

DELOIT ITEMS.

Monday morning we note 10 degrees below zero; the coldest this winter.

Wm. Worley and wife and little boy returned home from their holiday visit last Monday.

Mrs. Edith Mesenbrnk and little daughter, of Denison, visited a few days the past week in and around Deloit.

Mrs. J. L. Miller and Mrs. T. C. Dobson were in Denison Monday afternoon of last week and took supper at the N. L. Hunt home.

Mrs. Eliza Worley visited Tuesday with her daughter, Daisy, in Denison.

Mrs. A. J. Mason and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Willoughby, went to Woodbine a week ago Friday and spent a couple of days visiting their old neighbor when living in Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson drove to Denison last Tuesday.

The Willing Workers met last week Wednesday with Mrs. S. Horr for the election of officers.

Mrs. Ellen Horr was elected president; Mrs. Edna Newcom, vice president; Mrs. J. W. True, secretary, and Mrs. Bessie Myers, treasurer.

Mrs. Julia Brogden and Mrs. Ellen Horr were appointed a committee to solicit for the children's home fund.

This fund is for the purpose of benefitting the orphan children and each pays 5 cents a month or 60 cents a year.

A small amount for each one, but put together it is a great help for a great cause.

The society has been organized four years and has accomplished a great deal of good.

We hope to do better work each year.

Mrs. Geo. Winans has been sick the past week, but we are glad to note she is much improved at present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Riggleman drove to Denison last Thursday.

Charles Brogden took dinner with his daughter and family last Thursday.

Mr. Amos Toine and wife, of near Glidden, autoed to Deloit last Thursday and took Mrs. W. A. Willoughby home with them for a visit.

They were neighbors at Bonesteel, S. D. Mrs. Toine is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whiting.

Mr. Anderson and Miss Slechta, of Boyer, accompanied by two other young people, wended their way to the M. E. parsonage Tuesday last, where Rev. Ralston said the words that united Mr. Anderson and Miss Slechta in the holy bonds of matrimony.

and then they went to Denison in the afternoon.

Mrs. Sarah Newcom returned to her home at Odeboit Friday.

Bert Darling and S. Horr took dinner Thursday with Aunt Jane Johnson. She and her daughter, Celinda, have good luck with poultry and sell a great many eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. James McKim attended the installation of officers at the Odd Fellow lodge in Denison Friday evening.

Mrs. Scott McKim and little granddaughter, of Des Moines, are visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. G. S. Jordan, and among other relatives.

Miss Ruth Jordan entertained a few of her young friends Friday evening.

Mr. Pankow's sale is held today with a large attendance, on what is known as the T. C. Dobson farm.

Lloyd Winans and family will soon locate there, Mr. Winans having bought the farm.

Frank Barrett and wife, of Denison, were over Sunday guests at the parental, Mrs. G. S. Jordan, home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson visited over Sunday at the Mrs. Eliza Worley home.

Ralph Beaman had a narrow escape from a fire when he found his sitting room rug ablaze, the blaze reaching nearly to the ceiling.

The rug caught fire from the heating stove and it and two smaller ones were ruined. His wife was in Denison and he was very lucky to be at home.

Mrs. Anna Schwantz and family spent Sunday at the home of her brother, Bert Darling.

The primary school opened last week after vacation. The higher room began Monday.

Send at once for his Book, Examination Chart, Opinion and Free Treatment. Describe your disease. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, Dept. HA 848 to 858 Main Street, Elkhart, Ind 2-3t

At present writing it is much better. Mr. Houlihan, of near Dow City, is spending a few days at Deloit.

He and his family contemplate moving on their farm near Deloit this spring.

Mrs. John D. Newcom will take the chromo for having the earliest brood of young chicks in 1914.

It is hard to beat Mrs. Newcom in poultry raising.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. True, Mr. Bordner and daughter, Anna, were entertained at dinner Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Newcom.

Mrs. Blanche McCubbins and husband moved into one of the A. M. Justice houses on the farm.

Her father, John Taylor, and family will live in the other house when they get located on the same farm.

We are indebted to Mrs. J. W. True for a lovely bouquet of roses at the L. D. S. church services Sunday.

J. W. True and Mr. Byrnes were in Omaha Friday in the interests of our short course.

The Ladies' Aid society held their supper in the hall Saturday evening. It was well attended.

Mrs. Eleanor Ellis, mother of Mrs. S. F. Wedlock, who lived with her daughter here a number of years and is above 90 years of age, died January 6th at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Helen Goff, at Cherokee.

She was preceded by her thirty-five year old son who has many friends here who will kindly remember her.

The body of Guy Baker, deceased, arrived Monday morning from their home in Nevada. He was the husband of Mrs. Ethel Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Huckstep.

His death was due to heart failure. The body was accompanied by his wife and baby and Wm. Cook and wife.

We have not learned the particulars. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 1 o'clock p. m. at the Methodist church Rev. Ralston officiating.

Mrs. Baker has the sympathy of her many friends here in her bereavement.

Irma, the youngest child of Harry Childress, was quite ill, but is reported much better.

Jesse Shives fell from a load of hay, breaking his arm, which was very well attended by Dr. Smith. What would we do without a doctor?

Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Smith took supper with Mr. and Mrs. Joe True Sunday evening.

Clair McKim and wife came up on Saturday evening to the home of J. L. Miller. Clair returned Sunday noon to his duties in Omaha, while his wife remains to visit for a week or ten days.

The friends of Mrs. Geo. Winans will be pleased to learn that she is rapidly improving from her recent illness.

Guy Martin went to Avoca to spend Sunday with his family.

Wm. Steuck, the young druggist, visited at the H. Fink home Sunday.

The Brotherhood of American Yeomen met last Wednesday evening and installed the following officers for the ensuing year: E. McNeal, foreman; U. S. Dunbar, M. C.; James Spence, Chaplain; Mrs. Benjie Winans, Correspondent.

The remaining offices were filled by appointment. After the installing ceremonies by J. W. True, who was appointed by the supreme office to act as installing officer, a beautiful lunch was served to the families and a few invited guests by the members.

to God in the highest, on earth peace and good will toward men." Here on this earth is where we are to have peace and brotherly love and the disciple who will not "Do as ye would be done by" is a moral coward, a pretender or does not understand what he is here for.

Sunday School Notes

Jan. 18--The Good Samaritan. Luke 10, 25-27.

We have for our lesson this week one of the greatest of the parables given by Jesus, to show us the true nature of the "kingdom of God," and which He came to earth to establish.

The parables of the Prodigal Son and the Lost Sheep are more often spoken of, but these are no more important than the one we consider today.

It may be well to remember that in the days of Jesus there were many bright men, well educated in the laws of the Old Testament, and who were most anxious to obtain from Him words which could be used to damage Him with the Jewish church, and the people generally.

It will be remembered that at the trial of Jesus He asked His accusers to point out some words or acts which made Him worthy of death, but none could be found.

This is of importance, as showing His divine nature, and absolute correctness of speech and act. There was ever a desire to have Him say things contrary to the laws of Moses and thus show He was not the Son of God.

An astute lawyer came to Jesus one day with the question, "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" Jesus did not attempt to give a new rule, but simply asked the man how the Jewish law read in answer to the question.

The lawyer thus addressed promptly quoted a short sentence which in compact form told one's duty to God and man. He said, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Jesus then said he had answered well, adding, "Do this and thou shalt live." The lawyer wishing to further engage the Master in conversation asked, "Who is my neighbor?" and then Jesus gave the parable of the Good Samaritan.

Although most of my readers may know of the details of this parable, I will refresh their recollection briefly. Jesus related to the experience of a man who went down from Jerusalem to Jericho a distance, by the way, of about eighteen miles.

While on the journey he fell among thieves who took his clothing, beat him and left him nearly dead in the road. Not long after a Jewish priest passed along the way and forgetting his duty under the law of Moses to help and succor one of his race and religion, proceeded on.

Again a Levite, a member of the tribe from which priests and temple helpers came, in his journey arrived and viewing the situation, either from fear of harm to himself or failure to do his duty, passed by, leaving the injured one. Lastly there came a resident of Samaria on his animal. Such as he, no Jew would associate with, for there was a feud between them dating back hundreds of years.

It is certain that no Jew would defile himself by even touching a Samaritan. Despite this the last traveler had compassion on the wounded man, dressed his wounds, put him on his beast, walked himself to the next inn. At this he placed the sufferer in the hands of the keeper, making an advanced payment of nurse hire and promising to pay more later, if needed.

Jesus asked the lawyer, "Who was neighbor to the man who fell among thieves?" The reply could be no other than "he that showed mercy on him." Jesus ended the conversation by saying, "Go and do thou likewise."

The Christian religion calls for just such conduct in life as that of the man who was kind even to the enemies of his countrymen. It is easy enough to help a relative, close friend, fellow member of an order, member of the church, but it takes the grace of God in the heart to assist an enemy or a stranger.

It is of the very essence of christianity to be helpful to all, no matter who they be. It will be remembered that Jesus commended those who had even given a cup of water in His name, or visited the sick, clothed the poor or been kindly to those in prison.

Let it be remembered that it is only where the religion of Jesus is known and practiced that compassion for the poor and unfortunate is found. It is the gospel of Jesus which leads men to build and equip homes for the insane and blind, hospitals for the sick.

In this way are christians heeding the teachings of Jesus in the parable of the Good Samaritan.

Even the best of people have to struggle against narrowness in helpfulness. I have known of even ministers and their wives who have not called on the sick at their very door because the helpless one was not a member of "my church."

It is not so hard to give succor to one in our class of society, but to love the weak and degraded sufficiently to with willingness help them, requires the Christ love in the heart.

It is the highest tribute which a person can have given him or her that they are typical of the Good Samaritan. Happily everyone can be such. It requires not wealth or station, but only putting away selfishness and seeking daily and hourly chances to be helpful to our fellow men.

Let us remember that love to God is not sufficient in His sight, if love to our neighbor is not only felt and practiced

A. D. Jones Sale of Big

Type Poland Chinas

To Be Held in a Well Heated Pavilion at Dunlap, Ia.,

Saturday, January 31, 1914

70 Big Type Poland Chinas 70

Leaders in Size and Quality

I will close out my whole herd of Big Type Poland Chinas. The entire herd is immune, having been treated with the double method or simultaneous vaccination. They are proof against cholera for a life time.

This will be one of the greatest sales of the year. I am putting in this sale what all breeders would reserve for breeding purposes, my immense herd headers of massive boars and sows that no breeder would think of parting with were they intending to continue in the business.

This sale is rendered necessary on account of failing health, as nothing would please me better than to continue this breeding of a herd that I am proud of. Some of these that go in the sale I have refused to sell at any price. Boars with 11 inch bone on great feet combining size and quality, nothing better, nothing greater, nothing more royal in Big Types.

Write for catalog. It tells all about this great offering
