DENTAL OFFICES ROBBED.

Expert Thief Secures Nearly $400.00 Worth of Gold at Cedar Rapids—Similar to Robbery Here.

Five dental offices were robbed in Cedar Rapids one night last week and about $400 worth of gold filling and teeth were secured. The manner in which the thief made entrance to the five dental parlors was similar to that of the party who robbed the dental office of Dr. R. O. McConaughy in Denison two years ago.

For the past two years a number of robberies have been perpetrated in towns along the main line of the Northwestern through Iowa and hundreds of dollars worth of dental supplies have been stolen.

Limitations of Fame.

In Professor Knight's reminiscences of Tennyson it is related that on one occasion when the poet laureate was stopping at an inn in the island of Skye the landlord was asked if he knew who had been staying in his house, and on being informed that it was the poet Tennyson, he replied: "Lor, to think o' that! And sure, I thought he was shentleman."

At Stirling some one asked the landlord of the house where the poet was stopping: "Do you ken who you had w' you forther night?" "Naa, but he was a pleasant shentleman."

"It was Tennyson, the poet." "And yha, may be?" "Oh, he is a writer o' verses sich as ye see in the papers." "Noo, to think o' that! Jest a poobly writer, and I gied him ma best bedroom!" But the charms of Mrs. Tennyson, her gracious manners, did not pass unnoticed for the landlord said: "Oh, she was an angel!"

Sunday School Notes

August 3—The Plagues of Egypt—Psalms 105, 22-26, Exodus 7-11. The lesson verses today are taken from that wonderful 105th Psalm of triumph; some of the opening expressions of which are, "O, give thanks unto the Lord, call upon His name," "Sing unto Him, talk of His wonderful works," "Give glory to His holy name." Then follows a history of the Jewish race beginning with Abraham and recounting God's leadings of Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, the deliverance from Egypt, and wonderful keeping of the people in the wilderness. This Psalm is grand indeed, and the Jews did well to sing it and thus give praises to Jehovah their Lord and king. The chapters where the account of the ten plagues visited upon Egypt are set forth in detail, are Exodus 7-11.

In commenting on the lesson last week in which it was told of Moses and Aaron appearing before Pharaoh asking that he let the Jews go, we called attention to the reply of the ruler "Who is the Lord that I should obey His voice?" It was to conquer the proud imperious will of this man and of his people that the plagues came upon Egypt. He and his people were to find out who the Lord was, people and animals. 4. Flies swarm, go. It will be remembered that later in the bible history Elijah called all to witness a test as to the reality of his God, in contrast to the absence of power in the gods of Baal. A great battle for supremacy was now on between the God of the Jews behind Moses and Aaron and the gods of the people of Egypt. We shall see as to the outcome.

The ten plagues visited on Egypt before the power of God was recognized are as follows: 1. The waters of the rivers were turned into blood. 2. Frogs sprang up in vast numbers all over the land. 3. Lice infested people and animals. 4. Flies swarm over the land. 5. Cattle die with disease. 6. Boils fasten on king and people. 7. Hail and fire destroy all crops. 8. Locusts come down on all remaining vegetation. 9. Intense darkness comes on the portion of the land occupied by the Egyptians. 10. The first born in every Egyptian home dies in a single night. During all these plagues the Jews are free from them and the Egyptians affected.

The Egyptians were not passive during the time of the plagues. They called on their religious leaders to drive off the dread things and give relief. Pharaoh many times called for Moses and Aaron and urged them to intercede with God for the then prevailing plague to cease, promising to let the Jews go, but when the evil was gone, his heart became hardened, and he would not give up his slaves.

The experience of Pharaoh is like that of every man or woman who defies God. The outcome is ever the same, defeat for the rebellious and triumph for God's cause. Jesus said that those who opposed His gospel would be ground as to powder, and the world history bears out the truth of the declaration. The question comes to every one who hears the gospel message, "Will I get in line with Christ and the bible commands, or will I fight?" Many chose to the last and put up a struggle to live their own selfish lives, banishing God from their standards of conduct. Pitiful is their condition. They are but like a bird beating its wings against the bars of a strong cage. These acknowledge God's physical laws, and expect to be burned if by accident they come in contact with intense heat; to fall with injury if losing support from a high elevation; to be cold if exposed to icy winds with no protection, but they pay no heed to God's spiritual laws and think to defy them at will.

In looking back we think Pharaoh very foolish not to give up long before he did. He evidently made good resolves and promised to let the Jews go. This however was when the plagues were on with intensity. When relief came he did not have the strength to stand for his word. There are very few persons bent on an evil life who do not have times when they say, "If only I can get rid of the effects of the present sin I will reform." Alas, how often is such a vow broken and the lesson has to be learned over again that "God is not mocked."

I would with this talk try to convince readers that it is no way to oppose God, that a resolve to live as He says, is best; that only by this can true happiness be gained on earth, and for all eternity. The picture of Pharaoh and his plagues is but printed in the bible as an example to you and me. The question comes whether we will heed the lesson or with stubbornness will fight God's reasonable commands and offers of life and help.

Importance of Iowa Swine.

Iowa has more than fourteen per cent. of all the swine in the United States, and in value the amount more than exceeds seventeen per cent. Iowa's population is only two and a quarter million, so that the people of this state consume only a small percentage of the pork produced. At the Iowa State Fair there has always been a great deal of attention paid to swine, because of the fact that swine are such an important factor in the livestock business of the state. There are more swine breeders and more buyers in attendance at Iowa's state fair than at any other fair or livestock show in the country and the exhibit is by far the largest of any in the world.

All Iowa farmers realize the value of swine and know the importance of attending the Iowa State Fair held this year August 20 to 28, where they can make a thorough study of present day conditions.

Iowa Sheep Industry.

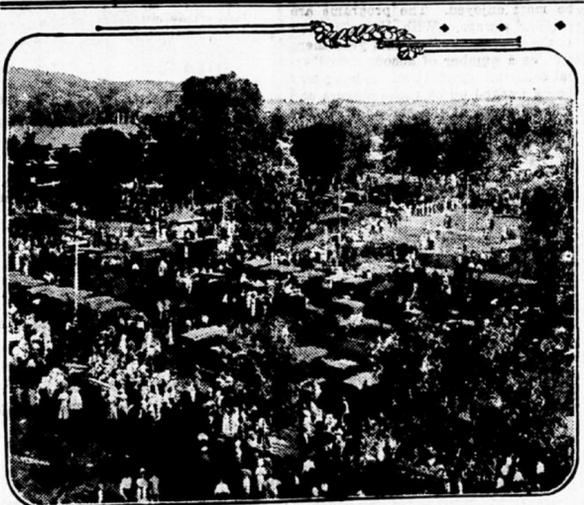

The sheep industry in Iowa has been receiving a great deal of attention in the past few years. The Iowa farmer has found that sheep are profitable and that in these days of high priced feed the sheep are the most economical animals on the farm.

In response to the enlivened interests in the sheep industry of Iowa the Iowa State Fair has been making an especial effort these last few years to have a good sheep show. This year there will be a splendid exhibit of sheep. For the first time in the history of the fair the superintendent in charge of sheep gives his entire attention to this exhibit. Heretofore the superintendent of sheep has also been the superintendent of poultry. The arrangement should result in a more comprehensive exhibition. The sheep men are looking forward to some close contests and a splendid show at the Iowa State Fair to be held at Des Moines, August 20-28.
