in high school and 12 years as superintendent. For the last eight years he has been at Denison, where he has succeeded in raising the schools to a position where they are acknowledged by the leading educators of the state to be among the finest.

"Mr. Fellows is 38 years of age and has a wife and two children. He is a man of extremely pleasing personality and excellent bearing. The committee unanimously voted to elect Mr. Fellows for the coming year at a salary of $2300, to take office August 1st.

"In presenting their choice for the approval of the citizens of the town the committee express the feeling that they have chosen a man well qualified to lead in the work of raising the standard of the schools to an even higher level than has been maintained in the past and would bespeak for Mr. Fellows the heartiest co-operation and sympathy of all those who have the best interests of the schools at heart.

"Mr. Fellows has for the past four days been in Framingham, during which interval he has been accorded an opportunity to make a preliminary survey of the field and note the conditions with which he will be greeted when he assumes the duties of his new office scarcely more than six weeks hence.

"Mr. Fellows left Framingham today to return to his home in Denison, where he will immediately begin preparations to take up his residence in the east.

"Although he has never lived in the east, Mr. Fellows has been to Massachusetts before in connection with his work as an educator.

"Today, however, he expressed himself as favorably impressed with Massachusetts and with Framingham. He is desirous of locating in the east, especially in view of the fact that both he and Mrs. Fellows wish to have their two children secure their college education in this part of the country.

"When seen this morning Mr. Fellows was deeply gratified over his election as superintendent of schools in Framingham, and especially so because of his selection from among so large a number of applicants."

The entire community regret very much the move that Prof. E. W. Fellows is making, as his long residence here has endeared himself and family to all with whom they have come in contact. The review wishes this field and we trust that he, together with his family, will frequently return to Denison for a visit with their numerous friends.

Prof. C. E. Humphrey is Elected.

The members of the Denison school board held a special meeting at Sec. W. C. Rollins' office last Saturday morning for the purpose of filling the vacancy caused by the late resignation of Prof. E. W. Fellows. It was unanimously decided to place C. E. Humphrey at the head of the Denison schools for the coming year.

Professor Humphrey has been principal of the high school since 1905, with the exception of one year, 1910, when he attended the State University of Iowa. During his long tenure of office he has become familiar with the conditions at this place and no better selection could have been made by the board than the selection of Professor Humphrey. He is a young man who has devoted much time to school work and is especially well liked, both by parents and scholars. He has always taken great interest in the athletic sports of the high school and in this way has endeared himself to the students. This year, through his efforts, the boys were taken down to Iowa City to enter the state meet. Professor Humphrey has always been active in church affairs, being a member of the M. E. church choir.

We feel confident that the high standard of the Denison schools will be maintained under the supervision of Supt. Charles E. Humphrey.

JEWELRY STORE GETS SWINDLED

afternoon at about 5:30, which would indicate that he had evidently gone to Council Bluffs on the afternoon train, probably catching the same at Arion.

While in Denison Brook also visited Mr. Barborka's jewelry store and had decided upon purchasing a diamond there and asked Mr. Barborka for a blank check. Mr. Barborka informed Brook that he had no blank checks, but that he would go with him to the bank and get the money. This Brook refused to do and left the store, saying he would go himself to the bank and bring the money for the ring, but he failed to return for his purchase. He also visited the two garages and tried to make arrangements to secure a machine to drive him to another town. He was unable, however, to make the necessary arrangements and it is not known in just what manner he left the city.

The fellow's game was a smooth one and was easily worked. Whether Mr. Chamberlin will be able to recover the ring from the pawn brokers with whom it has undoubtedly been left, remains to be seen.

they soon became known for their thriftiness, and their home became one of the most hospitable ones of the county. While laying the foundation for comfort in old age, they underwent the trials and hardships of the pioneer, but with a cheerfulness for which the sturdy Germans are so favored, and Mrs. Tamm lived to see her boys grow to manhood and become through her teachings, endowed with strong traits of character, thriftiness and ability to gain for themselves a sufficiency of this world's goods.

Henry Tamm, the husband, died April 1, 1885, and was buried in beautiful Nissen cemetery. After the death of her husband Mrs. Tamm continued to reside on the home place until 1887, when she was married to Mr. August Horsemann and went to Ida Grove, where she has since resided.

The funeral was held Tuesday forenoon at 10 o'clock at the old home, Rev. Wetzler, pastor of the German Lutheran church, of which Mrs. Horsemann had long been a member, officiating. The casket was placed among the beautiful shade trees Mrs. Horsemann had herself planted and reared to hardiness, and here the services were conducted, attended by a large number of friends and relatives. Interment was made in Nissen cemetery in the family plot where lies the body of her first husband and those of her parents.

The relatives from a distance attending the funeral were the sister, Mrs. Jungjohan and son, of Clinton; Mrs. Will Rhode, of Mapleton, and a niece, Mrs. Hoyt, of Council Bluffs. Aside from those mentioned there are the husband and three granddaughters and one grandson left to mourn her death.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all the friends who so generously aided us during the death and burial of our loving wife and mother: Mr. August Horsemann, John H. Tamm, Edward Tamm, Charles Tamm.

Sunday School Notes
Side Lights on Next Sunday's Lesson for Teachers and Pupils.
Edited by Charles K. Meyers

June 22—The Blinding Effects of Sin. (Temperance Lesson). Amos 6, 1-8.

The portion of the bible on which rests the remarks for this quarter on the subject of intemperance are found in the old prophecy of Amos. There fore the verses on first reading them seem blind, and there must be some study to get from them the full meaning. We will do the best we can to help out teachers and scholars along this line.

Amos wrote some 787 years before the birth of Christ. It was his duty to arouse the people from ways which were sinful to realize their terrible condition and make peace with God for wrong doings. In the first verse he calls out predicting "woe to those who are at ease in Zion and in Samaria." It is now understood that Zion has reference to the kingdom about Jerusalem, and Samaria to the portion of the country known as the northern kingdom. So there is a sweeping call to the entire country occupied by the Jews.

The prophet then goes on to call attention, to well known at that time, surrounding cities and countries. Calneh, Hamath, Gath. It was matter of current history that these proud places had come to ruin, and the prophet says if these fell in all their strength, so will the strongholds of the Jews.

Amos then gives further particulars. He cries out, "You put off the evil day; you lie in fine beds in animal enjoyment; you eat the best of foods; you chant or sing to the choicest music; you drink wine from huge bowls; you anoint yourselves with sweet smelling perfumes; you grieve not for the troubles of Joseph (that portion of the land which fell to the heritage of the sons of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh) because of all this captivity and humiliation shall come upon both portions of the land controlled by the Jews. History bears out what Amos said for Samaria was taken en captive in 721 and Jerusalem in 587 before Christ. The last verse declares that God hates "the palaces of Jacob," meaning the great homes of luxury in Jerusalem.

The warning of Amos comes with all force to all in our day who "put off the evil day" and give themselves over to strong drink, selfish pleasures, giving the laugh to those who would warn them of a judgment to come. Many think themselves so strong that they cannot be overthrown in health, soul, finances, no matter what they may do. They admit that others have fallen, but they will not be that weak. Therein the danger lies. The words of Amos also come as a warning to the over rich who care not for the sweat and labor of their fellows who have made life so easy for the receiver of the benefits of the toil. There will be a crying out on behalf of laborers defrauded or paid wages by far below what the labor is producing. Very many believe that the parable of the rich man and the poor man of the New Testament is not a story, but the actual manner in which the rich who have abused the poor will be treated.

The evils of the saloon, the curse of drink are acknowledged on every hand. Those advocating saloons want "well regulated" ones, being able to tell the bad things connected with liquor traffic just as well as the most rampant enemy of the dram shops. Men who drink do not have the best show when it comes to getting work, and in fact many great firms will not have even a moderate drinker about the place of business. President Wilson, Bryan, Vice-President Marshall and from them down in the political scale, all denounce liquor drinking. Pastors, teachers, the best men of our nation all recommend total abstinence. The doctors say it tears down instead of helping the system. From a helpful point of view liquor has no place in our system.

The best Christians of the world do not drink intoxicating liquors. The brain affected with alcohol cannot be kindly, forgiving, loving, thinking no evil, ready to sacrifice for others. I am most thankful that along temperance lines the world is decidedly better. The man who is known as a total abstainer is the most honored in the hearts of the community. The advances which women are making in receiving the right to vote is bound to be helpful to the temperance cause. In our beloved Iowa the restrictions are growing stronger all the time in the saloons.

Let the Sunday school forces make a united move next Sunday on the accursed liquor traffic. Let the children be warned now and be urged to sign the pledge. Delays are dangerous. The boy or girl may slip away at a time when the parents think not of. One cannot be too earnest in upholding the cause of total abstinence in the world.
