STATE UNIVERSITY ANNUAL BANQUET

Large Attendance at Banquet Held in Library Friday Evening by Graduates and Friends.

CHIEF ADDRESS BY PROF. SMITH

Strong Appeal in Behalf of University and Strong Impression Made Upon the Young People.

The Iowa State university received a boost on Friday night, the occasion being the annual alumni banquet which was held at the Carnegie club rooms with a good attendance of graduates and friends of the institution. Professor Smith, at the head of the department of mathematics in the institution, was present and spoke in behalf of the good work which the university is doing.

Mr. Kuehnle, a former graduate of the academic department and later of the law department, happily presided as toastmaster on the occasion. A number of short addresses were made by former graduates of the institution. John P. Woodruff, of the class of 1907, responded to the toast "The University from a Farmer's Viewpoint," and presented very convincing arguments that a university education is helpful to the farmer and that the State university is the place to secure an education.

Mrs. Harry Carpenter, of the class of 1902, responded to the toast "University Jingles" in a happily written poem, which captivated all present. Mrs. Carpenter is attracting more than ordinary attention on account of her literary productions and this one but added to her reputation as a poetess.

Frank Woolston, of the civil engineering class of 1894, treated the subject, "Why Iowans Should Go to the University." This was perhaps Mr. Woolston's first appearance as a public speaker in Denison and he suddenly blossomed out as a first class orator. His address was pronounced by all a great success.

Miss Fanny B. Hayes, of the liberal arts class of 1906, talked on "University Atmosphere" and in the ten minutes she devoted to the subject dispelled the rumors which have been set afloat that the moral atmosphere of the university was not up to the proper standard. Her address was a thoughtful production and no doubt will overcome any rumor which may have been set afloat in this community that there is not a good moral atmosphere at the university.

J. P. Conner, of the law class of 1873, talked briefly, mentioning the names of some of the teachers and graduates of that class, showing that a number of the graduates have made good records for themselves. While he recognized the good work of other colleges, he favored building up a great seat of learning at Iowa City, regardless of expense.

Prof. C. E. Humphrey, of the class of 1912, talked on "The University, the Head of Our Educational System." The address of Prof. Humphrey was exceptionally interesting and backed by statistics which furnished a favorable showing for our State university in comparison with others. He testified his loyalty to Iowa in a manner which created considerable enthusiasm.

The chief address of the evening was made by Prof. A. G. Smith, the subject being, "The Old University and the New." The remarks of Professor Smith were very much appreciated, as many of those who listened to him were personal friends of his, growing out of their relations at the university. He made a strong appeal in behalf of the university and no doubt made a deep impression upon the young people who were present. He pointed out that the last few years has witnessed a complete change in buildings and equipment for effective work at the university. The old university has passed away and a new one has taken its place. Many of the teachers who ranked high as educators have passed away and have been succeeded by the very best talent which good salaries can secure. Nothing has been spared to procure the very best teachers for the university and its future has never looked as bright as at this time.

The young men and young women of the senior class of the high school were invited to attend the banquet in order that they might hear what might be said respecting the opportunities for doing effective work at the State university. They, no doubt, were convinced by what they heard that our own State university offers as fine opportunities as any of the colleges of the country.

The closing feature of the occasion was the furnishing of a number of views of the university buildings and grounds at Iowa City thrown upon the canvas. Prof. W. C. VanNess had charge of this feature, which was of decided interest.

The occasion was one long to be remembered on account of the enthusiasm that developed in behalf of an

WILL LECTURE ON HOG CHOLERA

Prof. Kennedy, of Ames College, Will Send Three Expert Veterinarians to Denison for Lectures.

DATES TO BE ANNOUNCED LATER

Subject is One of Vital Interest to Crawford County Farmers and All Should Attend Lectures

Crawford county farmers will have an opportunity to attend some interesting lectures in Denison in the near future along hog cholera lines. W. J. Kennedy, director of the Iowa State college, has written to M. E. Jones, cashier of the Crawford County State bank, to the effect that the extension department of the Iowa State college is very anxious to do everything in their power to cut down the losses through the ravages of hog cholera during the present year. He writes that the department has three well trained veterinarians and that the department stands ready to send these men at the college's expense to Crawford county, providing that forty or more farmers will attend the meeting.

Mr. Jones has taken the matter up with a number of business men and farmers who are of the opinion that farmers generally throughout the county would be more than glad to attend such a meeting in Denison and consequently Mr. Jones has written to Mr. Kennedy asking that the three veterinarians be sent to Denison at an early date. As yet no reply has been received from the extension department, but doubtless the Review will be able to announce the date of their visit in the next issue.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss the symptoms of hog cholera, the serum method of treatment for preventing the same and the necessary precautions to be observed from the standpoint of sanitation.

Reports received by the Agricultural Extension department of the Iowa State college from more than 1,150 bank cashiers, representing almost every part of every one of the 99 counties of the state, show that farmers of Iowa, through the ravages of hog cholera during the year 1913, lost over $33,000,000. The actual number of hogs lost through cholera was 2,827,907, and are valued at $28,279,070. In all 2,470,492 hogs were marketed at a sacrifice due to cholera

NEW COUNCIL IS SWORN IN OFFICE

Councilmen Elect Take Oath of Office, Administered by Mayor Laub
on Monday, April 6th.

MAYOR MAKES APPOINTMENTS

All Old Appointees Re-Appointed and Bonds Approved—Park Commissioners Same As Before.

Monday of this week was administration day at the Mayor's office in the city hall. Promptly at nine o'clock the old council met and transacted such business as was necessary in order that the work of the year ending with March 31st might be completed. Aside from a few minor matters the feature of the meeting was the drawing of the salaries by the different councilmen. The law provides that the councilmen be paid $1.00 per meeting of the council not to exceed fifty meetings during the year. The old council of course held many meetings above the limit but received pay for only fifty. After closing up the business for the fiscal year the newly elected officers took the oath of their respective offices and work on the new term was officially begun.

Justice of the Peace, Henry Blesman called and administered the oath of office to Mayor Laub, who in turn swore in the different councilmen. After calling the council to order the clerk was elected as was the city solicitor, after which Mayor Laub announced his appointments and named his committees.

At twelve o'clock the council adjourned to meet at two o'clock as a Board of Review and Assessor Halver Norman being on hand the board immediately began the canvass of his books. There were few changes in the assessor's work and the board adjourned shortly after the noon hour on Tuesday.

The appointments as named by Mayor Laub are as follows:

Marshall, A. C. Weeks.
Deputy Marshall, M. J. Burke.
Nightwatch, A. C. Greene
Street Commissioner, N. P. Cavett
The officers appointed by the council were:
City Solicitor, T. V. Walker.
City Clerk, E. F. Tucker.
City Engineer, H. B. Fishel
The bonds of the appointees were approved at the meeting of the council Monday night.
The different councilmen drew com-

mitteeships as follows:

Street committee—J. H. Tamm, H. W. Moeller, J. H. Hayes.
Water & Sewer—Hal Simpson, H. W. Moeller, J. H. Tamm, Fire & Light—J. H. Tamm, Thomas Nielsen, J. H. Hayes.
Nuisances—H. W. Moeller, J. H. Hayes, Hal Simpson
Auditing—Thos. Nielsen, J. H. Tamm, H. W. Moeller, Hal C. Simpson and J. H. Hayes.

The park commission is the same as last year, the membership being made up of Mayor Laub chairman, Thomas Nielsen and W. C. Rollins.

Congressman Connelly

We notice in the daily despatches that Congressman Connelly has announced himself as a candidate for the United States Senate on the democratic ticket in opposition to Senator Cummins, who is a candidate on the republican ticket to succeed himself. Fred White, who some time ago announced himself as a candidate on the democratic ticket has withdrawn, giving as a reason a condition of health which would not permit him to actively engage in making a canvass. We have thought all along that Fred White was too old and infirm to make the race and he is too much of a back number politically to cut much of a swath.

Congressman Connelly on the other hand is perhaps too young to aspire to a position of this importance, although he has made a good record as a congressman and probably could succeed himself without any trouble. Senator Cummins will run as a republican this year, although two years ago he bolted the republican national ticket and platform. He may have since then experienced a change of heart and intends to be regular, but there are a great many republicans who are in doubt on this question.

We predict before the primary is held that the republicans of the state will be disposed to vote for candidates in the republican column while democrats will be as loyal to their column upon the primary ballot. Politics is a great game when in the hands of expert politicians and we expect to see a fine exhibition game this year.

On Thursday evening, April 2d, the music pupils of the Denison Normal & Business college, under the direction of Miss Lillie Raine, gave a recital at the college chapel. The program consisted of seventeen numbers, each of which was much enjoyed and beautifully rendered. All those who participated deserved much praise. We regret that lack of space prevents mentioning each number separately.

SECOND WEEK OF DISTRICT COURT

Carl and Frank Segebart Plead Guilty to Interfering With Telephone Operation at Manila.

JOHN COOK WINS WILL CASE

Contest Over Will of Mother of John
Cook Ended After Much Evidence Was Introduced.

The second week of district court finds itself engaged in the trial of jury cases, the first week of the term having been devoted to the trial of equity cases and the disposition of one or two criminal matters.

A criminal case, in which the grand jury returned an indictment at this term, was that of state of Iowa vs Carl and Frank Segebart, two young men living north of Manila, who were charged in the indictment with chopping down trees, causing them to fall on telephone wires, which interfered with the operation of the telephone. The charge was made that the defendants acted maliciously in doing what they did. When brought into court to answer the indictment the defendants admitted their guilt and had the plea of guilty entered, whereupon the court assessed against each of them a fine of $25 and costs, which they immediately settled. We presume the experience will prove a lesson to the young men and a warning to other persons.

The case of Grill vs Dieter was also disposed of last week in part and the trial of the case finished on Tuesday night. This action was brought by Mr. Grill to foreclose a mechanic's lien and the controversy was chiefly over the amount which the plaintiff should recover. The court has not yet decided the case, but will probably render its decision before the adjournment of the term.

A jury case which was concluded today was that of Squires against Cook, a contest over the will of their mother, Mrs. Squires and Mr. Cook being brother and sister. The will had been admitted to probate at a prior term, after which Mrs. Squires brought suit against her brother to set the probate aside, charging him with undue influence over his mother at the time of making the will. She also claimed that her mother was a very old woman at the time the will was made and did not possess suffi-
